U.S. Ponders Waging War On Violence

Administration Spokesmen Cite Danger From Unrest on Campuses

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration, using the observance of "Law Day 1969" as a forum, has renewed its attacks on campus violence.

Justice Department officials, headed by Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, fanned out across the country to speak at Law Day ceremonies Thursday and demand an end to student disorders.

Picking up the theme President Nixon outlined earlier in the week, Mitchell demanded that university officials and local law officials put an end to the student violence.

"Violence and dissatisfaction on our college campuses are a serious threat to our system of law, a threat as disturbing as the violence in our cities," Mitchell said to the Detroit, Mich., Bar Association annual Law Day dinner.

The administration has tried to be patient in the face of continuing campus chaos, Mitchell said, but "the time has come for an end to patience.

"The time has come for us to demand, in the strongest possible terms, that university officials, local enforcement agencies and local courts apply the law," Mitchell declared.

"If arrests must be made, then arrests should be," he said. "If violators must be prosecuted, then prosecutions should be."

Necessary Action

Nixon, in a Tuesday speech to the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, called on college administrators to take the necessary action to stop campus violence or see an end to the American education system.

Mitchell, who attacked student militants as "nothing but tyrants," was joined in the assault by two key aides—Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst and Asst. Atty. Gen. William H. Rehnquist—who made Law Day speeches in Washington and Newark, Del., respectively.

Kleindienst referred to militants as "ideological criminals" and Rehnquist labeled them "the new barbarians."

The emphasis was on local law officials and college heads ending the campus problem. But the administration officials did not rule out future federal intervention, although there were no indications of quick action.

Federal law as it now stands, Mitchell said, leaves prosecution to state and local authorities except when militants cross state lines to incite riots, a violation of the 1968 Civil Rights Act.

Asked at a news conference if broader federal jurisdiction would be sought, Mitchell said "We have the matter constantly under consideration."

"I'm sure," he added, "that it's not beyond the realm of possibility that we could recommend legislation to Congress in this area."

Hearings to Start

As Mitchell spoke in Detroit there were voices on Capitol Hill calling for Senate investigations and grand jury probes and suggesting the country may be in the initial stages of revolution.

Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., announced that the Senate's permanent investigation subcommittee will start hearings in about a month on campus disorders.

Federal grand jury probes were urged by Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., in areas where there have been college disturbances. He said evidence indicates "that there is an active, aggressive national conspiracy" to disrupt "the peace and dignity of the academic communities."

Wilson Said To be Facing Ouster Move

'No Confidence' Vote Imminent?

LONDON (AP) — Political sources say an attempt from within his own Labor Party to replace Prime Minister Harold Wilson may be imminent.

Reports of a plot against Wilson by some of his former Cabinet ministers and other backbench MPs are circulating in the lobbies of the House of Commons and appeared today on front pages of most major newspapers.

One report said the rebels were discussing whether to bring a vote of no confidence against the prime minister at an early meeting of the Labor Party members in Commons.

Strike Legislation

The immediate sore point is Wilson's insistence on pushing through Parliament this summer laws to curb the wildcat strikes crippling British exports. The party's traditional cornerstone of political support, the trade union movement, is fighting the legislation tooth and nail.

In Wilson's nearly five years in office plots to replace him have often been reported but never have developed into a real threat. Political informants said the situation appeared different this time on at least three counts.

1. Criticism of Wilson and his antistrike bills is more open in parliamentary lobbies than on earlier occasions and no longer emanates mainly from factions backing a potential rival.

2. The criticism is more widespread than before. It is said to include not only the party's dissident left wing, long a nuisance to Wilson, but also some of the center. Varying accounts put Wilson's critics at between 30 and 100 members.

3. For the first time, supporters of various potential successors to Wilson are now prepared to unite behind any one man who appears to have the best chance. Those most prominently mentioned are Home Secretary James Callagahan, a past opponent of the strike control proposals; Defense Secretary Denis Healey and Chancellor of the Exchequer Roy Jenkins.

The strategy of the dissidents is to force a change in the party leadership from within rather than to defeat the government in Commons and force a general election. It is generally acknowledged that in an election now, Labor would lose badly and many of the dissident MPs would lose their seats in Commons.

Wilson has been gambling all along that his unpopular austerity measures will right the economy before April 1971, when he has to call an election. His opponents believe Labor must turn to a new man who can unite the party and the unions.

No Immediate Attack?

Nixon's Hunger Plans Questioned in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top Nixon administration officials have been asked by a special Senate committee to explain an alleged White House decision against an immediate broad attack on hunger in the nation.

Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., chairman of the hunger committee, said Thursday invitations to appear before the panel next week went to Clifford M. Hardin, secretary of agriculture; Robert H. Finch, secretary of health, education and welfare, and Budget Director Robert P. Mayo.

Announcement of the action came shortly after the committee's ranking Republican, Sen. Jacob K. Javits, urged the GOP administration to increase the fight against hunger this year.

"Deeply Disturbing"

The New York senator cited "authoritative reports that the administration does not propose to increase materially the federal food assistance program to the nation's poor beyond the present level of slightly more than $1.5 billion.

"This is a deeply disturbing development if indeed such a decision has been made by the White House," Javits added.

The White House has not officially announced whether such a step has been taken.

"I would hope very much that it has not yet been taken and that the subject will be most carefully reviewed in terms of what should be our national priorities," Javits said.

The senator has been making behind-the-scene efforts to convince the administration of the need for a vigorous hunger program. An aide indicated Javits decided to speak out publicly only after being advised on the highest possible levels that such a program could not be undertaken at this time.

"Appalling Conditions"

Javits, referring to reports that some administration officials are not convinced hunger is a critical problem, said:

"I would hope that they will go out into the field, as I've done, to see the widespread, appalling conditions of hunger that demand much more comprehensive measures involving much greater expenditures than they now seem to have in mind."

President Nixon told Congress last month he intends to propose innovative programs to deal with the hunger problem. But his revision of former President Lyndon B. Johnson's budget added only $15 million for nutrition education to previously proposed programs.

Javits supported proposals by McGovern to give free food stamps to families with monthly incomes of less than $80.

S. Vietnam Unsure About NLF's 'Offer'

SAIGON (AP) — Pham Dang Lam, South Vietnam's chief delegate to the Paris peace talks, said today that more details are needed from the National Liberation Front to determine whether a statement its representative made in Paris this week means the Viet Cong are prepared for private talks with the Saigon government.

Tran Buu Kiem of the NLF said Wednesday at the weekly peace talks session that "on the basis of its position," the NLF is "ready to enter into discussion with the other parties so as to make the conference move forward."

Lam, returning home for consultations, was asked by newsmen whether this statement was a response to President Nguyen Van Thieu's offer March 25 to hold secret talks with the NLF. Lam hesitated, then replied "Not exactly. You know we need more precisions."

Lam thus did not reject speculation that Kiem's statement might indicate a more receptive attitude toward Thieu's invitation.

No Breakthrough

However, in answer to another question, Lam said there had been no "breakthrough" in the Paris talks. He said there was no special reason for his return to Saigon: "It is normal that I would have consultations."

A government spokesman said earlier that Lam would be back in Paris before next Thursday's session.

The government spokesman also was asked about Kiem's statement and said the government is waiting for "acts instead of words."

President Gets Top Derby Seat

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — President Nixon will have one of the best seats in the house for viewing the Kentucky Derby Saturday — in the private box of Gov. Louie B. Nunn overlooking the finish line.

The management of Churchill Downs also is providing him with a special program bound in hand-tooled leather.

A room for the President and his party has been set aside near the fourth floor press box. It has betting windows, thick green carpeting, 16 tables each with 16 chairs and a washroom for each sex.

Disgruntled Patients

Malpractice Suits on Rise

BY CHARLES G. McDANIEL
Associated Press Science Writer

Malpractice suits filed by patients against doctors are contributing to the increased cost of medical care in the United States.

Rates on malpractice insurance for doctors have soared across the country and the increased costs are borne, at least in part, by the patient.

Statistics show that one doctor out of every six of the 300,000 in the United States has been, or is being, sued for malpractice. Last year, doctors paid $75 million in malpractice insurance premiums.

Some $18 million was paid in awards to patients in 1968, according to Bernard D. Hirsh, general counsel of the American Medical Association. Legal fees added to the costs.

William F. Martin, a New York lawyer, said in a paper recently before the National Medicolegal Symposium in Las Vegas: "Spokesman both for the medical profession and the insurance industry agree that the higher rates are caused by the increased number of malpractice suits being filed by disgruntled patients and the larger settlements being made both in and out of court."

Doctors and lawyers say that today's society is more permissive and citizens are more prone to sue, so the problem is not limited to the medical profession.

The Insurance Information Institute in New York says premiums on malpractice insurance are up 47 per cent over a year ago.

An AMA survey also found instances in 14 states in which physicians were unable to obtain malpractice insurance.

The institute, in a recent announcement of rate revisions, stated that from 1959 through 1963, insurance companies paid $140 for every $100 received in premiums from physicians. For surgeons it was $151 for every $100.

Recent revisions upped malpractice rates in 27 states, while reducing them in two.

The increases ranged from 10 per cent in four states to 75 per cent in Montana and Ohio and 100 per cent in Vermont. Rates in six states went up 50 to 60 per cent.

Rates were reduced 10 per cent in New Hampshire and 15 per cent in Oregon.

Rates for hospitals maintaining liability insurance likewise are rising.

There are other patient costs, too, engendered by extra-cautious—and perhaps unnecessary —tests, a committee of the AMA trustees reported.

There are no recent statistics to show whether there has been an increase in malpractice suits filed, but many doctors, lawyers and insurance men say there has been.

Martin cited these cases as examples of the trend toward higher awards:

A woman in Florida received a $1.5 million verdict in an anesthesia mishap; $1.4 million to a California man similarly injured, and $1.25 million to a New Mexico boy whose scalp was severely burned in treatment for ringworm.

The cost of malpractice suits to the 21 municipal hospitals in New York City more than doubled in one year—from $356,900 in 1965 to $753,850 in 1966.

Some physicians pay $12,000 to $15,000 a year for maxi-

Clifford Says He Disagreed With Johnson

Vietnam Policy Hopeless, Former Top Aide Claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — Clark M. Clifford, a strong supporter of U.S. Vietnam policy when he became the Johnson administration's defense chief in 1968, has said he left office convinced the war was hopeless, sources say.

Clifford, secretary of defense from Jan. 30, 1968 until President Johnson left office earlier this year, declared his disillusionment to some Senate Foreign Relations Committee members called together by Sen. J. W. Fulbright, sources said.

Fulbright, one of the strongest critics of the nation's Vietnam involvement, called the meeting April 22, the sources said, after learning of Clifford's change of heart.

Clifford, one of President Johnson's closest associates, entered the Defense Department publicly committed to the idea that the American intervention was necessary, not only to save South Vietnam, but to prevent the takeover of other non-Communist nations in Southeast Asia.

"Question of Weeks"

Clifford made his views clear when he told a Senate committee considering his appointment Jan. 25, 1968:

"To me it is not a question of years, it is a question of weeks and months, if we weren't there, until Southeast Asia, nation by nation, succumbed. That is not happening now, in my opinion, because we are there and because we have extended this shield and I believe we must continue to do it."

But at the meeting last month, the sources said, he told the senators he left office in disagreement with many of former President Johnson's Vietnam policies and convinced the Domino theory that the fall of Vietnam would lead to the takeover of other nations was fallacious.

In addition, Clifford told the senators he didn't feel President Nixon had tried hard enough to extricate the United States from Vietnam.

The sources also said Clifford's statements were one of the reasons behind a call Thursday by Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., for the United States to start an immediate withdrawal of troops from the war zone.

Groppi Vows Capitol Vigil

Picket Lines Due To Protest Cuts In Welfare Budget

MADISON (AP) - The Rev. James Groppi, Militant white civil rights leader, announced today that picket lines will be set up at the state Capitol Saturday to protest proposed cuts in welfare budgets.

Groppi told a news conference the protest would end when welfare cuts have been restored by the legislature and signed into law by Gov. Warren P. Knowles.

"The pressure will be determined by the response of the legislature," the Milwaukee priest said. He added he could not say whether the protest would include sit-ins.

Groppi and Mrs. Vel Phillips, a Negro member of the Milwaukee Common Council, disclosed plans for the protest across the street from the Capitol in Grace Episcopal Church.

Church Support

Groppi and Mrs. Phillips said they hoped to rally the support of Madison church groups behind the effort.

Participants in the demonstration will come "from all over the state--not just Milwaukee," said Groppi, who rose to prominence as a leader of civil rights protests during Milwaukee's summer of unrest in 1967.

To date, the Joint Finance Committee has cut about $160 million from the Republican governor's $1.6 billion budget. The cuts include more than $20 million in proposed welfare spending.

Father-Son Team

Auctioneers at Chilton Total Careers for 75-Year Record

BY ALICE CONNORS
Post-Crescent Correspondent

CHILTON — The father-son team of A.J. Thiel and his son Randy, both of route 1, have a combined total of more than 75 years as auctioneers.

The senior member of the team proudly uses the title of Colonel which was commonly bestowed on graduates of auctioneer schools in earlier years.

He held his first auction at a school bazaar when he was 18 years old.

Randy got into the team when he started a real estate business with his father in 1946 after completing service in the Navy. He also auctioneers with his father and works the ring with the cattle.

Learns Lingo

Col. Thiel learned the lingo and bark of the auctioneer by practicing in the barn at night after chores. He had a hired man work the cattle in a ring and pretend to bid while Thiel spieled out lingo to learn the technique.

Thiel said members of a railroad section crew that passed the farm home on their way home from work thought that "That poor young Thiel boy was going off his rocker."

After auctioneering several years A. J. went to Milwaukee and practiced his trade for well-known horse dealers besides doing farming.

Expands Work

Gradually he started doing farm and household auctions. "Those days," remarked Thiel, "horses sold for $250 apiece, a good team over $500." From 1947 through 1949 was the busiest time of Thiel's career. Farms that sold for $10,000 were considered big then, he said. "Now," said Thiel, "auctions range anywhere from $20,000 to $40,000 with close to 100 head of cattle and good equipment."

Thiel had his first big farm sale when he was 24 years old at a farm in Gravesville owned by Frank Bowe.

When Thiel started selling horses, he sometimes had auctions every day and his throat became so hoarse and raw his wife got a special preparation from a doctor for Thiel to inhale at night. Although hoarse, his voice would clear when he started barking, said Thiel.

Modern Sales

Modern sales, Thiel says, use loudspeaker systems. This saves the auctioneer's voice.

In early days farmers holding auctions would provide bushel baskets of sandwiches and milk cans of coffee for those attending, said Thiel.

He said people would come with the whole family traveling in a buggy. Because of advanced means of travel and communication people now travel from greater areas to auctions, he said.

Memories of Past Auctions are recorded in ledgers of a Chilton auctioneering team, A. J. Thiel and his son, Randy. The two have a combined total of more than 75 years of spieling at sales throughout Wisconsin. (Connors Photo)

Wisconsin Cheese in Limelight at Festival

Wisconsin cheese was in the limelight recently in Baltimore during Wisconsin Cheese Festival Week. The festival was sponsored by the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the state's cheese industry and the American Dairy Association of Wisconsin.

During the highly successful festival, 800 Baltimore area stores sold approximately one million pounds of cheese, representing 10 million pounds of world-famous Wisconsin milk.

Federal Survey

Economic Benefits of Farm Life Overrated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cent survey showed that fewer Agriculture Department says than five per cent of the very people who live in the country poor farmers (incomes of less frequently do not have the great than $1,000) in the Ozarks and economic advantage over city Mississippi Delta had home gardwellers that some experts dens. claim.

"And even those with gardens

A report by the Economic Research Service suggests that rural America—which includes about half of the nation's poverty level families—too often has been painted as a place where people have numerous fringe benefits which offset income problems.

"It's generally assumed that money goes farther in the country than it does in the city, but ERS economists doubt that it goes as far as present definitions of poverty assume," the report said.

Formula Cited

Under one formula cited, the ERS said, a family of four living in a city is considered "poor" if its income totals only $3,200 a year and would be eligible for public assistance.

"But if this same family moved to a farm, its income would have to drop another $1,000 before it could qualify for assistance," the report said.

The officials said that farm families' food bills are thought to be about 30 per cent lower than those of urban families because of a 1965 survey showing that home-grown foods represented about that proportion of farm diets.

Food Reduced

"But not every farm family is able to grow its own food," the ERS report said. "In fact, a re- usually didn't produce any meat or poultry—important but expensive parts of a good diet.

Thus, while homegrown food is present in part of the rural population, officials said, it does not provide as much as existing poverty definitions assume.

High Bills

Transportation costs also are higher in rural areas, the ERS said as well as utility bills in many less densely populated areas.

"Medical bills, too, often loom larger for the self-employed farmer who must meet his family's medical expenses with out-of-pocket cash, while the city dweller often gets fringe medical benefits along with his job."

Budget Guides Can Aid Farm Planning

Wisconsin farmers can evaluate the profitability of expansion or change in a farm enterprise by consulting guides which show what is currently taking place on the more efficient Wisconsin farms.

Entitled Wisconsin Farm Enterprise Budgets, the guides have been developed by university extension agents and specialists to aid farmers with planning.

Budget Content

The budgets show the production, resource requirements, and profitability of a relatively efficient enterprise. They also provide information about the expected quantity of production, kinds and quantity of feed required, operating expenses, building and equipment requirements, and labor requirements for farm situations.

A farmer wishing to evaluate his farm operation can check an enterprise budget approximating his own farm conditions. He also can use the budgets as a goal or for planning.

Enterprise budgets show how much can be gained by expansion for particular situations. However, the user should note that comparisons are based on standard budgets. Using different prices and feed requirements, for example, would result in different levels of returns.

Individual Data

The budgets are guides and should be modified for individual farm conditions if better information is available. Comparisons with enterprise budgets and the decision to expand the farm enterprise should be worked out on an individual farm basis.

Farm enterprise budgets currently are available for dairy cows and replacements, swine, sheep, and beef cow herds. Budgets for cattle feeding, field and forage crops, farm forest enterprise and planning prices are being developed.

Outagamie Contest

Youngsters Match Skills for Cattle Judging Team Posts

Young brows furrowed and pencils scratched Saturday as 54 4-H Club and FFA members judged Guernsey and Holstein cows in the annual Outagamie County Dairy Judging Contest.

Guernsey judging was at the Robert Kimball farm, route 1, Seymour, and Holstein judging at the George Schaumberg farm, route 3, Seymour.

The entrants were competing for the chance to be members of the county junior and senior judging teams. Members of the junior judging team are from 9 to 12 years old and senior judging team members are from 13 to 19 years old.

Scoring Basis

Entrants are scored on the basis of correct placings, said Russell Luckow, Outagamie County agriculture agent. Luckow said 10 to 15 members will be selected as finalists for both teams. Final teams of four members each will be selected after further practice by the finalists.

The youngsters will compete June 26 in district 4-H judging contest at Antigo against teams from about 25 other counties. The district champion will compete for the state title at the state fair and the right to national contests at he Dairy Cattle Show, Waterloo, Iowa.

The youngsters competing compare the animal judged with the ideal of the breed, said Luckow.

During judging, students learn to observe characteristics of animals, to compare the animals with the "ideal" of the breed, and to decide and place the animals, said Luckow.

He said dairy judging techniques learned for contests can be valuable to young farmers. Youngsters will be able to make better stock purchases when they own their farms because of their training, said Luckow. He also said the training assists in selection of animals for 4-H projects.

The teams will be coached by James Krahn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Krahn, route 1, Seymour. Krahn is a sophomore majoring in dairy science at the University of Wisconsin and is a member of the UW dairy cattle judging team. He is a former member of the Golden Rule 4-H club at Seymour.

The dairy cattle judging is based on the general appearance, dairy character, body capacity, and mammary system of the cow.

Tree Crop Could Hit $190 Million

True, says the Agriculture Department, but producers will have to wait about 30 years for harvest. The crop is new trees seeded or planted last year on nonfederal land, about 99 per cent owned privately and the remainder by state and local governments.

Early Planting Adds Bushels To Corn Yields

Research Shows High Population of Plants Increases Production

BY ORRIN W. MEYER

CHILTON — Corn planting methods have been greatly modernized. Farmers formerly planted corn on Memorial Day.

According to studies made by Charlie Hartman, Lafayette County Agriculture Agent, early planted corn yields better. According to his plots last year, corn planted May 8 yielded 158.7 bushels per acre; that planted May 31 yielded 131.1 bushel per acre. Both plots were planted in 36 inch rows.

Hartman also studied row width last year and he found high plant population boosts yields. A population of 25,000 plants per acre gave best results. In his samples 30 inch rows, with 25,000 plants yielded 130.9 bushels per acre; 30 inch rows with 26,000 plants yielded 130.9 bushels per acre and 36 inch rows, with 25,000 plants 130.8 bushels per acre.

Most potatoes are now grown commercially, however, lots of people still grow their own. Local elevators have received their seed supplies of good certified stock and suitable Calumet County varieties.

Certified seed is best for baking. Kenmore is a good one. It's a late variety. Cobbler is still an excellent early potato and boils up well. Chippewa is midseason, oval-shaped and cooks well but not as mealy as the Cobbler. It's an excellent yielder. Sebago is a good disease-resistant strain one for Calumet County. Red Pontiac potatoes are a good red variety.

When urea is sprayed on corn ground it is not necessary to continue working it into the soil to keep from losing nitrogen. It can be sprayed on after planting but before the corn is up. Atrazine is often added to kill weeds.

If tomato plants are keeling over the young plants probably have rhizoctonis, commonly known as damping off This disease is a fungus growing inside the plant. It is spread by a spore. The sopre either came from infected soil or was just floating around in the air. It may have been on the seed. When you plant seeds dust them by putting a fungicide in the package and grow plants in a sunny airy location. Don't water too heavily Sometimes a spray of two tablespoons of Captan in a gallon of water lightly sprayed over the plants will protect them. However once fungus is growing inside the plant, there is not much one can do.

Decision Pending

Long-Delayed Hearings Will Discuss Sausage Fat Limits

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department's long-awaited decision on whether to go ahead with public hearings on proposed fat limitations in hot dogs and other sausages may be made this week.

Roy W. Lennartsom, head of the Consumer and Marketing Service, has told newsmen an announcement might come "in a week or 10 days."

The department recently decided to go ahead with a proposal to permit 15 per cent poultry meat in hot dogs without requiring large lettering in labels to denote the ingredient.

During the Johnson administration, the "chickendog" proposal had been included with one which would restrict the amount of fat in sausages to 30 per cent and public hearings were to be held.

But Nixon officials decided to separate the issues, allowing poultry meat in sausages without public hearings and relying only on a normal period of time for written comment from the public.

Lennartsom said last week the department had reached no decision whether to continue with original plans for public hearings on the fat issue and other specification proposals.

Project Discussions Scheduled at Manawa

MANAWA — Three project training sessions will be conducted for Waupaca County 4-H members at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the high school.

Victor Struck, fair superintendent, will discuss rabbit and poultry projects at a meeting in the lunch room. Walter Oestreich will be instructor at a woodworking session in the industrial arts shop. Nature conservation projects will be examined in a meeting at the science room. Members will need about $1.50 to purchase materials.

A simulated horse show will be presented at a horse project meeting at 1 p.m. Sunday at the Manawa Rodeo Grounds. The show will provide members with experience in showing animals.

The Waupaca City Forwards 4-H Club, Waupaca, will make candy cups for mothers May 10 at Ross and Harris Rest Homes. Members will discuss plans for a hike.

The Symco 4-H Club is starting a softball team. Openings are available on the team. At the last club meeting Jill Thurk, Stanley Hornburg, Joel Schmitter and Mary Starchaska presented project demonstrations.

The Embarrass 4-H Club will plan a parent get-together at its May meeting. Club members Richard Zierels and Daniel Backes have been named junior community builder leaders.

Busy Macks 4-H Club members have scheduled a bowling party on May 17. Co-chairmen chosen for committees are Jean Rudolph, recreation; Patrick Rudolph, health; James Barens and James Linstens, safety and Susan Rudolph and Elizabeth Spanjers, conservation.

Eleven finalists for Calumet County 4-H Dairy Judging teams are being coached by Merton Lee, route 1, New Holstein.

Four members will be selected for each team in June after several practice sessions.

Those selected for the senior team, age 14 and older, are Joe Brantmeier, Jim Coffeen, Dennis Daun, Paul Gries, Joe Keifer and Don Schmidt.

Candidates for the junior team, ages 9 to 13, are David Halbach, John Keifer, Tom Kees, Debbie Krueger, Debbie Lee and Faye Wink.

EARLY & EXTRA EARLY HYBRIDS

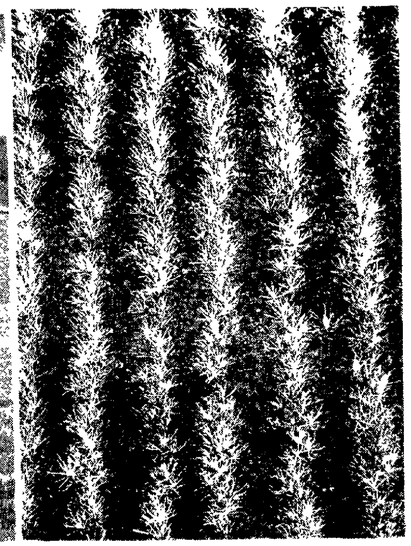

80 DAY — Wisconsin's earliest hybrid. Excellent as a green chop together with second crop alfalfa.
85 DAY — Early, medium to tall in height. Medium ear height Very good stalk qualities. Very attractive and high yielding.
90 DAY — NEW, all yellow. Taller than earlier yellow 90 day hybrids High in yield and dries out rapidly. An excellent HIGH GRAIN hybrid for silage.
95 DAY — Wisconsin's most widely planted 95 day hybrid. A real HIGH GRAIN hybrid for silage. Very widely used for making ground ear corn and shelled corn silage. Continues to be one of the highest yielding hybrids in County Corn Yield Plots. Highly tolerant to Northern Leaf Blight.
100 DAY — NEW, taller and higher yielding than earlier 100 day hybrids. Better tolerance to Northern Leaf Blight. Good field appearance, husks easily, ears dry rapidly.
SILOKRAUT — A blend of double cross hybrids with a maturity range of 95-100 days. Planted by an increasing number of Northeastern Wisconsin farmers. Flat kernels $9.50 Round kernels $8.50 per 56 lb. bag.

Annual Program

Landowners, Youth Groups Start Planting 446,000 Trees

Some 446,000 trees are being planted in Fox Valley counties as part of a program carried out by county foresters and extension service offices.

Trees, offered by the Department of Natural Resources, have been delivered in Outagamie, Calumet, Winnebago and Waupaca counties.

In Outagamie County private landowners have collected 107,850 trees for private planting. Members of 4-H and FFA clubs received an estimated 19,000 trees for projects.

Thirty-nine landowners are participating in the program throughout the county. They are paying from $18 to $35 per 1,000 seedlings. Youngsters can receive up to 250 trees free for 4-H or FFA programs.

Use of Trees

Dennis Hohfelder, Outagamie County forester said "The main purpose (for planting) is for people to do something with land that would otherwise lie idle."

He said the trees will improve the land and when mature will provide valuable saw logs. Immature trees must be thinned and often can be sold for pulp wood, he said.

The trees also benefit wildlife by providing cover and browse for deer and other animals said Hohlfelder.

He said most Outagamie County landowners are planting Norway Pine and White Spruce seedlings.

Reasons Vary

The reasons for planting vary, noted Hohfelder, saying some landowners plant for production of "The pulpwood and the saw timber."

Many farmers utilize the trees to provide a windbreak between fields he said. Some people, he said, plant trees as a legacy to their children.

Often trees are planted on unused fields simply because owners "just like to watch trees grow," said Hohfelder. He said many improve the looks of their farmstead or homes by planting trees.

Fewer Ordered

Fewer trees will be planted in the county this year than last year, said Hohfelder. Last year a plantation in the Town of Maine planted 47,000 trees. This year the largest order for trees is 20,000 trees.

Calumet County Agriculture Agent Orrin Meyer, said trees arrived at Chilton on Wednesday. Landowners may pick trees up on May 9, he said. Calumet landowners have ordered 19,000 trees. Members of 4-H and FFA clubs have ordered an additional 1,800 trees.

Meyer will discuss the effect of windbreaks May 9 at a planting on the Cyril Halbach farm, one-half mile west of St John.

Delivery Dates

According to V. W. Peroutky, Winnebago County agriculture agent, 59,000 trees have been delivered to 37 individuals in Winnebago County. He said 4-H and FFA members received 12,125 trees.

Only part of the Waupaca County order has been delivered. A truck-load of trees arrived Saturday and another will arrive next Saturday according to Joe Walker, Waupaca County agriculture agent.

The first load contained 106,075 trees and the second will include 112,150. Walker said most of the trees were Norway Pine and White Pine.

Most of the planting in Waupaca County is done by absentee landlords or non-farmers said Walker. He said most farmers use the trees for windbreaks.

Small Seedlings Are Planted with a machine much like one first demonstrated on May 3, 1944. The unit was invented by H. D. Bruhn, Wisconsin agricultural engineer, and Fred B. Trenk, a University of Wisconsin extension forester. Floyd Everett, route 1, Red Granite, drives a tractor as Franklin Kempf plants Norway Pine seedlings. Tiny trees planted in rigid rows will grow to thick stands in from 25 to 30 years. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Beekeepers to Meet in Chilton

Armin Schwalenberg Will Review Honey Price Support

CHILTON — Armin Schwalenberg, Calumet County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office manager, will discuss the present honey price support program at the annual Calumet County Beekeepers meeting at 8 p.m. Monday in the courthouse assembly room here.

Schwalenberg participated in reviewing and updating the honey price support program recently in Washington D.C.

County Agricultural Agent Orrin Meyer will conduct a panel discussion on how bees came through the winter at the meeting.

Milk and honey will be served after the meeting.

USDA Buys Shortening, Lard for School Lunch, Commodities Program

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has purchased 5,205,000 pounds of lard and other shortening, at an approximate cost of $680,000, for use in school lunch programs, family food distribution programs, and other eligible outlets.

Midwest packers received 63 per cent of the contracts. The awards are due for shipment from June 16-30, inclusive.

Acreage Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Producers of nine major vegetable crops used in processing intend to plant about 1.7 million acres this year, a reduction of 15 per cent from 1968 and 2 per cent less than in 1967, the Agriculture Department says.

Smaller acreages are expected for green lima beans, snap beans, beets, sweet corn, cucumbers for pickles, green peas, winter spinach and tomatoes. A slight increase was indicated for cabbage used for sauerkraut, officials said.

Slaughter Market Cattle, Calves Jump 6 Per Cent From '68

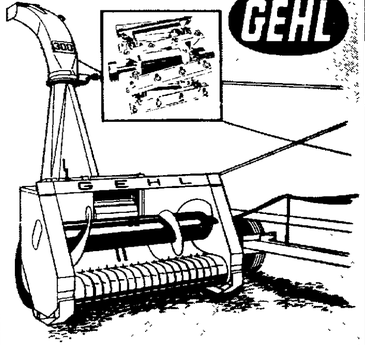

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of cattle and calves being fed on April 1 for the slaughter market totaled more than 11.4 million, a gain of 7 per cent from a year earlier, the Agriculture Department says.

Marketing of fat cattle during the first quarter of the year were 6 per cent more than a year earlier in the 32 major producing states, the department said.

Prospects for marketings during the April-June period are expected to remain 6 per cent more than a year earlier, officials said.

For a tour of the refurbished DARTMOOR MOTOR INN . . . as well as free snacks in the Internationally Famous . . . "GAZEBO" RESTAURANT.

WE believe you will find the Dartmoor Motor Inn a refreshing change from the ordinary. The Dartmoor recreates and perpetuates the gracious charm of unhurried good living for those away from home . . . for those who know and appreciate simple elegance and seek the most luxurious appointments and facilities. At the "Gazebo" we cater especially to our friends at home.

DARTMOOR Motor Inn is delightfully different . . . because it set out to be different. You will never enter 'just a room' . . . because every guest accomodation was thoughtfully completed for decor, comfort and service. Color Television in every room is only one of the many attractions.

Meet Your DARTMOOR Bell Captain

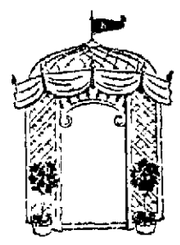

Insert Bell Captain key attached to your room key, and turn it to the right. When "ready" light turns on press button under the item you select. Open bin to remove selection. (Items from dispenser not refrigerated—get ahead of time and place in refrigerator. When 'empty' light goes on, there is no charge).

IMAGINE, in your own room, a private food and drink dispenser. No coins needed, no running for ice, no need to call Room Service, everything you need to relax right at your fingertips. We are sorry to say "Bell Captain" can't talk to you . . . but that is about the only thing he can't do. Room Service like his is almost 'too much' . . . Besides his dispensing your favorite cocktail, cold drink or snack, he even has a "Wake Up" buzzer and a "Message at the Desk" system, plus plenty of ice cubes and refrigerated space for keeping food and beverages cold.

FOR the traveling family "Bell Captain" eliminates the worry of keeping milk or food for the 'Little Ones'. While you are sleeping it will even make enough ice for your ice chest so that you may have chilled food and drinks while you continue your journey. "Bell Captain" is truly an electronic marvel. The ultimate in push button service and convenience, all you have to do is turn the "Bell Captain" on, push the button for your selection and 'Voila' you have your order . . . and it's instantly electrically registered at the front desk right on your bill. No waiting for charges to be added in the morning . . . you're on your way with no delay.

TO complete your tour, visit the internationally famous "GAZEBO" restaurant, where atmosphere is delightfully unhurried and relaxed, whether it be in the dining room, the Tete a' Tete Lounge or the Bee Hive Bar where you may enjoy your favorite cocktails mixed and served as you like them. The dining room is an unusually refined setting for the finest cuisine prepared with loving care and served with careful attention to every detail. A perfect spot for Luncheons or Dinners. You'll wine and dine splendidly and pay only moderate prices. Isn't that how it should be?

The Management and Staff

The Dartmoor Motor Inn is located at the junction of U.S. Hwy. 41 and Forest Ave., Fond du Lac, Wis. Situated half way between Milwaukee and Green Bay and just a nice Sunday drive from Appleton. It is the ideal spot to stop and stay or to enjoy a fabulous meal.

Hephner Blasts Plan to Alter District Lines

Chilton Lawmaker Says Resolution Is 'Danger to Calumet'

CHILTON — Assemblyman Gervase Hephner, D-Chilton, has labled as "dangerous to the interests of Calumet County" a resolution that would have the attorney general render an opinion as to whether assembly districts may cross county lines. The Wisconsin Constitution presently bars crossing county lines

Hephner pointed out that the text of the bill, authored by a group of Republicans, makes reference to one district which is 43.7 per cent below average in population and that this is a reference to Calumet County.

A simular measure that would have had the same effect was introduced in the 1967 session by Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich.

"This is just another attempt to push for a redrawing of district lines that will assure that the people of Calumet County will have an assemblyman who lives in Appleton," Hephner said

This resolution did not take into account the geographic realities of the area, according to Hephner. Calumet County is composed of many farms and small communities and it would be an inaccurate reflection of the local economy and social structure to have someone from the Appleton area representing Calumet County, he added.

"This is a bold power grab that is being attempted through the devise of political and geographic gymnastics. The people of Calumet County certainly resent the attempts of the Republicans to dictate what sort of men will represent them in the assembly." Hephner concluded.

$40 Million Savings

State Job Openings Could Stay Unfilled

MADISON (AP) — The Joint Finance Committee has recommended that hundreds of state government job vacancies remain unfilled for the next two years, saving the state an estiated $40 million.

The proposal was made Thursday by the budget-reviewing committee after being suggested by Assemblyman John Shabaz, R-New Berlin, one of the committee members instrumental in having lowered funds requests in the 1969-71 budget.

Gov. Warren P. Knowles, after announcing in January the state faced a $25.9 million deficit, recommended austerity steps which officials say could produce 500 state government job vacancies

Reviewing Agency

The committee's recommendation, administrative spokesmen said, could involve 3,500 to 4,000 jobs in the state's certified civil service positions and at state universities.

Only those positions needed for "the safety and welfare of inmates of state institutions" would be unaffected by the committee's recommendation.

The committee, approving Shabaz' proposal 10-3, named itself as a reviewing agency for making exceptions to the plan. Committee actions are subject to approval by the full legislature.

"If this doesn't get vetoed," Shabaz said, "this could be the most meaningful examination that has ever been accomplished in state government."

The committee's plan applies to positions which were unfilled as of Thursday.

Assemblyman David Martin, R-Neenah, said he fears the plan would lead to "arbitrary decisions by this committee with respect to employment matters in the future."

The committee also voted to raise the interest rates on the Veterans Home Loan Fund from 2 per cent to 3 per cent.

The committee voted to require the State Investment Board to provide $6.5 million for the program after July 1. A bill now in the Senate would have required the board to provide the funds until July, after which there would have been reimbursement from general purpose revenues

A sufficient appropriation would be provided to make up the difference between what the board usually receives on its investments and what would be brought in with the veterans loans.

State Obligation

Although the proposal was approved 10-4, Sen. Henry Dorman, D-Racine, said he was wary of any attempt to fund a state obligation "which might eventually involve retirement money."

The current proposal would not involve retirement funds, but would draw on the board's revolving funds.

In other action, the committee voted to:

—Restore a fruit and vegetable inspection program to the Department of Agriculture, costing $36,400 in the 1969 - 71 budget. Growers share half the cost of inspection —Provide a waiting period of 15-30 days for those requesting categorical aids such as aid to families with dependent children.

—Investigate job rehabilitation programs which the state is funding with an eye to eliminating duplications.

Farm Accident Fatal to Man In Harrison

The 25-year-old son of the Town of Harrison chairman was killed about 9:30 p.m. Thursday in a farm accident

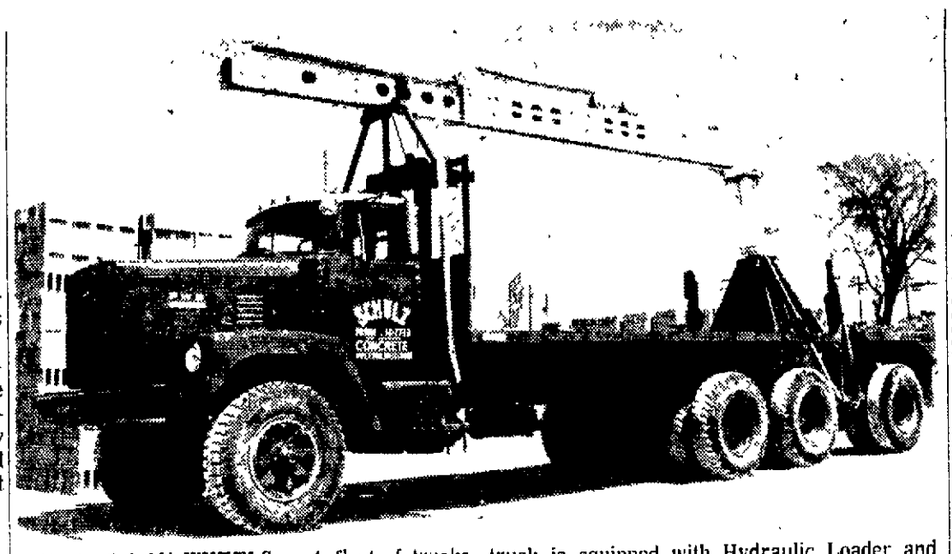

George Schwalbach Jr., route 4, Appleton, was pronounced dead on arrival at St Elizabeth Hospital. He was asphyxiated when a pile of straw fell on him in his father's barn, Calumet County Coroner Leroy Hughes reported.

Hughes said the victim was helping his father milk cows and had remained in the barn after his father returned to the house. When young Schwalbach did not return to the house in "15 or 20 minutes," Hughes said, his father went to the barn and found him under the straw.

Hughes said that apparently Schwalbach had reached up to fork some hay and the entire pile had fallen on top of him. He is continuing investigation.

The town of Harrison Fire Department rescue squad was called and applied artificial respiration.

Schwalbach, who was married, lived on his father's farm. Funeral arrangements are pending at the Jensen Funeral Home in Kimberly.

'The Beaux' Stratagem'

Farquhar Play Given Fine Production by OSU

BY DAVID F. WAGNER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — George Farquhar's intricately structured Restoration drama, "The Beaux' Strategem," was given a generally pleasing, and in parts outstanding, staging Thursday night at Oshkosh State University.

Too many plays of this period are windy and overly-complex and not all that well conceived, but Farquhar's greatest work (the author died at 29, snuffing out a potentially brilliant career) has strengths which have stood the test of time since 1707.

The OSU speech department production, held in the Little Theatre, was its usually outstanding presentation — adept from nearly every standpoint, from acting, to sets, to costumes, to pace. To nearly everything except audience size.

The real story of "The Beaux' Stratagem," however, OSU-style, was Karin Smith, as Mrs. Sullen. Miss Smith was called upon on Monday last to fill in for the person originally cast, and in just three days had succeeded in nearly mastering a very difficult role with many lines. The only hint that Miss Smith was not with the cast all along were the handful of prompting she required, and they were far between and not serious, just a key word got her back on the track.

Among Talented Group

Director Robert Heise, whose work is always at a high artistic level, is fortunate to have a talent such as Karin Smith on tap. But she was among talented company.

Roger Spiecher, as Archer, was a total delight. He wins my award as most improved actor of the last few seasons at OSU. Since "Blood Wedding" (I seem to recall Roger as the lover), Spiecher has progressed into an actor of wide abilities, able to convey broad humor and subtleties and create moods which pick up lagging scenes.

While Archer eventually wooed Mrs. Sullen, the main romantic entanglement involved Aimwell (Richard Weisheim) and Dorinda (Ellen Keeline), both of whom were given expert portrayals by good actors: and both are quite pleasant looking. One should not underestimate the importance of good looks in roles of this sort, and when acceptable — in fact, highly skilled — acting is a bonus, well, good for the audience.

Author Farquhar intended "The Beaux' Stratagem" to be staged "straight," or seriously, if you will. The subtle ironies of his lines carried impact enough. So it leads me to believe that two roles, while funny as the dickens, were overdone to absurdity. Namely, Thomas Andrew as Count Bellair, one of Mrs. Sullen's admirers, and Robert Nowicki, as the big-bellied Boniface, were instructed to go too far to get laughs which were not needed to make the production fun

Knew When to Stop

A particular treat, however, was Neal Hirsig as Scrub, a not-too-bright servant who also flirted with absurdity, but was able to stop just short of too far.

Other significant roles included Dennis Schulz as the boozing Sullen, Jeannine Bongle as the healing Lady Bountiful, Karen Krause as Boniface's daughter, Cherry. Tom Colwin as the highwayman, Gibbet, and Peter Maurer as the convincing "Father," Foigard. Each added moments of enjoyment to the production, helping make it a complete play rather than one of a few highlights.

Other roles, all adequate or better, were Robert Bohnsack as Freeman, Jerry Stephens as Houslow, Michael Portman as Bagshot, Ellen Loomans as Gypsy and Mark Zager and Sue Powers as a servant and a woman.

Charles Schmitt's scenic design was functional, clever and attractive. Great imagination with sets seems to be a trademark at OSU. Costumes were elaborate and as nearly as a layman could guess, appropriate for the era.

"The Beaux' Stratagem" will be repeated at 8 p.m. today and Saturday.

Next Year's Curriculum

Lawrence Adds Eight Black Study Courses

Eight courses related to the study of black Americans have been added to the Lawrence University curriculum for next year, including five in the history department, and one each in government, economics and French literature.

Two of the history courses will explore American race relations. Slavery and the Old South, term I, will deal with the relationship of blacks and whites in ante-bellum society, and examine slavery as an institution, the abolitionists, and causes of the Civil War.

The Negro Since the Civil War, to be offered second term, will use examples of Negro autobiographies and literatures to trace the blacks' social and cultural life through Reconstruction, the Jim Crow era, migration to the cities, the civil rights movement and black militancy.

History Department

Other new history department courses planned during terms II and III are The Origins of the Welfare State, 1889-1929, investigating the development of a collective social consciousness and the search for social order and economic stability; The American City as a Historical Concept, a study of its physical environment, economic life and social structure; and The Great Depression, The New Deal, and After, studying the impact of the depression upon American institutions, the crisis in social and cultural life, the ascendency of urban politics, and the New Deal's domestic reform program. All of the history courses will be taught by William Bremer, assistant professor of history.

The new governm course relative to black study is Urban Politics, offered during term II by Lawrence D. Longley, instructor in government, which will give special attention to racial tensions in urban areas, the decline of the big-city machine, and metropolitan area-wide cooperative integration.

An introduction to the literary works of French-speaking black writers of Africa south of the Sahara, will be taught term III by Bruce W. Cronmiller, associate professor of French. The course will include a survey of the literary movement constituted by these authors as well as a study of the relations between it and French, American and Afro-American literatures.

Urban Economics, a study of the economic growth and development of urban areas, will be added to the economics curriculum during term III. Taught by Morton D. Schwartz, assistant professor in economics, the course will emphasize urban public finance, public services and ghetto economic development.

Black studies courses currently offered in the curriculum are White Institutions and Black Americans, Africa and the Modern World, and Peoples of Africa.

Inspection Set For Soap Box Derby Entries

Hammers are banging and saws rasping as 144 youngsters complete their cars for the Fox Cities Soap Box Derby which will be held on June 15.

The first inspection of derby cars will be at 6:30 p.m. next Thursday at Gibson Chevrolet, 131 S. Superior St., Appleton.

Youngsters from Appleton, Neenah, Menasha, Kaukauna, Kimberly Combined Locks, Little Chute, Hilbert, and Oshkosh are participating in the derby.

A second, mandatory inspection of race cars will be at 6:30 p.m., May 22 at Gibson's. Final inspection and impounding of cars will be June 12.

The derby is being sponsored by the Appleton Jaycees, Gibson Co., Inc., and WFRV-TV

Shiocton Youth Heing Held on Charge of Rape

Jesse R. Anaya, 18, Shiocton, is being held in the Outagamie County jail under $1,500 bond following his appearance in court Thursday afternoon on a charge of statutory rape.

Judge Nick F. Schaefer continued his case to Monday morning to allow him time to consult an attorney.

Anaya is charged with an attack on a 14-year-old Shiocton girl in her parents' apartment Wednesday night.

The girl told authorities she was home alone about 9:45 p.m. when a youth walked into the apartment and forced her into a bedroom.

Sheriff's investigators took Anaya into custody at a friend's home north of Shiocton about 9 a.m. Thursday. He offered no resistance.

Mayor Maier To Speak on TV

Mayor Henry W. Maier of Milwaukee will be featured in a 30-minute special on WLUK-TV (Channel 11) at 3:30 p.m. Saturday.

In his pre-taped television appearance, which originates from Milwaukee, Maier explains his complaints against The Journal Co., publisher of the Milwaukee Journal and Milwaukee Sentinel newspapers, and his reasons for asking that anti-trust action be brought against the firm.

Appleton Man Is Found Negligent In Accident Case

OSHKOSH — A Cricuit Court jury Thursday delivered a verdict of negligence against an Appleton man and ordered him and his insurance company, the co-defendant in the civil suit brought by two women and a child who were injured in a 1965 traffic accident, to pay damages totaling $21,300.

The man was Edward M. Pickering, 621½ W. Lawrence St. The jury fuond that negligence on Pickering's part comprised 60 per cent of the cause of an accident involving a car he was operating and another driven by Florence Nemec, Mosinee. The jury found that negligence on her part was 40 per cent of the total cause of the crash which occurred on U.S. 41, at State 21 in the City of Oshkosh.

Breakdown of the damages awarded include $19,000 for Katherine Sidoff and $200 for Sharon, her daughter, both of Milwaukee and both passengers in the Nemec auto, and $2,100 to the Nemec woman.

The four-day trial here brought to a close litigation which began in 1966. Judge William E. Crane presided.

Elks to Honor High School Youths for Academic Achievement

A total of 107 youths from Appleton East and West and Xavier high schools will be honored for their academic achievement Monday by the Appleton Elks Lodge 337.

The dinner, set for 6:30 p.m., will honor the winners of the Elks Youth Leadership, Most Valuable Students, Scholarship and U.S. Constitution contests as well as the outstanding seniors in each department of the schools.

Dr. Thomas Malueg, Appleton a Winnebago State Hospital psychiatrist, will be the speaker. Award presentations will be made by Kenneth Berner, past exalted ruler and a member of the state youth activities committee. Richard Peeples is the local chairman of the youth activities committee.

Guest of honor will include city officials as well as Mel Junion, Green Bay, national Grand esteemed leading knight, and Leon Rondou, Green Bay, state youth activities chairman.

Two Cars Damaged in Little Chute Mishap

LITTLE CHUTE — Several hundred dollars damage resulted but no one was injured in a two-car accident at E. Main and Harrison streets about 5 p.m. Wednesday, according to village police.

The mishap occured when Maureanus Vanden Wyngaard, 41, 341 Railroad St., Kimberly, slowed in traffic for a car turning in front of him and his auto was struck from behind by a vehicle driven by Gary Peterson, 26, 716 Grand Ave.

City's Property Should be Razed

City-owned property at 1214 S Alicia Street is in such a state of disrepair that it should be razed as soon as possible, Director of Inspections Charles Magnette reported today.

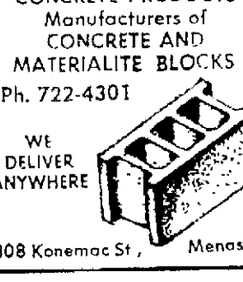

In a memorandum to the mayor and board of public works he said the garage-residence structure constructed in 1946 sohuld be razed.

Magnette said it was situated on a corner lot having 40 feet of frontage on Pine Street and 120 of frontage on Alicia Street.

It wasn't indicated how the city became owner of the property.

Garozzo's opening bid of one b promised at least 17 points high cards but did not icate club length. This en- raged Mario Franco to bid clubs, but his opponents, mbers of the world champi- ship team, convinced him he d made a mistake.

Garozzo played low on the st diamond, and Franco won h the eight. Declarer led a art, losing to the queen, and ck came the ace of diamonds d a diamond ruff.

West then led a heart to the e, and Garozzo led a fourth mond. Declarer ruffed with queen, and Belladonna ewdly discarded rather than erruff.

Leads Trumps

Declarer cashed the ace of mps and continued with the k to force out the king. West n led a spade, and Garozzo k the two top spades and led last diamond. Now South uldn't shut out Belladonna's guarded eight trumps.

outh was down three, and a alty of 500 points is not a disaster. In this case, however, East and West could make only a part score at most and might have bid too much if left alone. It was not the right time to give up 500 points.

In the course of three sessions at $3 per point, it cost the two Francos $30,000 to discover what readers of this column can learn for nothing by reading the first sentence of this article. Where else can you get such bargains?

Daily Question

As dealer, you hold: S- A K 6, H- A Q 9, D- A Q 5 3 2, C- 10 2. What do you say?

Answer: Bid one diamond. In standard bidding systems, this hand is not worth a forcing opening bid. You open with your long suit, relying on your partner to respond if he has the six or seven points you will need for any reasonable game contract.

Your Problems

Take Heed, Kids; Turn Down Volume!

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last night my 16-year-old granddaughter gave a party. There were at least 30 teen-agers in the house. They rolled back the rugs, moved all the furniture on the porch and played music for dancing. I didn't see any dancing — just some catatonic, zombie-like motions and a lot of jerking and shaking.

What disturbed me more than anything was the music. It gave me a splitting headache. The kids these days insist on turning up the stereo amplifier as high as it will go. It virtually assaults the eardrums.

I notice that our teen-age grandchildren do not hear their parents when they speak in normal conversational tones. Unless instructions are screamed they are ignored. I think the kids are actually deaf. My husband says, "There's nothing wrong with their hearing. They hear when they want to."

Tell me, Ann, is it possible that our teen-agers are becoming hard of hearing because of the loud music they seem to idolize? If so, someone should tell them. — Antique Ada

Dear Ada: Someone has told them: Ear specialists are deeply concerned and have said so. It has been proved that loud music produces serious hearing problems among the young. Several cases of permanent deafness among musicians have been noted. So take heed, kids, and turn down the volume. Do you hear me out there? I say — turn down the volume!!!!!

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My mother is 53 and looks 40. After Dad died two years ago Mum started to go with a divorced man who is about five years her junior. Barry is handsome, charming, allergic to work in any form and, in my opinion, rotten to the core.

I've seen Barry around town with at least three different chippies. Of course I've never mentioned it to anyone. About a month ago Mum and I ran into Barry and a trollop, or should I say they ran into us. Literally. I was parking the car and Barry's car sideswept us. No one was hurt but Mum fell apart when she saw them (Barry was supposed to be out of town.)

Since that night Mum has had stomach pains and has been doctoring to beat the band. She's had x-rays, is taking pills and sedatives and is on a special diet. Her doctor can't find anything wrong with her. I know she is tied up in knots over her love affair which is going haywire.

Should I make an appointment to see the doctor and tell him the background before she quits him and goes to another doctor who might take out her gall bladder? — Worried Daughter

Dear Daughter: It is extremely helpful to the physician if he knows something about the patient's emotional problems. I suggest that you write the doctor a note. An appointment would take up valuable time which could be spent with a patient.

Maverick's hot! Any questions?

Measure it any way you like. By the crowds. The news stories. The sales. Few cars have caused a sensation like Maverick or broken so many records. Every day more and more people are asking questions about it. Here are the answers.

Q. Why did you build the Maverick?
A. We think of Maverick as another one of Ford Motor Company's answers to the gold drain. Now Americans who want small car economy don't have to send their U.S. dollars overseas.

Q. Why did you call it Maverick?
A. You know what a maverick is. A maverick breaks the rules. A maverick is different. Maverick plugs the big gap between the compacts and the imports. It has a wheelbase eight inches shorter than a '69 Falcon, eight and one-half inches longer than a VW 1500. Nothing else like it.

Q. Why did you make it this size?
A. Maverick pinches pennies, not people. We gave Maverick more leg room. More shoulder room. More luggage room. Good example: the front seat of a Maverick offers you nine inches more shoulder room than the front seat of the leading economy import and its trunk can handle all the luggage for a family of four, including a set of golf clubs.

Q. What do I get for the price?
A. You get your money's worth. A complete, built-for-Americans kind of car. Room. Hot styling. Color-keyed interiors. Even the heater is included. Some economy car interiors are about as luxurious as a park bench. Not Maverick's. You get plush seats. Cloth and vinyl upholstery with unique tartan plaid cloth inserts. You also get safety features like smart pull-out door handles. Strong safety door locks. Two-speed electric wipers. Safety belts. Head restraints. Plus conveniences like armrests, coat hooks, lighted heater controls . . . important little things that add so much to your driving comfort.

Q. What about options?
A. You can get 'em if you want 'em. You can order integral air conditioning. (It's built in, not hung on.) Other options include 3-speed automatic or low-cost semiautomatic transmission, and a hefty 200 CID Six. But lots of people won't put an extra cent into this car. Because it's all there. A complete car all ready to drive home.

Q. What kind of gas mileage can I get?
A. That depends on you as well as the car. You can get as much as 25 or 26 miles per gallon—if you have an educated toe and the right road conditions. If you have a lead foot, or do a lot of city driving, you will get a lot less. In tests by professional drivers at our tracks, where we do our best to duplicate actual driving conditions, Maverick averaged 22.5 mpg.

Q. What kind of power does Maverick have?
A. Maverick's Six lets loose 105 galloping horses. That's 52 more than you get in the 4-cylinder VW 1500. Maverick can cover 417 feet in ten seconds from a standing start. That means you can get up to highway speed in a hurry. When you enter a 70 mph turnpike, you won't feel like a retired bookkeeper thrust into the middle of a pro football game.

Q. If it has an eight inch longer wheelbase than the leading import, does it still handle and park easily?
A. Maverick can U-turn in a tighter circle (35.6 feet) than the leading economy import (36.0 feet). Maverick can slant through traffic like a halfback. It can turn on a dime and give you nine cents change. If you've been driving any other American car, you'll find Maverick's neat size adds up to 5½ feet to any parking space.

Q. Can Detroit really build a small economy car that's tough and long lasting?
A. It's not easy, but we did it. Maverick's unitized body construction makes it tight, strong and durable. It's welded like a battleship. Rustproofing compound goes into deep crevices that never see the light of day. Then all that strength is covered with four coats of paint for lasting beauty. Result: one tough little car that's put together to stay together. (The service schedule in the Maverick owner's manual goes up to 108,000 miles or nine years; that ought to tell you something about its rugged durability.)

Q. How about parts and service?
A. Maverick is designed to be unusually easy to service. You're dealing with made-in-America parts and 6,000 easy-to-find Ford Dealers. Fast repairs and easy replacements mean extra savings in both time and money.

Q. Is Maverick really easier and less expensive to maintain than an economy import?
A. Definitely. Maverick oil changes come only every 6,000 miles and chassis lubrication once every 36,000 miles. The leading economy import recommends oil changes every 3,000 miles (twice as often as Maverick) and chassis lubrication every 6,000 miles (six times as often as Maverick!). Those are just a few examples of the many ways Maverick lessens inconvenience and lowers operating cost.

Q. Can I do my own maintenance work?
A. Yes, if you have an average amount of mechanical ability. The Maverick owner's manual contains 24 pages of detailed diagrams and easy-to-follow instructions for routine maintenance jobs you can do yourself, if you wish. You'll find it easy to change spark plugs, replace ignition points . . . plus many other do-it-yourself repairs and replacements.

Q. Can a small car be safe? And how safe is safe?
A. This small car incorporates the latest advances in engineering. Maverick's brakes are as big as a standard compact's—designed to stop cars weighing hundreds of pounds more. Maverick gives you weight . . . power . . . stability. Designed for American driving conditions.

Q. How does Maverick ride?
A. Here's where Maverick's longer, wider stance really pays off. You get a smoother, quieter ride. Maverick's tight, strong, unitized body helps eliminate squeaks and rattles. Special insulation blocks out road noise. The people who brought you a Ford that was quieter than a Rolls-Royce now bring you a small car that doesn't sound like a power mower.

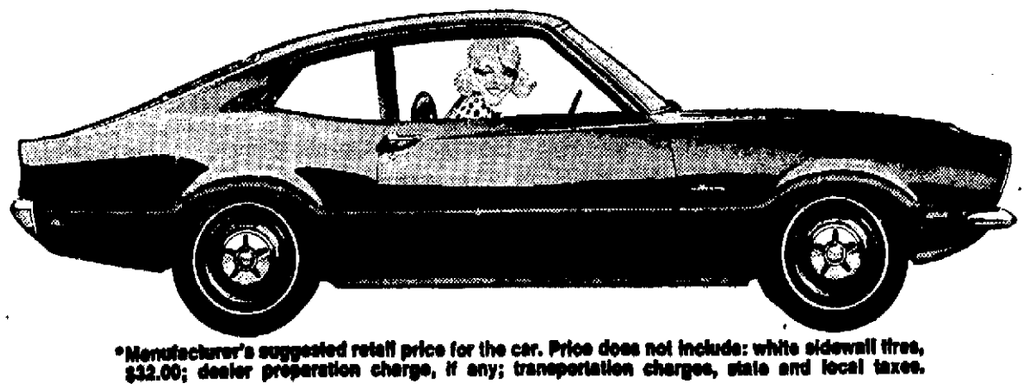

Q. Is there an advantage in the fact that Maverick is really a 1970 car?
A. Slower depreciation is one money-in-the-pocket advantage. Maverick's 1970 model designation means it keeps its trade-in value higher, longer. (Maverick is built to be a good investment from the minute you buy it to the minute you sell it.)

Better come take a look at this one. You'll find it where the action is . . . right in there with other great Ford values like specially equipped Ford Galaxie 500's . . . Fairlanes . . . Mustangs and Falcons.

You'll find them at your Ford Dealer's . . . the place you've got to go to see what's going on.

For an authentic 1/25 scale model of the new Ford Maverick, send $1.00 to Maverick, P.O. Box 5397, Department N-50, Detroit, Michigan 48211. (Offer ends July 31, 1969.)

The Week in the News

Spring, Snow and a Duck Named Betsy

As the snow swirled about Tuesday, it became apparent spring in the Valley was going to be an on-again, off-again thing this year. Imagine how the residents of Duluth, Minn., must have felt as they dug their way out from under nine inches of the white stuff!

A small incident reported from Milwaukee recalled to mind another spring when the news services carried a story about Gertie, a duck, who had decided to fashion her nest on a piling in the Milwaukee River near one of the busiest sections of that city's downtown area. Persons all over the country were attracted by the story and Gertie was on everyone's lips as they discussed her fate. This year another duck, Betsy, has established her maternity ward atop pilings beneath one of Milwaukee's busiest bridges. Perhaps she won't attract the national attention enjoyed by her predecessor but let's hope her eggs remain safe and that soon Milwaukee residents will be able to stand on the bridge or along the banks of the river and see Betsy and her family swim past.

A teacher from Miami, Fla., was honored Monday at the White House by President Nixon. Miss Barbara Goleman, head of the English department at Miami's Jackson High School, was named Teacher of the Year for her "superior ability to inspire love of learning and intellectual curiosity in students of all abilities and backgrounds."

Women of Mount Olive Lutheran Church gathered Wednesday evening for their annual banquet. Speaker was Miss Christina Wong of Hong Kong who discussed Chinese customs.

Officers named for the year include Mrs. Louis Rehfeldt, president; Mrs. Edward Brock, vice president; Mrs. Kenneth Neumann, secretary, and Mrs. Henry Liebzeit, treasurer.

Founders day was marked at Reetz's Supper Club Wednesday evening by members of the four local chapters of Beta Sigma Phi who met for dinner. Toastmistress, Mrs. Thomas Dreier, welcomed new pledges and a member of each chapter recalled events of the past year. Gamma Beta and Iota chapters presented their "Girl of the Year Awards" to Miss Helen Bushey and Mrs. Fred Lindberg, Hortonville.

The program was concluded with a message from Walter Ross, founder.

Mothers-in-Law Demand Equal Time

BY ERMA BOMBECK

Mothers-in-law have demanded equal time. They are sick of the tired MIL jokes. ("You know what mixed emotion is? It's watching your mother-in-law go over a cliff in your new Cadillac.")

They are weary of the "dragon" image. There is another side to the coin.

I told you my mail is normally dominated by prejudiced daughters-in-law. Last week, after a column on "My Mother-in-law the Doctor," my mail felt the surge of protest from prejudiced mothers-in-law.

This is the status of some mothers-in-law as they see it.

Youth vs. Stoneage Relationship: This usually occurs where one of the mothers is a swinger in mini-skirt and boots who thought the wedding reception was groovy, while the other mother wore an orthopedic corset health shoes and her own hair and thought the reception should have been raided by the police. The daughter-in-law, rationalizing she and her parent by marriage have nothing in common, will be condescending. She will turn up the heat when she visits, set a tank of oxygen by the door and ask her for her favorite recipe for dinosauer.

The Missionary-Mau Mau Relationship: This is one of outright hostility. As one mother-in-law puts it. "I feel like a wife who is turning the pages of Playboy magazine for her husband while he is reading it. When I walk into the room, conversation stops, my daughter-in-law remembers she has to clean the oven and the air is stiff with polite conversation. I'm afraid to stay for dinner . . . in case I'm it!"

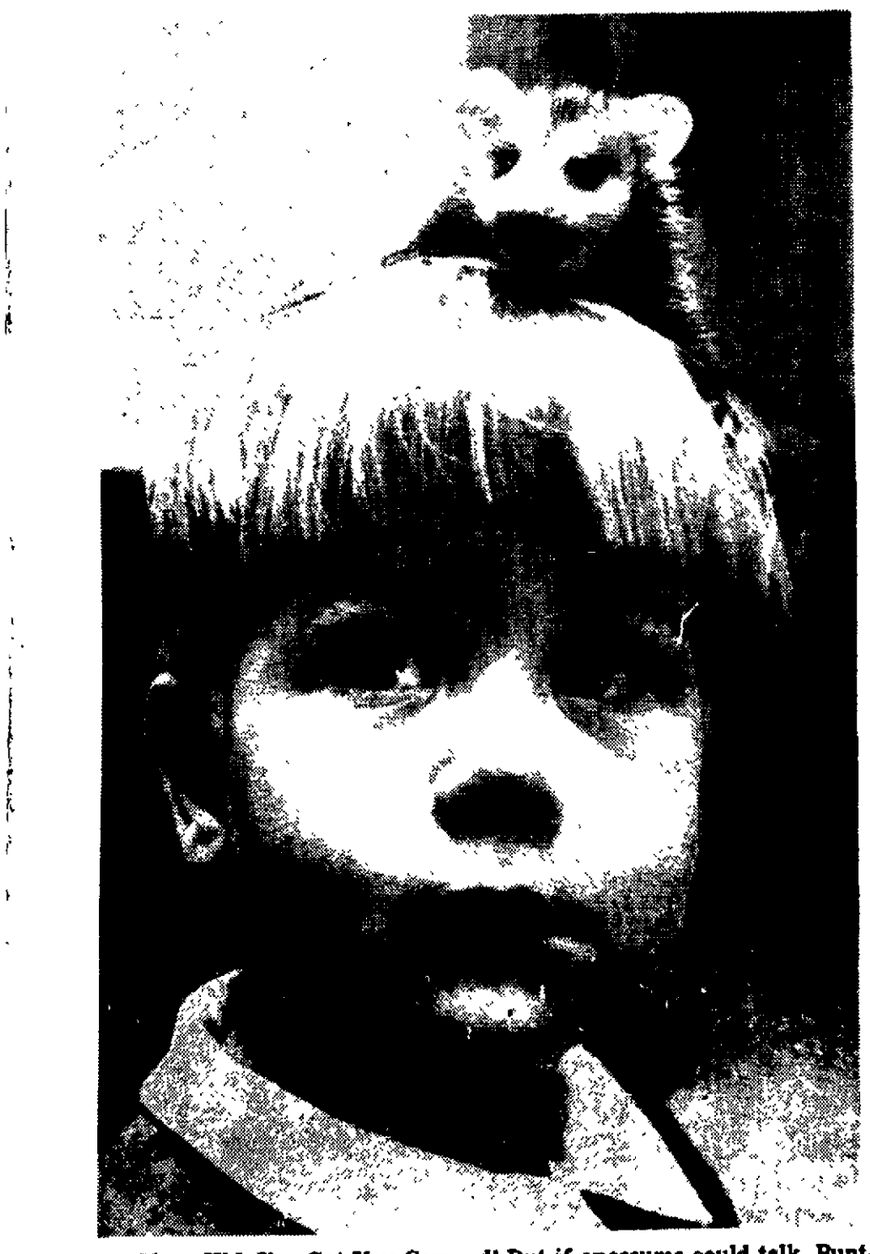

The Dr. Spock-Village Simpleton Relationship: This is resentment that occurs usually after the arrival of the first grandchild. A MIL puts it better, "I had to wear surgical gloves to wave bye bye. My daughter-in-law must have thought I conceived a baby through divine conception. Now, the only time I see them is when they drop off the baby for us to sit. It's amazing how you can learn so much in just three short months."

The Militant Relationship: Thsi is total war. Sides are chosen with mother on one side, the in-law on the other, the child in the middle like Czechoslovakia under attack. A phone call is interpreted as meddling; a birthday present as a bribe; a visit as alienation of affection.

It's tough. You can't be a Mom drop-out just be transferring the laundry to another home. You can't let go or stop caring just because a child has taken a spouse.

You can fight it, adjust to it, cry or laugh. But if you look upon this woman as someone who gave life to the man or woman you married, you'll have to admit, she did something right.

Okay, Kid, I've Got You Covered! But if opossums could talk, Punter, the furry creature peeking over two-year-old Hunter Swearingen's head wouldn't sound half as ferocious as he looks. Actually, ever since Punter's mother was killed by a car, he and the little boy from Tampa Fla., have been inseparable buddies. (AP Wirephoto)

Manhattan Club Bids Dance Season Farewell

Taking a Turn on the dance floor at North Shore Golf Club are Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Techlin. At right, Mrs. Karl Towsley serves Mr. and Mrs. James Montgomery, West Bend, Manhattan Club guests, and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Canisius at one of several cocktail parties preceding the club's dinner dance. (Post-Crescent Photos)

It was guest night Saturday evening, when The Manhattan Club gathered for its final dinner dance of the season at North Shore Golf Club

Leading off the event was a series of cocktail parties at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Towsley, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Bellinger, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Spooner, Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Baker and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Arbeiter.

Co-chairmen were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Acker and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Podzilni.

Later in the evening, Mr. Podzilni was elected president of the coming season, and Mr. Acker, treasurer. Also assuming official duties were Orme Stach, vice president, and Mrs. Ellde Wagner, secretary.

From the Amused expressions on the faces of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Podzilni and Mrs. Ralph Acker, it must have been a good story Mr. Acker was telling to his fellow Manhattan Club members Saturday evening.

Color Coding Helps Make Home Safer

Color can't make a sound, yet it can ring an alarm against hazards in the home.

Industry, schools and hospitals have long used colors not only for decoration but because of their psychological effect. The Council on Family Health offers some suggestions for the effective use of color in combining decoration with safety, well worth the attention in any spring refurbishing program.

The best attention-getters are red and yellow, and yellow may have the edge. Many hunters are switching to it from the traditional red.

The Council on Family Health, a non-profit organization sponsored as a public service by leading members of the drug industry, suggests that the medicine chest might be one good place for the use of bright colors.

A splash of yellow behind the top shelf would make a good backdrop for storage of medicines which are to be taken internally. The middle section, reserved for medicines for external use, might be painted red. Paint the back behind the bottom section, used for toiletries, blue.

Using color in a child's room is an aid to neatness and to the prevention of accidental falls due to clutter left by children. Paint shelves of a bookcase or drawers of a chest different colors. One color identifies space for books and games. Another color is for toys. A third is for hobby materials. Children are more likely to put away their possessions if there is an easily identifiable place for them.

Make stairs to the basement safer by painting the handrails and top and bottom steps a different color from the staircase.

Climbing will be safer if the top and bottom steps of a ladder are a bright, contrasting color.

Studies show that colors have varying effects on people, but some effects are common to all. For example, red is stimulating; yellow is highly visual but creates a sense of well-being; deep orange can be irritating; white is neutral; purple affects individuals according to mood, depending on the shade; green is so refreshing it has been suggested as a sidewalk color for cities; blue makes people feel serene, and grey is usually soothing.

Whatever colors you use in your home this spring, don't forget that they can function as safety measures, too.

League to Tell UWGB Facts At Luncheon

Mrs. Leander J. Schwartz and Mrs. Henry A. Spille, wives of faculty members at the Fox Valley Campus of the University of Wisconsin, will be attending "Information Please" — an event sponsored by the University League of the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay (UW-GB) Saturday.

Faculty and staff women as well as faculty wives from the four campuses of the UW-GB will gather for noon luncheon at the Carlton Inn, Green Bay.

Speakers will be: Dr. Robert Glaier, assistant chancellor for instruction, and Dr. Donald R. Makuen, executive director of student affairs. Mrs. John Shier, league president, will greet guests and present the speakers.

After the luncheon, the group will take a tour of the buildings, now nearing completion, at the Bay Shore site.

Mrs. Ronald Dhuey and Mrs. Michael Thron are co-chairmen of the luncheon, assisted by Mrs. Lou LeCalsey and Mrs. Forrest Armstrong, table decorations, and Mrs. Craig Black, invitations.

Purpose of this event is to acquaint women of the university with facts and figures about the new UWGB campus which is scheduled to open next fall.

Men to Serve at Mother-Daughter Banquet Tuesday

Annual mother-daughter banquet of the Women's Society of Christian Service of First United Methodist Church will be at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Mrs. Mel Buxton, mistress of ceremonies, will present a tribute to the daughters, and Mrs. Edith Buxton will give the response. The prayer will be said by Mrs. Dwight Fisk, president of the Methodist Mothers' Club.

Kenneth Warde is chairman of the banquet, which is traditionally prepared by the Methodist Men's Club. William Dutcher is the club's president.

A program, "The Joy of Music," will be presented by Mrs. Earl Fetting accompanied by Mrs. Betty Hollinger. Also included in the program are Tommy, Sally, Helen and Lisa Parker; Michael and Julie Positzke, and Gavin Young.

'Fashion Me a Person' to be Theme of NCCW Institute

"Fashion Me A Person," the spring 1969 Institute design of the National Council of Catholic Women (NCCW), will be presented as a four-day session in "creative living," from Monday to Thursday at St. Benedict Center for Christian Unity, Madison.

Area women attending the institute will be Mrs. Clarence H. Lamers, Little Chute, president of Outagamie Deanery, and Mrs. Gordon Gehrman, Kimberly, chairman of Family Affairs Commission for the Green Bay Diocesan Council of Catholic Women.

Enthusiasm Expresssed

Participants in the first program from March 3-6 at the University of Maryland expressed great enthusiasm for the institute, according to the NCCW. "A peak life experience," "a marvelous idea on aiding women to think, motivate and create for themselves," "terrific—and very well organized. Certainly not a typical conference," were among the comments made. On evaluation sheets distributed at the close of the institutue, 40 participants rated the experience as overwhelmingly successful. In the 40 evaluations received, 30 women indicated that "it was one of the most rewarding experiences I have ever had."

Human relations experts developing the Institute design described its function as: "improving attendants' ability to deal with people both within and without the organization structure, stimulating their individual and group creativity, and developing effective ways to experience personal and organizational life (delegating responsibility, organizing time, recognizing needs, making decisions, etc)."

NCCW national staff members and selected volunteers have experienced human relations training themselves, combined with intensive program-building sessions, to equip them as trainers for the regional institutes. Professional trainer-consultants will accompany them as the institutes come to 11 assemblies of women in ten locations before concluding June 5 in Shrewsbury, Mass.

Dates and locations for nearby institutes are Sheraton Elms Hotel, Excelsior Springs, Mo., April 22-25, and Center for Continuing Education, Notre Dame, Ind., (2 sessions) May 11-14 and May 14-17.

Stains Can be Removed From Cured Concrete

Stained concrete is often a displeasing sight. It need not remain so. Almost any stain can be removed from cured concrete, but old, long-neglected stains may require patience and repeated treatments.

Metallic stains are among the more common discolorations found. Iron stains are easily recognizable by their resemblance to rust or by their nearness to steel or iron in or on the concrete.

To remove deep and intense iron stains, the surface should be soaked with a solution made of one part sodium citrate crystals in six parts water. Dip white cloth in this solution and paste over the stain for 10 to 15 minutes. On horizontal surfaces, sprinkle a thin layer of sodium hydrosulphite, moisten with water and cover with a paste of whiting and water.

Vertical Surfaces

On vertical surfaces, after moistening with the sodium citrate solution, place the paste of whiting on a trowel, sprinkle on the hydrosulphite, moisten and apply to the stain.

Do not leave the paste in place more than one hour, as black staining may result. Remove and flush with clear water. If stain remains, repeat the treatment.

Copper or bronze stains are usually green, but can be brown. Either may be removed by making a dry mixture of sal ammoniac and powdered talc (1:4) and adding ammonia water (household ammonia) to make a paste. Place over the stain and allow to dry. (All label precautions should be observed when using ammonia water, particularly cautions regarding eyes and mucous membranes.)

Old stains of this kind may require several applications for complete removal. Aluminum chloride may be used instead of sal ammoniac.

Aluminum Stains

Aluminum stains are usually a white deposit which may be removed by scrubbing with 10 to 20 per cent muriatic acid solution. On colored concrete, weaker solutions should be used. Flush with clear water after removal to prevent etching of the concrete. (Again, label precautions myst be observed since muriatic acid can affect eyes, skin and breathing.)

Free information on concrete stain removal can be obtained from the Portland Cement Association, Dept. PI, Old Orchard Road, Skokie, Ill. 60076.

Sludge Incinerator Gets Approval From Committee

$450,000 Bonds Will Be Delayed

Financing of a $450,000 sludge incinerator for the Appleton disposal plant was approved by the city council's finance committee Thursday night, but the bond sale will be delayed

Finance Director David Champion said because of high interest rates, the city should wait a few months until deciding whether or not to go into the municipal bond market

"There is a slight trend toward rates leveling off," Champion advised the committee

He noted the incinerator facility had been included in the capital improvement budget this year

The city has had a problem with treated wet sludge which it now buries in a large ravine adjoining the plant on the southside, along with hauling it at one time to the landfill at Mackville When dried out, the sludge makes for good fill

No More Room

However, the city is running out of room for places to deposit it

Donald Bengs, assistant public works director, told the committee it would take at least 17 months to complete the incinerator installation once plans and specifications were prepared

He said the inner city was under obligation to make the improvement — not only because of the need to burn the sludge — but also due to an order from the state in connection with its anti-pollution program.

The committee recommended the council adopt a resolution appropriating the $450,000 and then bond for the money later.

Sludge Burned

Under the incineration process, the sludge will be burned and disintegrated It will eliminate the need for burying or hauling from the plant site.

The committee also discussed several other financial matters, including short-term bonding for public works projects involving special assessments in which the city recovers payments over a five-year period

Report States Pollution Still 'Severe' on Fox

State Points to Abatement Efforts By Paper Companies

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The Fox River Valley paper industry has invested heavily in pollution abatement facilities and programs, but improvement in water quality of the river will require "substantial additional investment," the State Department of Natural Resources said today.

The forecast was made by the department's Division of Environmental Sanitation in what it called an "overview" report on water resources planning and the character of the water protection problems of the state

It asserted that the most severe surface water pollution problem in the state involves the lower Fox and the southern portion of Green Bay.

"The magnitude of the problem is compounded by the vast amount of water utilized by the paper industry and the enormity of the natural pollution," the document explained, adding that on the lower Fox over a distance of 40 miles there are 19 paper industry sources of pollutants.

The report said that the 19 mills discharge 276,840 pounds of biochemical oxygen demanding waste each day after treatment, noting that a similar B.O.D demand might be expected to enter a municipal sewage treatment plant serving a city of 1,500,000.

There is additional waste discharged into the Oconto, Peshtigo and Menominee rivers, also primarily by paper plants.

The report reminded that there is a natural pollution problem in the lower Fox River, as exemplified by the Lake Winnebago algae which decompose in the river or in Green Bay, thus increasing the B.O.D. load

Region 3 of the division, consisting of the east central and northeastern counties, also has a major problem of pollution resulting from land runoff, the report went on. Silt-laden streams are numerous in agricultural areas, which is a clear indication of the need for more work in soil conservation, the division observed

Pollution by inadequate sewage disposal facilities at private residences also "needs intensive attention", the document warned, explaining that the problem is especially critical in the southern and eastern parts of the region because of the fine textured soils, high water table and shallow depth to bedrock

The report said that region 3 field men have spent as much time dealing with problems of private water supplies in Door County as in the other 19 counties in the region combined. But the sanitary ordinance now is effect in the county will resolve some of those problems, the report promised.

Workmen Employed by Central Contracting Corp., Oshkosh, are installing a 30-inch sanitary sewer interceptor just west of U.S. 41 on County Trunk BB in Grand Chute. The interceptor will run west of Van Dyke Street initially, but will later serve the entire town area west of the highway. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Outagamie Port ILS Federally Commissioned

Landing System Will Avert Many Plane Diversions

The Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) commissioned the Outagamie County airport's instrument landing system (ILS) Thursday afternoon.

The ILS will stop the diversion of many flights to other airports because of inclement weather and increase the safety of bad weather landings.

(Air Wisconsin Inc., had to reroute 50 flights to the Winnebago County airport at Oshkosh last weekend because of bad weather, according to a county official.)

Offered Thursday

The commissioning became official late Thursday afternoon after Charles Olson, airport manager, and two FAA officials took a flight to test it The FAA had been running tests since mid-January.

Specifically, the ILS will allow airplanes to land if cloud cover is 250 feet high and lateral visibility is at least three quarters of a mile. Previously, planes could land if cloud cover was at least 400 feet high and visibility one mile.

A supplementary system, the approach lighting system, will be completed in 30 to 45 days, Olson said, and this will allow landings at 200 feet cloud cover and half a mile visibility. Both systems are on the northeast-southwest runway.

The ILS, in effect, provides a roadway of horizontal and vertical radio beams, on which a pilot can guide his aircraft to landings

The county financed the ILS at a cost of $100,000, including $82,000 for instruments and about $18,000 for access roads, control lights and other equipment

The ILS was installed by the Airborne Instruments Laboratory Inc., New York-based division of Cutler-Hammer Co., Milwaukee. Installation began in November.

Responsibilities Outlined

Lawyers Told What Teen Should Know About Laws

BY BILL KNUTSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Young people should be told —That the theft of a comb is, in the eyes of the law, no different from the theft of a $99 item. The sentence for either could be up to six months in jail.

—That the possession of marijuana calls for a sentence, in Wisconsin, of from two to 10 years for the first offense.

—That even the modest use of intoxicants can cause driving mistakes that can cost life, limb, or long loss of driving rights

Immoral Conduct

—That the legal, social, and financial consequences of immoral conduct are staggering

—That suspension of restriction of a driver's license is mandatory for the first traffic offense by a driver between 16 and 18 years of age, and that revocation is required for the second offense — no matter how minimal

Attorneys share the responsibility of "telling" the young people the things they should know, Waukesha County Judge William Callow said Thursday night.

Speaking at a Law Day dinner sponsored by the Outagamie County Bar Association, Callow told lawyers that if they failed to accept the responsibility of helping "warn" young people " . . . you're not fulfilling your jobs as lawyers."

Addresses To Students

Callow delivered the same address to the county's attorneys that he has presented to 150,000 high school students

Most of his talk concerned what teen-agers should be told regarding legal restrictions on the right to marry and the legal consequences of immoral conduct

Few teen-agers, Callow said, realize that no girl under 16 and no boy under 18 can legally marry under any circumstances in Wisconsin

Nor do they realize, he remarked, that six persons usually must say "yes" before a boy 18 to 21 may marry a girl between 16 and 18 — the couple and each of their parents

Face Prosecution

And many teen-agers, Callows explained, do not know and should be told that anyone leaving Wisconsin to marry, in an attempt to evade state law, may find such marriage "null and void" in Wisconsin

This, according to Callow, could mean that —Such persons could face prosecution and up to a year in prison.

—If they return to Wisconsin and live together as man and wife, the boy could be charged with statuatory rape if the girl is under 18

—If the marriage is null and void, the "wife" would be ineligible for Social Security benefits should her "husband" die, and the legitimacy of any children born to them would be in serious doubt

Serious Trouble

Callow further charged lawyers with the responsibility of warning young people that "a marriage based only on convenience due to pregnancy is in serious trouble right from the start."

He added, "the young man who indulges in an intimate relationship should be prepared to pay hospital and doctor bills plus $20 to $25 per week for 18 years — for a total of more than $20,000

Callow likened irresponsible moral conduct among teen-agers to Russian roulet — "except in this Russian roulet every chamber is loaded and every player is a victim."

Scouting Council Presents Awards

Awards, introductions, elections and an address by a noted psychologist highlighted the annual Tri-City District, Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America dinner meeting Thursday

Elected as district chairman was F. H. Sprowl. A S Dillon was chosen district vice chairman and Dr Carroll Garey, commissioner

Operating committee heads selected by the group include John Spaulding, activities; the Rev. Roger Strebel, advancement, John Long, camping; Ray Remer, health and safety; and William Cooley, leadership training

Awards for volunteer service included two women — den mothers who were described by Master of Ceremonies Donald Brown as "heroines" Mrs. Nancy Heinzkill and Mrs Nancy Nelson, both of Neenah, were the recipients of the training awards.

Scouter Keys

Scouter's keys went to Richard Mykel, Neenah; Harold Witthuhn, Patrick McCormick and Warren Smith, all of Appleton Scouter's training award recipients included the Rev. Lee J. Kahrs, Vincent Berg, Perry Pollard, Roy O Saker, Tom Hollenbeck, John Bauhs Jr., Arnold Reis, Carroll Moors and James DeGroot, all of Appleton, and LeRoy Peterson, Neenah Cooley made the presentations.

In a succinct message, the speaker, Dr. Donald Derozier, staff psychologist at Winnebago State Hospital, outlined to the group of more than 200 the goals of the Scouting program for the future

"One of your challenges should be to extend your program to include the youths who really need to belong to such an organization — the boys who otherwise don't have the opportunity to find ideals that the Scouting program offers," Dr. Derozier emphasized

New Topics

Another thought for the future, the speaker added, should be to include the new topics, such as pollution and the ruination of natural resources into the fine and time-tested study program

"Your organization has much more opportunity to be close to nature than those in inner cities and this is the age when they should learn about such topics," the psychologist said

He also added that the Scouting program could help bridge the gap created by social ills. "The two principles that society can learn from Scouts are to be

Grand Chute, City Disagree On Assessing

Another hitch in Appleton-Town of Grand Chute relations developed today over levying a road paving assessment

Sometime ago the city paved Lynndale Drive on the far west side south of Spencer Street

While the street proper is in the city, abutting property owners on the west side of Lynndale Drive are in the Town of Grand Chute.

The city recently requested the town board to levy special assessments against abutting owners

In a letter to the city clerk today, Town Clerk Leslie C Woldt said the town board denied the city's request.

"Reasons are there would be no benefit derived from this concrete paving," Woldt wrote.

Short Leaves Area Without Power 1 Hour

A power outage blacked out the homes of about 175 to 200 residents of Appleton's east side and Kimberly's west side Thursday night.

The affected area was between Kimberly's west village limits and the E. College Avenue bridge and the Fox River and E. Newberry Street. A few residences south of Newberry also were affected.

The outage lasted from 8:15 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

A Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. spokesman said the outage apparently was caused by a shorted lightning arrester in an area warehouse. A resident alerted the power company and the arrester was replaced.

There were no reported major problems as a result of the outage, the spokesman said.

Milwaukee-Based Business

Post Corp. Acquires All-Star Insurance

Post Corporation of Appleton, today announced it has reached an agreement in principle to acquire a majority of the common stock of All-Star Insurance Corp., a Milwaukee-based stock property and casualty insurer specializing in surplus and excess lines.

Post said it intends to buy, for an undisclosed amount, all the stock of Cameron General Corp., a Delaware corporation which owns approximately 55 per cent of All-Star's stock. The Cameron shares will be purchased from Anglo-American Investment Trust, Ltd., a Bahamian trust company

All-Star, organized in 1960 to engage in the fire and casualty insurance business in Wisconsin, was extensively reorganized last year to permit it to operate in the surplus and excess lines business on a nationwide basis

Post said it intends to retain in their present posts All-Star's two principal officers, President and Treasurer Francis A Davis and Vice President John H Ronnebeck, plus the rest of the operating staff.

This is Post's first venture into the insurance field. Publisher of a daily newspaper in Appleton since 1898, in recent years it has acquired four television and four radio stations in the Midwest, and several other newspaper properties in Wisconsin

In late 1968, after a successful public offering of its stock, it entered the communications engineering business in Milwaukee, and earlier this week announced its intention to acquire a newspaper and commercial printing business in West Bend

Vandals Damage Kimberly Property

KIMBERLY — William Dupont, 132 S Birch St., reported to police that vandals smashed a bird bath from his yard in his driveway, tore out some fence and threw a neighbor's burning barrel into his yard sometime Wednesday night

3 Purses Taken From Residence

Three purses, containing about $20, were taken Thursday night or early today from a southside home while the occupants were asleep

Police were called to the Joseph Ebenhoe residence, 916 E Fremont St., about 3 50 a m today, after a member of the family noticed it was cold in the house and got up to find a rear door open

The purses belonging to Mrs Ebenhoe and two daughters, were found about 5 15 a.m. today in the 700 block of E McKinley Street

Police were told that the Ebenhoes discovered a house key missing from their garage about a week ago The key may have been used to gain entry into the house, police said

Youths Pelt Squad Cars With Eggs

Two city squad cars on patrol near Appleton High School-West, were pelted with raw eggs about 1 p m Thursday.

Police said it was impossible to determine who threw the eggs, because about 200 students were gathered in the area

Police explained that patrols around the high school were stepped up recently in an attempt to alleviate youths standing in the roadway and "hotrodding" around the school.

Strike Again Halts Work at Point Beach

Nuclear Power Plant Construction Stops Second Time in Week

TWO CREEKS — Work apparently has come to a standstill for the second time in a week at the Point Beach Nuclear Power plant, it was learned this morning.

Reports were received that members of several unions went out on strike Thursday afternoon, apparently in protest over a few union workers being dismissed.

Union and company officials were conferring this morning, and the talks were expected to continue through the noon hour if an agreement could not be reached, it was reported. Spokesmen for both sides were not available for comment.

Stoppage on Friday

Union construction workers struck last Friday afternoon in a dispute over a non-union truck hauling materials onto the site of the $120 million project. Company personnel had unloaded the truck.

However, agreement was reached over the weekend and work resumed Monday.

The power plant is jointly owned by the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co., Appleton, and the Wisconsin Electric Power Co., Milwaukee. Completion is anticipated in 1971.

Testifies at Natural Resources Hearing

Post-Crescent News Service

MADISON — Intensive cross-examination all day Thursday failed to budge a noted toxicologist from his position that DDT is safe for human health.

"No illness of any sort has been detected from DDT," Dr. Wayland J. Hayes asserted at a Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources hearing.

He discounted fear that the pesticide may be a cause of cancer. He refuted suggestions that it could disturb the liver, cause sterility, or bring on other long-term harmful reactions in the human body.

A member of the medical faculty at Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn., Dr. Hayes has done extensive research on DDT. He is an official of the World Health Organization, and a former chief of the toxicology division of the U.S. Public Health Service.

It was his second full day on the stand as a defensive witness for DDT. Thursday was the 16th day of the hearing, which began in December on a petition calling for a ban on use of DDT in Wisconsin

With other witnesses called today, there were indications that the hearing would run another eight or 10 days. Hayes was back to teaching at Vanderbilt today, but attorneys said they want to get him back for at least another day of questioning.

There was one interlude of fireworks Thursday.

It was touched off by the attorney for the DDT ban petitioners, Victory J. Yannacone, of Patchogue, N.Y. He lashed out at Hayes with shouts and arm waving shortly after the morning session had begun.

That evoked a prompt, stern rebuke from Maurice Van Susteren, hearing examiner for the DNR.

'Cool Off'

"Cool off!" Van Susteren ordered. "Histrionics have no place here. I will have no badgering of witnesses."

Yannaconne, who is leading a national crusade against DDT use, took the hint The rest of the day he was about as gentle and patronizing as a kindergarten teacher.

The mild, grey-haired Hayes answered each question in a patient manner. Frequently, however, he began with the phrase "as I told you before. . ."

The New York lawyer probed Dr Hayes for details and conclusions concerning DDT research he had described in previous testimony

One phase of Dr. Hayes' work involves volunteers at a federal prison who were given massive doses of DDT for a year and one half. Another was with a group of factory workers who had been exposed to large quantities of DDT He also has made extensive observations with field workers and with animals.

Hayes said that with animals, dosages of DDT can be pushed up to the point of causing death. No lasting harmful effects have been observed with humans involved in controlled tests. Dr. Hayes asserted. He did not rule out suicide or accident, however.

"There have been some cases of death by drinking DDT solution, but evidence shows that they die from the solvent rather than DDT. It is possible, of course, that DDT could cause death in man if enough is taken," he remarked

Volunteers receiving large doses of DDT have reported a sensation around the mouth and tongue With increasingly larger doses, there was tingling in the fingers and toes, tremor, and finally a feeling of alarm or fear, Dr. Hayes said.

Yannacone alluded to evidence that DDT concentrations have been found in bodies of some cancer victims.

"In experiments with rats, we are able to increase the concentration of DDT by starvation. Increases cancer," Dr Hayes explained, "there is, in fact, an element of sure starvation—a wasting away"

Van Susteren contributed an observation at this point

"You are saying that DDT did not cause cancer, but that the wasting away caused the DDT concentration?"

Dr. Hayes said that he was merely passing on an observation made in the report of another researcher. Dr William Deichmann, a toxicologist at the University of Miami.

No Evidence

The witness refused to concede that DDT might be affecting any organ of the body adversely He maintained that not a shred of reliable evidence has been produced

"But there's abundant evidence that DDT does stimulate all parts of the nervous system under sufficiently large doses."

Dr. Hayes contended that DDT is a safe pesticide from the human standpoint He did not say that it cannot cause sickness if the degree of exposure is high

$13,000 Price Set on Final Tract for Mosquito Hill Park

A rural New London couple was awarded $13,000 Thursday for a 20-acre farm which is part of the Outagamie County Mosquito Hill preserve.

The award was made by three court-appointed commissioners following a second day of testimony Tuesday on the county's condemnation proceedings

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Magolski were seeking $25,000 and the county was offering $2,800, based on an appraisal sometime ago.

Also testifying on the hill and swampland were Edwin Krause, Town of Liberty assessor, Michael John, Appleton land developer; Donald Mathewson, Appleton licensed surveyor, Herman Jennerjohn, Appleton real estate broker and land developer, Lawrence Thern, Liberty town supervisor; George Peotter, Appleton land appraiser, and Charles Hervey, chief park planner of the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission

The decision can be appealed to the Circuit Court by either party

The 20-acre parcel, located in the northwest portion of the preserve, was taken over by the county in September of 1968. The proceedings were to determine a price

It is the final piece of land on which the county had to make settlement.

U.S. Suffers Heavy Losses in Aircraft

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today that 23 helicopters and 10 fixed-wing planes were lost in the Vietnam war during the past week. It was one of the more expensive weeks for America's aerial forces.

Most of the helicopters were shot down, and the others were lost in collisions or enemy attacks on U.S. bases, headquarters said.

At least two of the planes were fighter-bombers reported shot down earlier. The command gave no details about the other losses.

The report said a total of 2,585 U.S. helicopters and 2,681 planes now have been lost in the war.

A U.S. spokesman also announced that 38,000 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese killed since the Viet Cong spring offensive started Feb. 23, and American and South Vietnamese forces since the first of the year have captured.

2,500 Rockets

—2,500 rockets and 110,000 mortar rounds, "more than the enemy has fired countrywide in the same period."

—2,500 tons of rice, enough to feed 50 battalions of 500 men each for four months.

—20,000 individual weapons and 3,000 crew-served weapons.

Although the U.S. Command did not say the enemy offensive was over, the spokesman said the heavy losses had forced the enemy to reduce his offensive operations.

"We estimate that the enemy's activities have decreased because he did not have any other choice," the spokesman said. "The primary reason for this, as you may have noted in the weekly statistical summaries, is that the enemy has suffered about 38,000 killed since Feb. 23.

"These are serious losses which exceed his losses during the same time frame following initiation of his offensives in both May and August of 1968. . .

Since Peace Talks

Roughly one-third of the total American and enemy casualties in eight years and four months of fighting in Vietnam have occurred in the year since the United States and North Vietnam agreed to talk peace.

Saturday is the first anniversary of President Lyndon B. Johnson's announcement that Washington and Hanoi had agreed to send negotiators to Paris. Ten days later, on May 13, 1968, preliminary peace talks opened.

In the 52 weeks of fighting from April 27, 1968 through last Saturday, April 26, a total of 12,440 Americans and 153,779 of the enemy were killed in action and 79,793 U.S. troops were wounded, according to U.S. Command figures. South Vietnamese headquarters reports 14,367 of its troops killed and 52,526 wounded in that year.

The U.S. Command says that since the United States entered the war in force on Jan. 1, 1961, a total of 34,446 Americans and 488,231 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have died in battle and another 221,012 Americans have been wounded.

Fizzled Out

U.S. military sources say the sharp reduction in American combat dead last week—to 163, the lowest total since Jan. 11—indicates the Viet Cong's spring offensive has fizzled out.

The offensive began Feb. 23, and senior U.S. staff officers feel it began petering out a week ago when the number of enemy rocket and mortar attacks considered significant dropped off to a low of 13. Since then there have been less than a dozen of these attacks a night, including only five reported Thursday night.

U.S. sources say North Vietnamese and Viet Cong units have fallen back to border areas to receive replacements for about 38,000 troops killed in their offensive.

"If they follow the same pattern," said one source, "They'll resupply, replace their losses, recuperate and I suppose prepare for another offensive."

Frontier Areas

Most of the enemy attacks reported during the past 24 hours came along frontier areas. Seven U.S. Marines were killed and 17 wounded in a day-long fight Thursday two miles south of the demilitarized zone. Initial reports said at least seven North Vietnamese troops were killed.

North Vietnamese gunners also sent nearly 100 rounds of rockets and mortars into the three U.S. bases near the Cambodian border, bases that threaten enemy infiltration routes northwest of Saigon. Over-all casualties were light, the U.S. Command said.

Doctors Become Targets for Suits

mum coverage, an AMA official said.

Minimum coverage might cost $400 to $600 for protection against claims of up to $5,000. Many hospitals insist that doctors with staff privileges carry at least $100,000 in insurance, and often more.

Speeches and articles by doctors and lawyers and files of the American Medical Association list a number of reasons for the filing of malpractice suits.

Among the most prominently mentioned are

—With the number of doctors failing to increase as rapidly as the population, doctors are busier and the doctor-patient relationship is less personal than that of the sentimentally recalled family doctor.

—Lawyers pressing malpractice claims are paid a contingent fee; that is, their fee depends on whether they win the case, and then it is a percentage of the award to the plaintiff. This is said to encourage vigorous trial of a claim and pressing juries for big awards.

—Courts are more liberal in the type of evidence permitted in malpractice suits. In the past, it has been difficult to get a doctor to testify against one of his colleagues, but now textbooks and outside experts are permitted in court.

—Publicity given malpractice suits, whether the suits are successful or not, encourages others to file suits.

—The public has been oversold on the value of modern drugs and modern surgical techniques, so more is expected from doctors and hospitals than sometimes can be delivered.

Lawyers Reluctant

Sidney Robin, a member of a Chicago law firm which handles malpractice suits for both plaintiffs and defendants, said "most lawyers respect the medical profession and are reluctant to file a suit" in a malpractice case.

He said there is an increase in the number of cases filed because people are more aware of the possibility of malpractice action and it is "a bit easier to win."

Richard P. Bergen, director of the AMA's department of legal research, said the trend to higher awards to successful plaintiffs results from the fact that the public is aware that doctors have the highest average income of any professional group so juries decide "for the working stiff."

He said this trend also results in part from inflation (other jury awards also are up); the awareness on the part of the jury that insurance companies are going to have to pay and they resent insurance companies because of their experiences with them; and the knowledge among jurors that lawyers will get a third to half of any award.

Policies Canceled

The cost of malpractice insurance is especially prohibitive for young physicians starting their practice.

But more serious than the cost to this group and other physicians, Bergen says, is the cancellation of policies and the leaving of the malpractice field by some insurance companies.

Hirsh said the AMA is working on a medical accident insurance plan for patients which would eliminate the issue of negligence.

The cost for such insurance to the patient would be nominal, Hirsh said, and the plan would help curtail the rising malpractice premiums and costs.

Robin said this is a "shocking suggestion."

He said this insures the doctor and it is unreasonable to expect the patient to pay for such insurance when he is entitled to receive expert, prudent care from his physician.

'Indefinite Period'

Hickel Retains Former Lobbyist Who Opposed Conservation Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former lobbyist who opposed two conservation measures and later was hired by the Interior Department for two months as a high-level consultant has now been retained by Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel for "an indefinite period."

The Associated Press revealed last February that Hickel had retained the former lobbyist for the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, James G. Watt, after Watt testified against measures dealing with industrial water pollution and reclamation of strip-mined lands.

At that time, the Interior Department said Watt had been hired for two months as a $98-a-day consultant in organizing the department under the new administration.

Watt's two-month term ended March 26. Today he is still at the department and holds the title of special consultant to the secretary.

A spokesman said Watt is not in a policy-making position and his job continues to be one of advising on departmental organization.

"His initial two-month contract expired some time ago," a spokesman said Thursday. "He is now working on a day-to-day basis for an indefinite period."

As a lobbyist for business and industry interests last year, Watt opposed two pieces of conservation legislation supported by the Interior Department, then headed by Democrat Stewart L. Udall.

One bill, written by Udall, would have implemented new standards on industrial water pollution, requiring a minimum of two stages of treatment for municipal wastes and a "comparable degree of treatment" for industrial wastes.

Watt told the House Public Works Committee, which was considering the legislation, that if the federal government insisted on such standards, the federal government should have to pay for their implementation.

One congressional source responded: "He is willing to accept whatever industry has to do if the public will pay for it."

Strip-Mined Lands

Watt also opposed legislation before the Senate Interior Committee which would have provided for federal-state cooperation in reclamation of strip-mined lands.

In a letter to Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., committee chairman, Watt conceded that only one-third of the land in the United States which had been strip mined had been adequately reclaimed, but called for defeat of the legislation on the grounds that such reclamation "is a responsibility of the mining industry and local and state governments."

Both pieces of legislation still are pending in Congress.

Israeli Post Hit By Arab Saboteurs Near Sea of Galilee

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A squad of Arab saboteurs from Jordan attacked an Israeli army emplacement today, there were skirmishes on the border of Lebanon and Cairo reported cannonading along the Suez Canal.

A military spokesman in Tel Aviv said two soldiers were killed and three were wounded in the saboteur attack near El Hamma on the Yarmuk River, a tributary of the Jordan southeast of the Sea of Galilee. Two saboteurs also were reported killed.

The spokesman said the Arabs struck with grenades and light arms. In retreating, they left behind a large quantity of mines and explosives, he added.

Serious Damage

At about the same time, a bomb went off in El Hamma, a hot springs resort now being developed, causing serious damage to a building, the spokesman reported.

The Yarmuk River area is ideally suited for guerrilla operations because the river is at a low level and surrounding bushes make good places for concealment. Earlier this week, an explosive charge blasted a bus in the El Hamma area, killing a Jewish laborer and wounding several other persons.

Farther north, the army announced two Arab saboteurs were killed and an Israeli soldier was wounded in clashes on the Lebanese border.

An army spokesman said in Cairo Israeli forces opened fire on Egyptian positions at El Tina north of El Qantara on the northern reaches of the Suez Canal cease-fire line. Egyptian forces returned the fire and the exchange continued sporadically for 3½ hours, the spokesman added.

Swap New Claims

Egypt and Israeli have swapped new claims and denials but have told Secretary-General U Thant they are trying to limit danger to U.N. observers along the canal. He had protested the exchange of fire across the canal endangered his observers.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser told a May Day rally in Cairo Thursday that Egyptian forces had destroyed 60 per cent of Israel's fortifications along the east band of the waterway.

Israeli Information Minister Yisrael Galili said Nasser's claim is a "clearcut but not unusual example of Egypt's mendacious propaganda."

Nasser also branded as a failure an Israeli raid Tuesday night on targets about 300 miles south of Cairo. He said warplanes, not commandos as the Israelis said, attempted the attack. He claimed the planes were turned back before they could do any significant damage.

This, said Nasser, demonstrated the improvement in Egypt's defense since last Oct. 31, when Israeli commandos damaged bridges, dams and a power plant in the same area.

Nasser said Egyptian shelling across the canal would continue until all the Israeli bases are destroyed. He hinted Egypt might launch a major attempt to retake the Sinai Desert, saying "Who could blame us for moving into this land?"

Once more Nasser declared that the Arabs "will never give up any land occupied by Israel and particularly not Jerusalem."

"We will not accept that Jerusalem be annexed to Israel," he said. "We will fight to the last drop of our blood for the liberation of Jerusalem."

Nasser Countered

The Israelis countered Nasser's claims about the raid Tuesday night, saying an area Egyptian official showed foreign newsmen was not the target of their attack. An army spokesman in Tel Aviv said the Israeli commandos brought down six power-line towers and the power grid's automatic control center in attacks near Isna and Naj Hamadi 300 miles south of Cairo. Earlier, the Israelis said their men damaged the Naj Hamadi Dam and the Idfu bridge.

At U.N. headquarters a spokesman said Secretary-General Thant would issue a report to the Security Council today or Saturday on his "increasing anxiety for the safety" of the 92 military observers along the Suez Canal cease-fire line.

In letters to Egypt and Israel, Thant said unmistakably marked U.N. observation posts had "been repeatedly fired on by both sides" and U.N. property destroyed and damaged.

Annexation of Winnebago Airport Will be Proposed

OSHKOSH — Annexation of the Winnebago County Airport to the City of Oshkosh will probably be recommended to the county board.

Airport Manager Michael T. Brock has been instructed to make a study of effects of annexation on the airport and report back to the board's aviation committee by June 1.

Postal Property

The Aviation committee learned Thursday that Oshkosh will not supply sewer and water to the new post office site on the airport unless the postal property is annexed to the city.

Supv. Kenneth Seefeld, Oshkosh, said, "It may be time to annex the entire airport. We would then get police and fire protection free."

City Services

Theodore H. Irion, architect for the new post office, said tentative plans call for the start of construction about June, 1970, and sewer and water service are vital to the project.

He said they cannot put in a septic tank nor an elevated tower for water.

The city now provided sewer and water services to the rest of the airport under an old agreement.

Federal Ruling?

Irion indicated that if no agreement is reached on the sewer and water issue, the federal government could step in and ask to have the land annexed.

Brock also indicated they should know within a week whether federal aid will be available for the requested 1,300 foot extension for the north-south runway.

If that project is approved, he said, State Aeronautics Director Fritz Wolff indicated there was a possibility funds for updating the airport master plan could be incorporated.

Welfare Group Cuts Funds Across Board

PIERRE, S.D. (AP) — The South Dakota Welfare Commission has decided to cut public assistance payments 5 per cent across the board for fiscal 1970.

The reduction, affects all categories, including the aged, blind, disabled and dependent children.

The Welfare Department staff also was instructed to reduce medical expenditures by 5 per cent for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Welfare director Peter B. Grossman said the action was taken so that the department may stay with the appropriation limit set by the 1969 Legislature.

Women Dies in Ozaukee Crash

An Ozaukee County crash pushed Wisconsin's 1969 traffic fatality toll to 242 today compared with 325 on the same date last year.

Mrs. Roman Ruta, 60, of Wauwatosa died Thursday when her car left U.S. 141 near Port Washington and struck a bridge pillar.

University Can't Keep Off 'Grass'

PULLMAN, Wash. (AP) — Some new plants appeared recently in decorative planters along a new mall at Washington State University.

Marvin R. Gibson, a pharmacology professor, identified them Thursday as marijuana.

A crudely painted sign near the planters said: "Keep Off the Grass."

Motorists and Some Businessmen growled this week when a portion of Newberry Street on Appleton's eastside was closed for storm sewer construction, above. The project has progressed well and should be completed by the weekend. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Untreated Liquid Bypassed

Clarifier Breakdown Repaired

NEENAH — A breakdown at the Bergstrom Paper Co. clarifier system last Saturday night had been repaired by 5:30 p.m. Thursday, and by this morning plant officials reported the appearance of liquid entering the river from the plant had "improved greatly".

During the period of the breakdown, spokesmen said the plant was bypassed an undetermined number of gallons of untreated liquid directly into the river. Company officials said state natural resources agents were informed of the breakdown immediately.

A film, ranging in color from gray to yellow to green, flowed with the wind and current across Little Lake Butte des Morts and spread downstream along the west shoreline for several miles.

Fishermen and residents of the west shore kept telephones ringing throughout the period. Besides Bergstrom, local newspaper offices also received numerous complaints.

One Bergstrom executive said an official of Kimberly-Clark Corp. had called to say people also were calling K-C accusing that company's Lakeview Mill of producing pollution. The material floated against the shoreline occupied by Kimberly-Clark's clarifier.

The material was described as being chiefly clay along with some tiny paper fibers, removed from scrap paper that is the raw material used in the Bergstrom manufacturing process.

The breakdown at Bergstrom was in the machinery that scrapes sediment from the bottom of the half-million gallon clarifier tank after the clay and other materials have settled from the water.

Officials said the firm had several thousand pounds of gears flown in from Philadelphia to make the repairs. The time required for ordering the shipping accounted for most of the period of bypassing, with the parts received Wednesday.

The breakdown was described as "very unusual". The clarifier system was put into operation in December, 1967.

Donor Comes Clean, Backs Church Drive

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A campaign to raise $5,000 to keep open a church-sponsored coffee house for hippies has been successful.

But one individual didn't send money.

Middle Ground Holds Power at Universities

NEENAH — Forcing the traditionally conservative middle to take sides is the real inherent danger in campus disorders, according to the public information director of Oshkosh State University.

Garner Horton, speaking to the Neenah Rotary Club Thursday noon, said the polarization of the middle to a left or right philosophy could destroy the basic history of democracy.

"It has been said that democracy is the fruit of democracy," Horton stated. "The middle groups are the ones which traditionally have taken the best points from the right and left to bring about orderly change."

"In campus disorders," he continued, "the extremist groups, both left and right, are forcing this middle group to choose sides, and instead of three camps you then have two."

Horton said he had seen the polarization take place on the OSU campus. "We had students who volunteered to help the police, he said. "This is a good example of the middle grounders starting to take sides."

"There are four basic groups involved in a campus," he said. "First you have the hard-core revolutionaries. Usually this is a small group who are devoted to destruction of society."

"A second group is the misfits. These are the people who are not sufficiently recognized by society and see a demonstration as a means to gain their recognition."

"A third group is the liberals who are interested in change and concerned about the problems but who are open to communication. The unfortunate thing about this group is many times they tie in with the first two in trying to achieve their ends."

"A final group, and this is the majority, is the middle. These people are opposed to the extremes and act as the compromising vehicles to bring about change."

"The big problem," Horton pointed out, "is too many times, this middle group is the one which is forced to take sides and then can no longer act as the compromiser."

Historically, the middle group has been the one which has picked the good points from either side and compromised into a slower and more orderly change.

Airport Terminal Model Costs $1,200

OSHKOSH — The model of the proposed new terminal building at the Winnebago County Airport, which is being shown throughout the county, cost approximately $1,200, the aviation committee disclosed Thursday night.

The consulting firm for the terminal project, Howard Needles, Tammen and Bergendoff, requested an additional contract extension of $5,000 for the terminal work it has done.

The firm was originally hired for $8,500 to do preliminary terminal plans and was granted an additional $5,000 last fall because of the added work requested by the committee.

Winneconne Will Vote On School

WINNECONNE — The electorate of the Winneconne School District will again be called upon to decide the fate of the district's proposed new high school on Monday.

The first time, in December, voters overwhelmingly turned down a $2.5 million plan, and this time they will either support or kill a $2 million proposal.

The school district went through tedious process of selection before coming up with the latest design. Following the December defeat, a citizens committee was set up to determine what the voters wanted.

The committee met three times and ultimately presented several recommendations to the board of education. One specifically asked that the board stay below the $2 million mark.

Thern Associates Inc., Oshkosh, which has been handling the design of the high school since it was first proposed, reworked its $2.5 million plan, cutting off the swimming pool and part of the industrial arts wing.

In contention at the polls will be a 129,000 square foot building, which is a smaller version of the first design.

The school incorporates the open concept, resource centers, small and large group instruction areas along with an instructional materials center.

School administrators have claimed that the present central school cannot adequately house elementary, middle school and high school students.

Present acreage around the facility is not enough to provide room for expansion and also provide for an athletic field.

The proposed design provides a hexigon shaped area which will enclose the academic wing. In addition, the plan includes a cafeteria commons, an industrial and arts and crafts wing, a gymnasium and two mezzanines, one for study and one for athletic use.

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the Winneconne School for voters in the Village of Winneconne and towns of Omro, Oshkosh, Poygan, Vinland and Winneconne, and at the Winchester School for towns of Clayton, Winchester and Wolf River.

Man Forfeits Bond On Tipsiness Charge

Rubin A. Kakko, 25, who listed no permanent address, forfeited a $29 bond in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 this morning on a charge of public intoxication. Appleton police arrested him in the 500 block of W. College Avenue about 2:15 p.m. April 25.

YGOP's Mr. Inbetween

BY CLIFF MILLER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEENAH — A cliche of the times says people under 30 can't trust anyone over 30 and people over 30 can't trust people under 30.

Joel Garlock, a Neenah certified public accountant, is just 30 and is in his first week as first vice chairman of the Wisconsin Young Republican Federation.

He describes himself as a minority member of what, for that organization, is an upper age bracket. And he himself in a position to try to pull together both rival age groups and regional factions of the federation.

He is counting on the current trend for politics to become a younger man's game to help smooth relations within the party.

Garlock was elected last Sunday at a traditionally tumultuous annual convention of the state YGOP and of the top nine candidates of the establishment — "Syndicate" — he was one of only two who was unopposed by the "Anti-Syndicate" group of challengers.

Garlock said he viewed the split between Syndicate and anti-Syndicate as partially regional, with Syndicate strength concentrated in the southern areas of the state and Anti-Syndicate strength in the north. An exception was an alliance of University of Wisconsin-Madison student members and northern units, he said.

He said he doubted that the division the suggested calling it instead a "spirited competition") was between age groups, pointing out members in both the upper and lower age brackets were found on both sides of the rivalry.

But at the same time he predicted that trends involving age would help ease problems in the future.

"Age difference wasn't much at all" among factors contributing to the split, Garlock said. The syndicate won all but one of the elections by about the same 2-1 plurality both among the college groups and among the county-wide groups which include the older members, he explained.

But, he added that only 10 to 15 per cent of young Republicans are older than 25 years. The reason, he said, is "primarily that the senior party is opening up more and more to younger people."

For example, he mentioned county units of the senior party having chairmen in the 20-to-30 age bracket. The maximum age for membership in the Young Republicans is 35. But because opportunities for leadership and acceptance are opening up in the senior party for these "old" Young Republicans, the high school and college members are dominant as never before in the junior organization, Garlock said.

"Pretty soon, I think that the college age people are going to be the ones who are in charge of the Young Republican Federation," he predicted.

Order Against Union Upheld

Decision Restricting Teamsters Adopted, Expanded by NLRB

The National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) has upheld a Nov. 22, 1968, trial examiner's decision against Teamsters Local 563 of Appleton, and expanded on it.

It represents another round in the strike of Teamsters and Operating Engineers against the Fox Valley Contractor Material Suppliers Association and one of its members, Courtney and Plummer, Inc., Neenah.

Examiner Rabert Mullen, Washington, held, in his decision, that Courtney and Plummer was not allied with Oshkosh Ready Mix Co., and picketing of the latter firm had been illegal.

Order Expanded

In adopting Mullen's decision, the NLRB expanded the order against the Teamsters that they not ". . . induce or encourage any employe of any company engaged in commerce with an object of forcing such employer to cease doing business with Oshkosh Ready Mix."

The order was aimed principally at Teamster efforts to have employes of Courtney and Plummer and Twin City Concrete Co. cease doing business with Oshkosh Ready Mix.

Union Contention

It was the union's contention the firms were allied through second generation Courtney and Plummer family ownership.

However, Mullen held this was not so under the Labor Act.

Mullen's full decision in the picketing case was reported previously.

Attorney Jack D. Walker of Madison, a member of the law firm representing the seven-member association and Courtney and Plummer, commented today that the adoption of and expanding on Mullen's decision was significant. He said it extended the protection of the order to other ready mix companies which have a similar relationship to Oshkosh Ready Mix that Twin City Concrete has.

Court Orders Safety School for Youth Guilty Of 3 Traffic Charges

Kenneth W. Burton, 18, 2129 W. Second St., this morning pleaded guilty, in Outagamie County Court Branch 2, to three of five traffic charges brought by Appleton police.

He was ordered to attend traffic safety school after pleading guilty of allowing an unauthorized person to drive his car, failing to transfer his auto title, and operating an unregistered vehicle. His return court date on the three charges is Aug. 15, following completion of the safety school.

Burton, ticketed by Appleton police on N. Richmond Street about 11:30 p.m. April 27, will stand trial Aug. 21 for making an improper right turn and driving without a license.

Firemen Answer Call, But 'Smoke' Is Steam

Escaping steam, mistaken for smoke, brought Appleton fire fighters to the John Mauel home, 1700 N. Hall St., about 5:45 p.m. Thursday.

According to the fire department report, a malfunction in a hot water heater safety valve caused hot water to be released in the laundry room, causing steam.

Challenges for the Future to remedy today's ills were brought to the Tri-City, Valley Council Boy Scout annual dinner Thursday by Dr. Donald Derozier, standing, staff psychologist, Winnebago State Hospital. The speaker told the group of more than 200 that the Scouting program should continue to involve all youths who are seeking identity. With him at the head table are, from left, F. H. Sprowl, chairman of the district; T. A. Howells, council president, and Mrs. Derozier. (Post-Crescent Photo) physically fit and morally straight," Dr. Derozier said.

Adding to his remarks was Eagle Scout Charles Lang, of Post 405, who told the audience that the theme, "Boypower '76" stands for the Scouting goal — to have one in every three boys in the country in the Scouting program by 1976.

Sense of Identity

Dr. Derozier, who works with youth at Winnebago State, also told the group that the Scouting program can contribute to a sense of identity.

"There are two big elements in the area of identity. There needs to be a feeling of competency — a feeling that you can make an impact on your surroundings — and there needs to be feeling of belonging somewhere.

"Scouting can provide both of these," Dr. Derozier stated.

Also taking part in the program were Father Strebel, who brought the invocation; T. A. Howells, council president; Earl A. Kubale, Scout executive; Richard Van Sistine, nominating committee chairman; and Justin Kneeland, new district executive for the tri-cities. Reinhard J. Wessing was chairman of the event.

District members-at-large include Harold Bartell, Gordon Bebeau, Erwin E. Becker, Carlton Berg, Carl Blank, William Borsum, Bob Carew, Clyde Coenen, George Dubey, Dr. F. M. Fisher, Kenneth G. Felton, Kermit Hahn, Stanley Haugen, Tom Hollenback, Larry Heubner, Kenneth Jesse, Dr. Robert Kenney, Tony Koehn, Jack M. Car Goes Into Ditch, Man Slightly Injured

Gary A. Tanouye, 24, 702 N. State St., suffered a lip injury when his car ran into the ditch along U. S. 10, two miles west of Appleton, about 11:20 p.m. Thursday.

Outagamie County police said he was eastbound on U.S. 10 when he fell asleep at the wheel of his car, which went into the north ditch. There was $750 damage to the front of the 1966 auto.

Boy Scouts Will Aid City Tree Planting Program

KAUKAUNA — Boy Scouts of Troops 27 and 31 will assist the city Saturday by planting approximately 1,000 white spruce trees and assorted shrubs on a hillside off County Trunk Z according to Victor Luedtke, city forester.

The shurbs and trees are intended to help prevent mud on the hillside from washing onto the roadway. The mud is a result of a road relocation several years ago. Glenn Hansen is in charge of the project and will be assisted by Jerry Reickhoff, state district game manager, and Dennis Hohlfeldner, state district forester.

Woman, Child Hurt in Separate Auto Accidents

Two persons, including a child, suffered minor injuries in a pair of accidents in Appleton Thursday.

Betty A. Ott, route 1, Menasha, suffered right hand cuts when her car and one driven by Joseph G. Ryan, 50, Green Bay, collided at E. Franklin and N. Meade streets. Police said Ryan was westbound on Franklin and the Ott car was northbound on Meade.

Michelle Dennee, 5, complained of abdominal pains after a car driven by her mother, Patricia, 109 Skyline Drive, struck the rear of a car driven by Alice M. Maynard, 921 N. Division St.

Police said both cars were southbound in the 1500 block of S. Memorial Drive. Mrs. Dennee ran into the back of the Maynard car when her auto's brakes failed.

Sale of Bonds Delayed For Sludge Incinerator

City Overbonding

"The City of Appleton has been overbonding for special assessment work for too many years and it should be corrected," Champion declared.

When Broehm inferred it was due to figures obtained from the finance department, Champion told him he checked and found "this bad pratice of overbonding goes back to 1960."

Champion was referring to when Broehm handled the special assessment bonding program.

Instead of bonding for 80 per cent of the special assessment work to be done in a given year, Champion advised the city to go for 70 per cent. He said in addition to it being good procedure, the city would save interest money and have better records.

Treasurer Agrees

Champion said he discussed the matter with treasurer Ray Feuerstein, who was in agreement.

In other action, the committee recommended to hire bonding consultants and legal counsel on an annual basis.

It also deferred for an "indefinite period' taking up recommendations in a Citizens Governmental Operations Report, calling for several changes in Appleton government.

Board Trying To Replace 103 Teachers

Kimberly Faculty Members Still Refuse To Sign Contracts

KIMBERLY — The board of education is standing by its decision earlier this week to replace 103 of 123 teachers who refused to return signed contracts by 4 p.m. Wednesday.

After conferring with James Siebers, board president, and other board members, Supt. Raymond Hamann is proceeding to take applications to fill the openings.

The board issued an ultimatum Monday that members of the Kimberly Education Association (KEA) must return the signed contracts by the designated deadline or be replaced. The KEA voted 96-2 Wednesday not to comply with the demand.

Bargaining Continues

Bargaining continues on a base pay scale, pay for credits beyond a bachelors degree and pay for extra curricular duties. The board's final offer, proposed after the second of two six-hour mediation sessions before a mediator of the Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission, was rejected 91-11 by the KEA.

Above 103 of the teachers have refused to return signed contracts, leaving the superintendent with a wide range of teaching positions to be filled. Some new teachers have been signed for the coming year.

1969-70 Term

The contract period in dispute covers the 1969-70 teaching year. Total cost of the latest package offered by the board of education represents an increase in teacher salaries of $125,372. Teacher salaries account for about 63 per cent of the operating cost of the school district.

Applications received by Hamann for vacant positions must be reviewed by the board of education prior to hiring.

Applications from teachers currently on the staff, but who have not returned signed contracts, will be accepted by Hamann as well as those from other teachers interested in a position in the school district.

'As the Crow Flies' Game Shows Curvature of Earth

BY CAPPY DICK

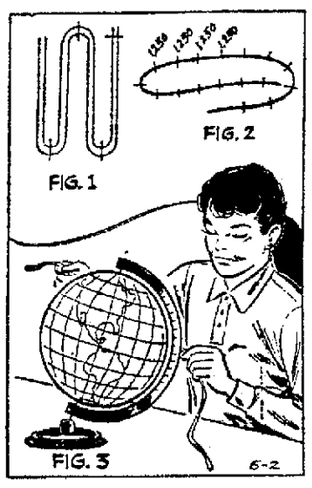

Here's a game to play with a world globe. It's called "As the Crow Flies." It is based on the fact that birds and airplane pilots know that the shortest distance between two points is a straight line. A place that is far away by train or ship may not be nearly as many long miles away if the distance is measured in the straight line.

The game requires not only a globe but a piece of string long enough to reach half way around. This string must be marked with ink into equal sections. Put one end on Chicago and run the string tightly over the globe to Moscow. The straight-line distance is about 5,000 miles. Mark the string that runs between Moscow and Chicago in half and then into quarters (see figure 1) and make an ink mark at each fold. Each of the four quarters will represent 1,250 miles. Now fold and mark the remainder of the string into sections of the same length. Each section will represent 1,250 miles, as shown in figure 2.

When all the players are seated, explain that each is a pilot to be sent from Chicago on a series of airplane trips and that the one who accomplishes the most happy landing is the winner. You then call off any distant city such as Tokyo, Paris, Berlin, or any other. Without examining the globe each pilot must guess in turn how many straight-line miles that city from his home base of Chicago.

When all have guessed, measure the distance with your string (figure 3). The pilot who has guessed nearest to the correct mileage makes a happy landing and earns one point. Continue with the remaining cities. The pilot who has the most happy landing wins the game.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, May 2, the 122nd day of 1969. There are 243 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1945, the World War II Allies announced the unconditional surrender of Nazi troops in Italy and southern and western Austria.

On this date:

In 1519, the Italian renaissance painter, architect and sculptor, Leonardo da Vinci, died.

In 1670, the Hudson's Bay Co. was chartered by England.

In 1863, during the Civil War, Gen. Thomas Stonewall Jackson was mistaken for a Union scout and shot and fatally wounded by his own Confederate soldiers.

In 1890, the Oklahoma Territory was organized.

In 1941, the Federal Communications Commission approved regular scheduling of commercial television broadcasts.

In 1960, Caryl Chessman was executed in California's San Quentin Prison after 12 years of litigation and eight stays of execution.

Ten years ago: The Western Big Four foreign ministers reported to NATO that they had reached agreement on strategy for an east-west summit meeting.

Five years ago: An American aircraft transport vessel was sunk in Saigon harbor by Communist terrorists.

One year ago: A Poor People's March on Washington got under way in Memphis, Tenn.

'Victoria Regina' on Hall of Fame

BY TV SCOUT

7:30-9 — Channel 5 — Julie Harris, recent recipient of the Best Actress of the Year Tony, also won an Emmy in that category back in 1961 for the Hallmark Hall of Fame production of "Victoria Regina." That adaptation of Laurence Housman's play gets its first rerun tonight and if the Harris Emmy is not enough, Pamela Brown won that year's Best Supporting award for her role and the production itself was named best show of the year. Miss Harris gives a brilliant characterization and provides life and depth for the legendary figure who gave her name to an era. The play is done in a series of vignettes beginning with the 18-year old Queen in a quandary over her choice of a Prince Consort.

6:30-7:30 — Channel 5 — It's father against son again on The High Chaparral when Manolito becomes incensed over Don Sebastian's broken promise. The don has given his word that the people of a village could buy their land and their freedom if they could raise the purchase price.

6:30-7:30 — Channel 11 — The pace of This Is Tom Jones is again break-neck, even a little exhausting, opening with the usual big, big production, this time to "Ring of Fire". Jones' guests include the Laugh-In's Henry Gibson.

6:30-7:30 — Channel 2 — A little corner of the Civil War is discovered on The Wild Wild West and it's buried deep underground. Along with several other searchers, Arty and West are probing the depths of a cave for a hidden treasure when they find Captain Lyman Butler.

7:30-8 — Channel 2 — This is a sad occasion for fans of Gomer Pyle USMC. This is the last first-run show and the end for the series. It's being discontinued to give star Jim Nabors the opportunity to head his own variety show next season. Fittingly, Gomer decides to give Sgt. Carter a reprise by transferring out of his unit. After making the decision, they rake over the past in cut-backs to many of the confrontations between the two.

8-10 — Channel 2 — "Gigot," on The Friday Night Movies, is the highly publicized, Paris produced property that was supposed to be a tour de force for Jackie Gleason. The press agents had us believing that the Great One would out-mimic Chaplin as a mute, simple-minded French janitor.

8:30-9 — Channel 11 — A pair of heavies take over a town on The Guns of Will Sonnett, basing their bad reputation on the killing of James Sonnett. When Will and Jeff arrive, they decide to take the gunslingers on, both to discredit their story and to help the town get rid of its human yoke.

9-10 — Channel 5 — Simon Templar has three adversaries on The Saint. The main one is a business man who bases his power on frozen assets, hopefully himself. He believes he can achieve immortality by deep-freezing his body, but being of a practical nature, he wants to experiment first.

9-10 — Channel 11 — Judd For the Defense changes its complexion a bit tonight. There are two counselors here, Judd and a lovely lady lawyer accused of felonious assault. Judd takes the case and is also taken by her. His infatuation, however, is cut to pieces by their opposing views on everything from justice to how to beat a jury. Patricia Crowley is well cast in the role.

It's 'Trivia' Weekend At Lawrence University

Annual WLFM Contest Can be Called A Happening; It Lasts for 51½ Hours

BY JINGO

Yes, by Jingo, there's a Lawrence campus tonight. Beginning at 10:30 p.m. — and running through Sunday until happening about to happen on the witching hour of midnight — Radio Station WLFM will be broadcasting its fourth annual Midwest Trivia contest.

It's crazy, it's completely unserious and it's fun, they say. Particularly if you like this sort of goings on and it seems many people both in and out of the University do.

Founded in 1966 as strictly a campus competition, word got around and by 1967 the contest had spread out into the community.

Manager Explains

For those unacquainted with this curious institution, Frank Duchow, general manager of the student-run station, explains it like this:

"The contest consists of questions asked about such categories as old "rock" records, old radio and TV shows, old movies, comic books, and a few miscellaneous topics such as classical music, sports, and current trivial-type events.

"Questions are asked after each record during the all-night and morning hours and on a spot basis during regular WLFM programming hours. Points are then awarded to those groups of persons or individuals which call the station in the alloted time.

"Running scores are kept over the 51½ hours of continuous music and contest. Winners are announced Sunday night in two categories: on-campus, for Lawrence University associated groups; and off-campus for everyone else.

Even Has a Board

"Acting chairman of this year's Trivia Board of Control is Bruce Iglauer. He follows in the footsteps of such great trivial minds as: Rick Walsh ('66), David Pfleger ('67), and the Grand Master, James B. DeRossette ('66), the contest's founding father.

Assisting Iglauer in question-writing this year will be Chris Atkinson and David Fremon.

"Last year's results found Phi Gamma Delta fraternity the on campus champion, narrowly shading a dormitory group.

Off-campus laurels went to the Institute of Paper Chemistry.

Judging from preliminary reports, the UW Fox Valley Campus, WSU-Oshkosh, St. Norbert College, and several local high schools are challenging the Institute team.

Appleton Xavier placed highest among area high schools last year."

The Trivia Board of Control invites all persons in the northeastern Wisconsin area to listen in at 91.1 fm., either to participate or to make a late-night case of insomnia a little more enjoyable.

Nearly 1,000 trivial questions await answers as the Lawrence affiliated FM station (incidently, the fourth largest student-operated educational station in the world) prepares to air the 1969 edition of the Midwest Trivia Contest.

You'll never know if this is your thing until you tune in for a while. Jingo suggests: "Oh, go ahead!"

Astros' Don Wilson Stops Cincinnati on No-Hitter

Second at Crosley Field in 24 Hours; Dodgers' Sutton Limits Giants to One Safety

By ROBERT MOORE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Pitcher Don Wilson of the struggling Houston Astros rubbed shoulders with baseball's elite for the second time in his career today all because of bitterness toward the Cincinnati Reds and a burning desire to get even.

Wilson blazed his right-handed slants past the Reds Thursday night for a brilliant no-hit, 4-0 victory and then said bluntly:

"I don't like them.

"I wanted to pay them back for what they did to us when they beat me 14-0" on April 22 at Houston's Astrodome. "They stuck out their tongues at us. They laughed at us.

"They embarrassed us . . . I was pretty strongly motivated not only for the win but to get the no-hitter. I wanted to prove to them we are professionals, too."

Second in 24 Hours

It was the second no-hitter at Cincinnati's Crosley Field in 24 hours Only Wednesday night, the Reds' Jim Maloney had blanked the Astros—on hits and runs—10-0.

Wilson's performance took the spotlight quickly off of the Los Angeles Dodgers' Don Sutton, who in an afternoon game at San Francisco just missed a no-hitter when Jim Davenport doubled for the lone Giants hit with one out in the eighth The Dodgers won 5-0 In other NL games, Montreal nipped New York 3-2,

Don Wilson

St Louis clobbered Pittsburgh 9-3 and San Diego edged Atlanta 4-3

Wilson said Thursday night's no-hitter gave him "more personal satisfaction than my first one in Atlanta" as a rookie two years ago He struck out 13 batters, walked six and hit one.

Stole Second

Only two Reds reached second Johnny Bench walked and stole second in the second inning. Wilson walked pinch hitter Jim Stewart and Pete Rose in the eighth.

His verbal blasts at the Reds brought this comment from Cincinnati Manager Dave Bristol:

"I'm not a Don Wilson fan. I don't think many of our guys think much of Wilson either."

Astros Manager Harry Walker paused to compare the performances of both Wilson and Maloney.

"My man had a rougher time of it," Walker said, "because he was under pressure all the way. He had not won on the road this year, and he did not have a big lead like Maloney."

Doug Rader put Wilson ahead in the fourth with a home run.

Foxes Slated To Duel Decatur Twice Tonight

Home Opener Rained Out in Bottom of First

No one but the weatherman holds a decision over the Appleton Foxes in the first week of the Midwest League season

The pace-setting Foxes (3-0), Thursday night, encountered the same bugaboo that plagued them so often in the 1968 season Their home opener, against Decatur, was rained out in the bottom half of the first inning. Last Monday, the Foxes' game at Davenport was postponed. Tonight, the Foxes and the Commodores have scheduled a doubleheader for Goodland Field. Starting time is 6:30 p m

With approximately 1,000 fans in the stands — despite afternoon-long threat of rain — Foxes pitcher Bart Johnson retired Decatur in order in the top of the first inning.

After Appleton's Tony Correa reached base on an error by second baseman Tom Hanegan, the rains came. The umpires waited 35 minutes, then inspected the field and termed it unfit to play on.

Appleton's Roger Reid (shortstop) and Wayne Weatherly (outfielder) will miss all of this weekend's games since they have gone to Oklahoma to fulfill a military obligation. In addition, outfielders Ross Sapp and Ron Williams and first baseman George Hunter are scheduled to miss part of the weekend's action because of reserve duty in Green Bay.

Two ML games were played last night Clinton, in its first 1969 start, beat Burlington, 10-5, and Cedar Rapids edged Waterloo, 7-6, in 10 innings. Clinton, previously, had been rained out twice and had two byes.

New Owner of Eagles Fires Joe Kuharich

Expect Tose to Name Pete Retzlaff As General Manager

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Leonard Tose, Norristown, Pa., trucking executive, is the new owner of the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League.

Shortly after completing the purchase of the club Thursday night for $16,155,000 from financially harried Jerry Wolman, Tose made his first move as owner. He told a midnight news conference that he has fired Joe Kuharich as general manager and coach.

Tose is expected to name Pete Retzlaff, former All-League end with the Eagles and now a television sportscaster, the general manager.

Betty Laux Leads Division

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

"I haven't bowled in two weeks and when I bowl it's just for fun In fact, I had to be talked into trying the Bowl-O-Rama," said Appleton's Betty Laux after she went into the Class B lead in the seventh annual tournament sponsored by The Post-Crescent at the 41 Bowl Thursday night.

Mrs. Laux, the mother of five

children and in just her second year of sanctioned bowling, blasted 667 scratch to go with her 216 handicap for a 883 total. She replaced Judy Kent, of Weyauwega, who had held the lead since April 17 with her 867 mark.

Edges Gehring

Pete Kavalski, of Fond du Lac, shared the spotlight Thursday night as he rolled the highest game to date in the tournament Kavalski blasted a 276 scratch and carried six pins handicap for a 282 total The high count puts him solidly in the running for one of the 14-foot Glass-Fab boats which will be awarded for the top scratch game and top game with handicap after the Bowl-O-Rama is completed.

Kavalski edged out Keith Gehring for the top men's count Thursday night. Gehring, who was bowling on the same lanes with Kavalski, had a booming 269 scratch. Keith has no handicap.

Kavalski started his hugh game with a spare and then ran nine strikes in a row.

In the top change in men's Class B, Norm Buksky, Menasha, fired 899 to take over fourth place and Appleton's police chief, Earl Wolff, rolled into 10th place in Class A with a 870 count.

Mrs. Laux, who bowled in the Breakfast League at the 41 Bowl during the regular season, had a 114 average. The 186 game she hit in her fourth line was the top count she has had this season.

Started With 163

Betty started with a 163 game, followed with 177 and 141 before unloading with the 186. Mrs Laux lives at 2618 N Owaissa St. and her youngsters include Mike, Connie, Laurie, Kevin and Colleen.

In women's Class A, Carrie Lou Meyer moved into the No. 15 spot as she hit 661 scratch and 144 handicap for a 805 total. In the series she had a 218 game to go with 36 handicap to win the 9 p.m. squad prize with 254.

For the men at 9 p.m., Dennis Weyenberg, Kimberly, slammed 201 with 44 handicap for a 245 total Weyenberg was competing in the Bowl-O-Rama for the first time and never before had rolled a 200 game in league or tournament competition. He won a fishing rod as his shift prize.

High For Women

On the 7 p.m squad, Kavalski took the prize for the men and Janice Bartman, Appleton, was high for the women with 190 scratch and 51 pins handicap for 241.

Buksyk took over the fourth place spot in Class B with 787 scratch and 112 handicap for 899. Included in the high total was a 233 game and another of 211

Bob Meyer moved into the No. 6 spot in Class B by hitting 747 with 120 handicap for 867. Meyer had games of 201 and 212 with the 4-game series.

Minnesota May Move

NFL Reluctant to Shift Any 'Keynote' Franchises to AFL

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Evidence has surfaced at the pro football meetings to indicate that the shifting of three National Football League teams into the American League may revolve around taking one club from each of three categories:

Midwest franchise—Either Minnesota or St. Louis.

Warm weather franchise—Either New Orleans or Atlanta.

Prestige franchise—Either Philadelphia or Baltimore.

The facts at hand also lend themselves to a further paring down so that Minnesota and Philadelphia appear for various reasons to be the leading candidates in their categories to join either New Orleans or Atlanta in the AFL.

Not one team actually was mentioned by name at Thursday's realignment meetings, but scraps of evidence that seem to fit the jigsaw puzzle began to emerge from various directions.

Keynote Franchises

The hardest piece of evidence was turned in by Cleveland owner Art Modell, a member of the NFL's realignment committee, who said he saw "no point in emasculating the keynote franchises" of his league in order to reach the 13-13 alignment the two leagues seem to favor.

In doing so, Modell pointed his finger at his own Browns, Los Angeles and Chicago as three of the keynote franchises in the 16-team league. Drawing on Modell's definition, that would seem to eliminate both Green Bay and Washington also.

In addition, New York and San Francisco have been considered untouchables because of geographical proximity to AFL franchises and because of the nature of television packaging That also would tend to eliminate Dallas.

With those eliminated, eight are left to fit what seem to be the AFL's requirements—a Midwest market which it does not at present have; a warm weather site and attractive rival for its Miami franchise, and one of the NFL's prime franchises to sweeten the pot.

Of the three teams left in the Midwest category—Minnesota, St. Louis and Detroit—Minnesota would seem to be the most likely candidate to move.

Less Seniority

The Vikings have less seniority in the NFL, might find the AFL more appealing on a competitive basis, and probably would be let go by the NFL so that there can be a re-forming of their division, currently a problem because all four teams are in cold weather sites.

Of the three teams left in the Prestige category — Philadelphia, Baltimore and Pittsburgh —Philadelphia would seem to be the most likely candidate to shift.

The Eagles are coming under a new owner who may not be completely NFL oriented; might be easier for the NFL to relinquish than the champion Colts, and likely would be a more attractive franchise to the AFL than the Steelers.

Small, Strong Field

Majestic Prince Looms as Favorite In Kentucky Derby

By BOB COOPER

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Four thoroughbred champions and four pretenders to glory got their final grooming today for the 95th running of the Kentucky Derby.

The field of eight, one of them a potential scratch, is the smallest in 21 years and, most fans believe, the strongest in a far longer time.

Majestic Prince, the unbeaten and untried king of the West Coast, has been tabbed as the probable betting favorite in the 1¼-mile Run for the Roses that goes to the post at 4:30 p.m. CDT, Saturday.

Flying the colors of Canadian oil millionaire Frank McMahon, the $250,000 yearling purchase has mowed down 47 opponents in seven races, all of them except his first and last at Santa Anita.

Except for 3 Things

Majestic Prince would be the odds-on choice to cop the $125,000-added Derby except for three things. Their names are Top Knight, Dike and Arts and Letters.

Top Knight has finished first in three of four races this year, although he was disqualified to third in the Bahamas stakes. His only drawback is a five-week layoff since his Florida Derby victory.

"If you've only got one good suit, you don't wear it very often," trainer Ray Metcalf said in explaining the sparse racing schedule of the chestnut colt he trains for the Steven B. Wilson estate.

"Top Knight is my only good suit," he chuckled.

But West Pulls Muscle

Lakers Romp, Hold 3-2 Playoff Edge

By JACK STEVENSON

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers head to Boston leading the National Basketball Association championship playoffs 3-2 but with their sharpest shooter, Jerry West, injured.

After scoring 39 points in the Lakers' 117-104 triumph at The Forum on Thursday night, West limped from the floor with a pulled left hamstring muscle.

"I'm sure when I wake up Saturday morning, I'll know if I can play or not," said Jerry after undergoing initial treatment.

The sixth game of the best-of-seven series goes at the Boston Garden at 5 p.m. EDT, Saturday afternoon. Without West, who has been averaging 39.6 against the Celtics, the Laker offense loses its zing, and Los Angeles must win once more to take the title.

"I was stretching and Emmette Bryant bumped me," was the way West described the injury. "You only pull a muscle by stretching it, not by getting hit by somebody."

Also injured, but not so seriously, was 7-foot-2 Wilt Chamberlain who suffered a bruised eye when he was hit, also by Bryant.

Back in Hurry

Chamberlain was hurt in the third period, but returned after a minute's rest.

"Things were blurry for the rest of the game," asserted the big guy who hauled down 31 rebounds while his arch-foe Bill Russell could grab but 13.

Coach Bill Van Breda Kolff made a lineup switch when he sent Keith Erickson in at a starting forward spot, primarily to check John Havlicek, the Celtic's scoring star.

Havlicek scored only six points through three periods although winding up with 18. When Erickson would leave, Tom Hawkins came in to handle the guarding assignment.

"I made up my mind to start Erickson after the Tuesday night game," the coach said. In that 89-88 Laker loss in Boston, Erickson didn't allow Havlicek a field goal in the final period.

"If West can't play Saturday, Keith will go to the back court," Van Breda Kolff added.

See-Saw

Boston led 24-23 at the end of the first quarter before the 17,553 fans, but the Lakers rallied in the second and pulled ahead at 49-45.

Perhaps the most important play came midway in the third when West drove in to score on a reverse layup and draw a foul from Russell, the fourth for the player-coach, who had to go cautiously from then on.

Russell refused comment but Havlicek said, "we were hurt because we were double teaming a lot and the open man was scoring, sometimes Egan, sometimes Erickson. I just didn't have a good shooting night early in the game. Sam Jones and Larry Siegfried were shooting well, so I didn't take as many shots as I might have normally."

Egan, the running mate for West in the back court, scored 23 points while Erickson tallied 16.

Jones paced Boston with 25 while Siegfried tallied 20.

Many Individual Standouts To Appear in Patriot Relays

A number of outstanding individuals will appear at the Patriot Relays Saturday on the Appleton East track.

Some of the stars will compete in the field events (which will be run on an indivdiual basis) and others in the relay races.

Kimberly's contingent will include Jeff Wildenberg, who recently broke the school's high jump record set by former standout Darrell Jansen; half-miler Kim Koehn and sprinter Tim VanderVelden.

The host Patriots will feature the versatile Neal Gleason, shot putter Don Knaack and sprinter Jeff Forslund.

Appleton West competitors will include miler Mike Moriarty, hurdler and high jumper Tim Moriarty and runner Jim Ruwoldt.

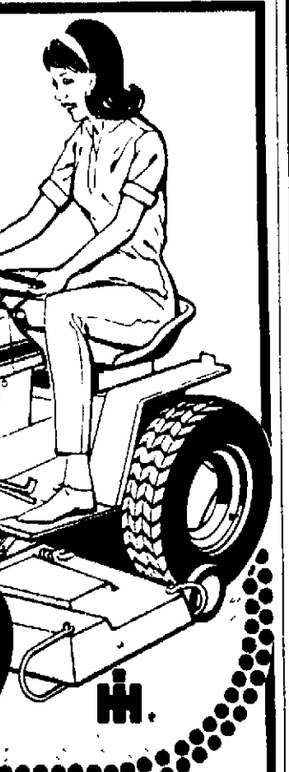

Menasha's standouts include sprinter and long jumper Tom Scovronski, half-miler, Dave Hoks and miler Russ Rae.

Kaukauna will feature half-miler Dan Egan and long jumper Bernie Van Zeeland. Green Bay East has star pole Vaulter Jim Carpenter.

Nine schools will compete in Class A, and 11 schools in Class B. The field events will start at 11 a.m., and the running events get under way at 1 p.m.

Roncalli Track Team Defeats Xavier, 71-47

Hawks' Graff Accounts for Only Double Victory

Despite a brilliant premier performance by Brad Graff, the Xavier High School track team fell to a well-balanced Manitowoc Roncalli squad, 71-47, Thursday afternoon.

Graff, making his first track start of the year, won the 100- and 220-yard dashes to net the Hawks two of their six firsts in the 14-event meet. Graff won the 100 with a time of 10.6 seconds and copped the 220 with a :23.5 timing.

The Jets took eight firsts, and eight seconds. Neither team slammed an event, and Graff was the only double winner. Roncalli, however, did get good performances from Bill Censky and Pat Baryenbuch.

Censky won the high hurdles with a time of 16.25 seconds. He finished second in the low hurdles and tied for third in the high jump. Baryenbuch won the 440-yard dash in 53 seconds and placed second in the 100-yard dash and the long jump

Bill Pfefferle and Ed Wenning picked up a first and a second each for the Hawks. Pfefferle won the high jump with a leap of 5 feet, 9 inches and was second in the discus Wenning won the low hurdles in 21.9 seconds and took second in the high jump.

Other Xavier winners were Jim Erchul in the shot put and Dick Koller in the pole vault.

Twins Cop 6th Straight

Detroit Wins 2-0 As McLain Stops Orioles on 3 Hits

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Denny McLain and Dave Boswell are walking around with lumps on their heads today. It only hurts when they laugh.

McLain tossed three hitless innings against Baltimore Thursday night before trying to field Boog Powell's comeback bouncer with his forehead. It went for a single, but the Detroit ace shook off the cobwebs and yielded just two more hits as the Tigers beat the Orioles 2-0 on Bill Freehan's homer.

Boswell, his eye blackened and knee bruised from a scuffle with a fan the previous day, pitched five strong innings before giving way to reliever Joe Grzenda as the Minnesota Twins trimmed Seattle 4-1 in an afternoon game for their sixth straight victory.

McLain, who brought his record to 4-3 in a tight duel with previously unbeaten Jim Palmer, accepted his bump on the noggin in typical good humor. "It stunned me, that's all," said the 1968 American League MVP. "If it hits my glove, I've got it. They call me 'Hot Hands.'"

Boswell, roughed up by the unidentified spectator after Wednesday's game against the Pilots, was understandably, a little less cheerful after his gutsy pitching effort for the streaking Twins.

He said the fan walked up to him and hit him on the head. When he asked for an apology, about five others tried to get at him.

"It was a free-for-all . . . on me," said the Minnesota righthander, who was rescued by teammates Cesar Tovar and John Roseboro. "It bothers me when a guy like that comes up to you and treats you like an animal."

Boswell brightened when asked about Thursday's victory. "Joe (Grzenda) did his thing. Everybody did their thing," he said.

In other AL games, California nipped Oakland 3-2 in 10 innings; Kansas City edged the Chicago White Sox 5-4 in 12; Washington got past Boston 7-6 and Cleveland downed the New York Yankees 6-2.

McLain, beaten by the high-flying Orioles at Baltimore eight days ago, struck out six, walked one and won the return match in one hour and 49 minutes.

"I didn't have good stuff in Baltimore, but here I had real good stuff," said the stocky right-hander, who topped the majors with 31 victories a year ago.

Palmer, 3-1, allowed two hits before leaving for a pinch hitter in the eighth, but one of them was Freehan's fifth homer, a two-run shot in the fifth. It was the 99th career clout for the big Detroit catcher.

Rookie Charlie Manuel delivered two Minnesota runs with a third inning single and a bases-loaded walk in the fifth.

Oakland reliever Lew Krausse filled the bases on two walks and a single in the 10th inning, then nicked Tom Satriano with a pitch, forcing in the winning run. The Athletics had tied the game in the ninth on Reggie Jackson's two-run homer.

Oakland's Rick Monday, who had equaled Lou Gehrig's AL record of RBI in 10 consecutive games, was shut out by Rudy May and winner Hoyt Wilhelm. Monday went 0-for-3 and never batted with a runner on base.

Joe Foy's run-scoring single in the 12th sent the Royals past Chicago, extending the White Sox' losing string to four games. The Royals caught the Sox in the ninth, when Jack Hernandez singled, took second on left fielder Carlos May's bobble and scored the tying run on a two-out single by pinch hitter Bob Taylor.

May and Don Pavletich homered for the White Sox.

Del Unser's two-run single in the sixth sparked the Senators to their seventh victory in eight starts after Frank Howard tied the game 5-5 in the fifth with his ninth homer.

Ken McMullen hit a two-run homer for the Senators, who vaulted into second place in the East Division, 2½ games behind front-running Baltimore.

Pitching Stands Out

LITTLE NINE BASEBALL

Hortonville	3	0	Wrightstown	1	2
Omro	3	0	Winneconne	1	2
Shiocton	2	1	Denmark	1	2
Freedom	2	1	Reedsville	1	2
Brillion	1	2	Hilbert	0	3

Sparkling pitching performances highlighted Thursday's baseball action in the Little Nine Conference. When it was all over, Hortonville and Omro held on to their share of the league lead while Shiocton dropped its first decision.

Dick Tennie's 3-hit pitching led Hortonville to a 2-0 win over Shiocton. Omro blasted Winneconne, 11-3, behind the 3-hitter by Rick Koch.

Russ Hansen threw a 3-hitter for Brillion as the Lions scored a 5-0 decision over Denmark. Freedom's Terry Muenster and Wrightstown's Tom Ribarchek each hurled 3-hitters but Muenster and the Irish finished on top, 2-1.

In the other game, Pat Popp had plenty of help as he hurled a 2-hitter at Hilbert for a 22-1 Reedsville win.

Ken Samson collected all three Shiocton hits with singles in the second, fourth and seventh innings. Tennie won the game as Shiocton failed to score in the seventh with bases loaded and two out.

Strikes Out 7

Tennie struck out seven and walked three in picking up the win. The Chiefs' Bill Clausen allowed only four hits while striking out eight and walking two.

The Polar Bears scored both of their runs in the fourth inning. Dennis Tessen was safe on an error, Jerry Rudloff singled and Tennie walked to load the bases. Rod Pankow was hit by a pitched ball and a run scored. A fielder's choice allowed the second run to score.

Koch struck out 12 and walked five in leading Omro to its 2-0 win over Winneconne. Ken Koch collected two hits to support his brother's winning effort. Jim Lenz and his brother John collected three hits with Jim collecting two. Tom King provided more Omro power with a pair of hits, including a smash double in the sixth.

Hansen didn't walk a man and fanned eight Denmark batters. The Lions slammed 11 hits.

Add 3 Runs

Brillion collected two runs in the fourth inning when Jim Micheles drove home Hansen and Frank Cmejla. The victors added three runs in the seventh on hits by Darrell Barndes, Dan Denor, Bill Grassell and Cmjla.

Tom Ribarchek fanned 15 Freedom batters and walked only two but failed to get any offensive support. Terry Muenster, struck out nine in winning the game.

Don Baumgart doubled in the first Freedom run in the fourth. Muenster scored the other run in the sixth on a wild pitch after advancing to third from first on a single by John Beyers.

Hilbert committed 11 errors. Pat Popp spread out two Hilbert hits with one in the third and one in the fifth.

Reedsville's big inning was the 15-run, 7-hit fourth.

3 Rocket Hurlers Blank Papermakers After First Frame

NEENAH — Kimberly High School collected two runs in the top of the first inning but was blanked the rest of the way in a 9-2 non-conference loss to Neenah here Thursday afternoon.

A trio of Neenah pitchers, Jeff Love, Tim Bigalke and Greg Schultz, limited the Papermakers to four hits.

The Rockets netted only five off John Nabbefeld and Rick Rusch, but had the help of seven walks and five errors. They sealed the verdict with five runs in the fifth on only two hits.

Kimberly's John Johnson led all hitters with a single and a double. None of the Rockets mustered more than one safety.

The visitors netted their two markers on three walks, an error and an infield out. They had baserunners in every other inning but the seventh.

Sponsoring the event will be the Papermaker Booster Club and deadline for ticket reservations is Monday. Tickets are available at the Senior High School office.

Master of ceremonies will be Bill Fitzpatrick, athletic director at Little Chute High School. The ham and beef country style dinner is open to parents, athletes, cheerleaders, coaches and fans. Tickets will cost $2.50.

Hike Lead to 3-0

Canadiens Have Easy Time With St. Louis

By CHARLIE BAROUH

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Montreal Canadiens didn't waste any time Thursday night in moving closer to their 14th Stanley Cup by whipping the St. Louis Blues 4-0.

The victory gave Montreal a 3-0 lead in the National Hockey League's best-of-7 series.

Dick Duff is one of the most impatient of the Canadiens. He doesn't see patience as a virtue on the ice.

"Especially when you're a couple of games up, it's easy to relax and then twice as hard to get back in stride," Duff said after scoring two goals and adding an assist against the outclassed Blues.

"We knew we'd have to start strong tonight and then when they had that goal by Frank St. Marseille called back in the first period. I think it took some of the steam out of them," he added.

St. Marseille's goal was disallowed because referee John Asheley said he kicked it in past Montreal goalie Rogatien Vachon. Vachon went on to forge the first playoff shutout of his career.

But the loss of the goal wasn't what bothered St. Louis Coach Scotty Bowman most. The goal would have helped, Bowman agreed, but not enough considering the way the Blues played.

"I think they (the Canadiens) are having too easy a time. Our passing is real bad. We passed better than that all year," Bowman complained.

"Anytime we carried puck we were a lot better. Everything was a split second off, the passing, the shooting. I don't know why."

Serve Savard of Montreal blasted a low line drive past the Blues' goalie, Jacques Plante, midway through the first period. Duff set him up on that one.

Then after Jacques Lemaire made it 2-0 early in the second period, Duff added a goal in each of the final two periods.

Montreal's big Jean Beliveau summed it up for the Canadiens:

"We didn't give them much chance tonight. We were skating on top of them and didn't let them get organized."

Paul Ciske Wins 3 Events in Junior Olympic Swim Meet

Appleton's Paul Ciske, Maud Hardacker and Marietta Martin starred recently in the Wisconsin Junior Olympic Short Course Swim Meet at Whitewater University.

Ciske, competing for the Appleton YMCA in the 11-12 age group, won three first places and set Junior Olympics records in the process. He swam the 50-yard breaststroke in 35.7 seconds, the 100-yard breaststroke in 1:18.5, and the 200-yard individual medley in 2:28.7. (The 100-yard mark was set in the trials).

Miss Hardacker swam unattached in the 13-14 age group and established a state record of 2:41.0 in the 200-yard butterfly.

Miss Martin also set a new standard in the 100-yard breaststroke with a 1:20 clocking, as she competed in the 11-12 age group.

Other high finishes for Appleton participants in the met included firsts by Bob Jensen in the 100-yard breaststroke and ton participants in the meet diving competition.

Second places were posted by Miss Hardacker and Marietta Martin in addition to Jeannie Martin and Jody Mendelsohn. Thirds went to Miss Hardacker, Kris Meltz, and Amy Savage (2). And fourths were garnered by Jeannie Martin (2), Kerry Kading, Marietta Martin, and Greg West.

In the recent Girls YMCA National Swim Meet in Green Bay, the best Appleton performance was turned in by the 400-yard medley relay team comprised of Amy Savage, Maud Hardacker, Marietta Martin and Kris Meltz. The quartet finished 16th with a 4:56.2 clocking.

Betsy Bates took 18th place in the 1-meter diving, and Leslie Swalby wound up 20th in the same event.

under a four-year contract as coach at Calgary in the Canadian Football League as new Eagles coach.

Tose's acquisition of the club had one string attached. Wolman, who is facing bankruptcy, can repurchase the club if he can raise the money by Aug. 1. Tose, however, as sole owner now, has the right to revamp the club as he sees fit.

Kuharich

Retzlaff

Wolman admitted that his chances of raising enough money to pay off some $72 million owed to 280 creditors, and to repurchase the Eagles were very slim.

"We have an outside chance to make it, but it's slim," Wolman said.

All of the money received by Wolman in the sale of the Eagles was turned over to secured creditors, minority stockholders or the referee in bankruptcy handling his case.

Tose refused to confirm or deny that Retzlaff would be the new general manager.

Asked about Kuharich, the new Eagles' owner said he telephoned him last week and told him he would not be general manager coach of the Eagles. Tose has said from the time he began negotiating with Wolman last January he would not rehire Kuharich.

Kuharich took over as coach of the Eagles in 1964, after Wolman purchased the team for $5,505,000 from a local syndicate.

In five seasons, the Eagles won 28 and lost 41, posting only one winning season. In the middle of his first year, he was named general manager and given a 15-year contract by Wilman.

Kuharich's reign was an unpopular one in Philadelphia. He fought with the press, and traded away a number of established stars.

Favor 'Prince' In Big Race

Derby champion Herbager, ran poorly in Florida when he was asked for too much too soon, but prompted new hope in victories in New York's Gotham and Wood Memorial.

Center Stage

Arts and Letters, the Virginia - bred property of Paul Mellon's Rokeby Stable, was a bridesmaid in the Flamingo, Fountain of Youth and Florida Derby, but took center stage with a 15-length victory in the Blue Grass Stakes last week at Keeneland.

So evenly matched are the Big Four that track handicapper John Battaglia made Majestic Prince the probable 6-5 betting favorite, then turned around and picked Dike as the program choice.

Challenging the four before an esticated crowd of 100,000 are Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Harris, Rae Jet, Leo Miller's Ocean Roar, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Roberts' Traffic Mark and the Kanowsky syndicate's Fleet Allied.

Rae Jet also was entered in a pair of lesser races Saturday, giving his owners chance to change their minds and save the $1,000 due Saturday for each Derby starter.

If all eight answer the call to the post, the race will gross $155,700, with the winner picking up $113,200. The Derby formula calls for $25,000 for the second finisher, $12,500 for third and $5,000 for fourth.

Eight Misses

Top Knight, with rider Manuel Ycaza looking for his first Derby victory after eight misses, drew the inside post position when the eight hopefuls plunked down $500 apiece Thursday to enter.

Arkansas Derby winner Traffic Mark drew the No. 2 post with Arts and Letters, with jockey Braulio Baeza substituting for the injured Bill Shoemaker, in No. 3.

Wilson Hurls His Second No-Hit Game

Dennis Menke's double scored two more runs in the fifth. The Astros got their last run in the eighth on Curt Blefary's triple and Wilson's sacrifice fly. Wilson's record now is 2-3.

Brief Career

Wilson, 24-25 in his brief career with the Astros going into this season, has had startling success against the Reds in the past. Last July 14, he tied the major league record by striking out 18 Cincinnati batters, including a record-tying eight in succession.

This was only the second time in baseball history two consecutive no-hitters have been pitched in the same park involving the same clubs. The Giants' Gaylord Perry beat St. Louis 1-0 last Sept. 17 in a night game at San Francisco. The Cardinals' Ray Washburn got a 2-0 no-hit triumph over the Giants the next afternoon.

Issued Walks

Sutton's conquest of the Giants Thursday ended San Francisco's nine-game winning streak and left the Dodgers and Giants tied for first in the NL's Western Division. Sutton, 3-2, has pitched 25 successive scoreless innings.

Sutton almost got into trouble in the opening inning when he issued walks to Don Mason with one out and Willie McCovey with two outs. Dave Marshall's grounder forced Mason at second, and Jack Hiatt fouled out.

Tom Haller drove in two runs in the fourth and Willie Davis and Bill Sudakis slammed homers in the fifth and sixth for the Dodgers.

Montreal's triumph broke the Mets' three-game winning streak in an afternoon affair in Montreal. Jose Laboy's ninth-inning sacrifice fly scored pinch runner Ron Brand for the winning run. Donn Clendenon homered for the Expos. Elroy Face, 1-0, was the victor and Don Cardwell, 0-4, the loser.

First Victory

The Cardinals' Nelson Briles and Jim Hicks ganged up on the Pirates at Pittsburgh with a couple of season's firsts. Pitcher Briles got his first victory, and Hicks picked up his first hit, a two-run triple that put the Cards ahead 2-0. Briles allowed six hits

San Diego beat the Braves at Atlanta when Tony Gonzalez crashed a two-run, eighth-inning homer. Orlando Cepeda had given the Braves a three-run bulge in the third with a triple and then scored on a wild throw.

That's the kind of woman it takes to handle our brandy. Because we make a man's brandy.

Our brandymaster has developed an honest-to-goodness secret ingredient for Italian Swiss Colony Brandy. We're not about to tell you what it is, except that it's a flavor essence derived entirely from very special grapes. And it gives our brandy a character similar to Cognac. Bigger, richer, fuller.

Men can actually tell the difference. That's why we sell so much brandy.

So can women. Which is why we'll never sell quite as much as we'd like.

Italian Swiss Colony Brandy is not for weak sisters.

80 proof. $4.98 a quart suggested retail. Italian Swiss Colony—Asti, California

Chevy, Buick and Cadillac Make Great Used Cars

We know the used car market. Only by leasing cars with a high resale value can we stay in business. Chevrolet, Buick and Cadillac are our favorites. Year after year they trade for higher prices than any other cars in our experience. We'll stick with Chevrolet, Buick and Cadillac. You stick with us. We'll both save money.

Auto Leasing Company, Ltd.

Drive off a Volkswagen lot with a Ford.

Why not?

Enough people drive onto our lot with Fords. Chevys and Plymouths, too. They're trade-ins on new VWs.

After we inspect them, and fix whatever needs fixing, we guarantee the free repair or replacement of every major working part* for 30 days or 1000 miles. Whichever comes first.

Be the first on your block to drive a VW-guaranteed Ford.

To Your Good Health

Nine Months Is About Time to Wean Baby

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any harm to the baby if it is nursed longer than a year? And is there any harm to the mother if during this time she does not menstruate? — C.A.B.

Babies are usually weaned by the ninth month — and ordinarily some soft foods already have been introduced at about the third to the fifth month.

The principal disadvantage of extended breast feeding is that the baby may experience more of a problem in learning to accept solid foods. A second one is that there is a tendency for more fat to be present in breast milk after prolonged nursing.

Thus I recommend weaning at the usual time (about nine months), although extending that time is not likely to create any very serious consequences.

There is no harm to the mother from lack of menstruating during this time.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My granddaughter, 2 years old, has swelling of the joints. The doctor called it rheumatoid arthritis. We want to know what causes it and how to cope with it. — Mrs. C.T.H.

Rheumatoid arthritis can attack at any age. Children and even babies can get it. The cause is not known.

In its acute stage it requires skillful care by your doctor, perhaps in a hospital. Since it can flare up again unpredictably, you should have some information about the nature of the disease, and I strongly suggest that you read my booklet, "How You Can Control Arthritis," which deals with rheumatoid as well as other types of arthritis. For a copy of the booklet, send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Thosteson, care of this newspaper.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is the slow leukemia which older people develop contagious? Someone once mentioned that leukemia is slightly contagious. Which kind? The type that kills children? — Mrs. O.K.

There is no indication that the "slow" leukemia is contagious at all. And in the rapid type which attacks children there is no proof of it, but only a suspicion raised because some — not in all instances — clusters of cases, half a dozen or so, seem to have occurred in the same locality.

We do not yet know the cause of either type of leukemia. We cannot say positively that either is contagious. If it is at all, it is only extremely slightly so.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there a disease called valley fever? What causes it? Is there a cure or does it last a lifetime? Can you get it from close contact with a person who has it? I know a young girl who says she has it and am wondering what the future has in store for her. — H.M.

Valley fever is caused by a fungus (coccidoides) which causes symptoms similar to influenza. It is particularly prevalent in arid parts of the West and Southwest.

It is usually contracted by breathing dust containing the fungus, and not likely to be transmitted by personal contact.

It varies in intensity; many patients didn't know they had it until X-ray disclosed patches or "spots" in the lungs. In more severe cases, treatment is with amphotericin B. Skin tests are used to help identify the malady.

Apparently your young friend is well now, and there is no reason for her to expect further trouble from the attack.

Credit Rules to Follow If Caught in Computer

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Since December 1968, my husband and I have been in an infuriatingly frustrating fight with the computers of the famous sporting goods store, Abercrombie & Fitch, over who-charged-what-and - how-much-to whose-account. As of this date, May 1, 1969, we have not yet paid our Christmas bills. Repeatedly over the months, we pleaded for corrections in the statements so we could pay up; repeatedly, Miss Z., the supervisor in charge of adjustments at A&F, promised my secretary that our accounts would be straightened out at once. Finally, about 10 days ago, my husband wrote a letter of complaint to the president of A&F.

This morning the corrected statements came in — and now in May, we will pay December's bills.

Must be Other Incidents

Now five months into this year, we will again consider charging in A&F (we have been avoiding the store).

You probably can dwarf my tale of woe with your own horror stories about your battles with non-thinking computers and the over-worked and-or inefficient employes who run them.

There's no mistaking the ris-

ing consumer uproar about this. What's more, I know we have been comparatively fortunate we have not been intimidated; our credit rating (as far as we know) has not been undermined by our failure to pay our bills.

But what should you do if your charge account is caught in a computer nightmare? Here are 10 guides for you I just obtained from Ethel Langtry, the brilliant vice president in charge of research for the National Retail Merchants Association.

(1) — Do not pay your bills until you have received the merchandise, unless it is precisely what you ordered and until you've made sure your bills are in order. "Just don't pay," says Miss Langtry. "Clear up the situation first."

(2) — Send a letter giving all details of your complaint to the adjustment department. You can get the proper department identification and names from the store. If this doesn't bring prompt service, write to the president of the store.

"Do not write your complaint on the top of your bill head," warns Miss Langtry. "Write a separate letter." And put in all the facts. Do not mail your precious sales records, of course.

Write — Don't Phone

(3) — It's much better to write your complaint than to telephone it or call in person, for it gives the store time to check it through. If you do telephone, do not talk to the phone operator; talk to an adjuster, and get her (or his) name.

(4) — Don't worry about your credit rating; other stores will understand. But if you are concerned, notify the local credit bureau why you've not paid; send a carbon of your letter of complaint.

(5) — If interest is added to a bill which is overdue only because you're waiting for adjustments, don't pay it. Subtract the interest charged before you pay.

(6) — Get receipts when you return merchandise and keep them. Don't pay the bills until your returns have been deducted.

(7) — Save your duplicate sales slips!

(8) — Use your store charge cards. They carry a number as well as your name which makes it tougher for the computer to mix up your account. The NRMA is working on a "one card" charge for all stores in the same region to simplify today's multi-card maze.

(9) — Be especially careful about your charges during peak seasons when the personnel will be overworked and undertrained — i.e., back-to-school as well as Christmas-Easter periods.

(10) — When answering a letter from a store, always refer to the person who signed it. This will channel your letter properly.

Miss Langtry believes the worst of the computer nightmare is over; few big stores in New York City, for instance, are still in bad trouble. Maybe so — but you can get caught, and if so, these guides will protect you.

5,000 to Participate in State Music Festival at Oshkosh

Nearly 5,000 students from 136 public and parochial senior and junior high schools in northeastern Wisconsin will participate Saturday in the Wisconsin School Music Association State Festival of solos and ensembles as Oshkosh State University.

Chairmen of the annual event are Dr. Thomas E. Neice, OSU professor of music, and Harold Arentsen, former supervisor of music for the Oshkosh Public Schools.

University music students and staff are assisting in the management of the festival.

Students who have been named winners in Class A competition at district levels will be rated by 23 judges from Wisconsin, Illinois and Iowa who are specialists in music teaching.

Eligible for competition are 687 soloists and 680 ensembles ranging from 2 to 16 members. These totals represent a 15 per cent increase over last year.

Contest events are scheduled from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Clow Social Science Center, Swart Campus School, Reeve Memorial Union, the Music Annex and Albee Hall Gymnasium.

Kaukauna Man Reports Car Windshield Broken

KAUKAUNA — Wesley Brill, Parker Lane, Kaukauna, reported to police the windshield of his car was smashed in two places while it was parked in the Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co. parking lot sometime between 10:30 p.m. Wednesday and 6:30 a.m. Thursday.

Police said it appeared a tire iron may have been used to smash the windshield.

100 Youths Attend Gun Safety Program

KAUKAUNA — Over 100 youngsters between the ages of 8 and 14 participated in the Jayee-sponsored shooting education program which was conducted over the last two weekends and ended with shooting competition.

James Gerrits, National Rifle Association member, spoke on gun safety and helped instruct youngsters in the proper way of handling weapons and shooting.

Top finisher in the 8-9-year-old division was Alan Osswald, followed by Keith Hietpas and William Hereby. In the 10-11-year bracket, Steve Ebert took first, followed by Jim McDaniel and Mark Spielbauer. Tops in the 12 through 14 bracket was Robert Dreier, followed by David Vandenberg and Mike Eslinger.

U.S. Ponders Waging War On Violence

Administration Spokesmen Cite Danger From Unrest on Campuses

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration, using the observance of "Law Day 1969" as a forum, has renewed its attacks on campus violence.

Justice Department officials, headed by Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, fanned out across the country to speak at Law Day ceremonies Thursday and demand an end to student disorders.

Picking up the theme President Nixon outlined earlier in the week, Mitchell demanded that university officials and local law officials put an end to the student violence.

"Violence and dissatisfaction on our college campuses are a serious threat to our system of law, a threat as disturbing as the violence in our cities," Mitchell said to the Detroit, Mich., Bar Association annual Law Day dinner.

The administration has tried to be patient in the face of continuing campus chaos, Mitchell said, but "the time has come for an end to patience.

"The time has come for us to demand, in the strongest possible terms, that university officials, local enforcement agencies and local courts apply the law," Mitchell declared.

"If arrests must be made, then arrests should be," he said. "If violators must be prosecuted, then prosecutions should be."

Necessary Action

Nixon, in a Tuesday speech to the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, called on college administrators to take the necessary action to stop campus violence or see an end to the American education system.

Mitchell, who attacked student militants as "nothing but tyrants," was joined in the assault by two key aides—Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst and Asst. Atty. Gen. William H. Rehnquist—who made Law Day speeches in Washington and Newark, Del., respectively.

Kleindienst referred to militants as "ideological criminals" and Rehnquist labeled them "the new barbarians."

The emphasis was on local law officials and college heads ending the campus problem. But the administration officials did not rule out future federal intervention, although there were no indications of quick action.

Local Authorities

Federal law as it now stands, Mitchell said, leaves prosecution to state and local authorities except when militants cross state lines to incite riots, a violation of the 1968 Civil Rights Act.

Asked at a news conference if broader federal jurisdiction would be sought, Mitchell said: "We have the matter constantly under consideration.

"I'm sure," he added, "that it's not beyond the realm of possibility that we could recommend legislation to Congress in this area."

As Mitchell spoke in Detroit, there were voices on Capitol Hill calling for Senate investigations and grand jury probes and suggesting the country may be in the initial stages of revolution.

Hearings to Start

Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., announced that the Senate's permanent investigation subcommittee will start hearings in about a month on campus disorders.

Federal grand jury probes were urged by Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., in areas where there have been college disturbances. He said evidence indicates "that there is an active, aggressive national conspiracy" to disrupt "the peace and dignity of the academic communities."

Wilson Said To be Facing Ouster Move

'No Confidence' Vote Imminent?

LONDON (AP) — Political sources say an attempt from within his own Labor Party to replace Prime Minister Harold Wilson may be imminent.

Reports of a plot against Wilson by some of his former Cabinet ministers and other backbench MPs are circulating in the lobbies of the House of Commons and appeared today on front pages of most major newspapers.

One report said the rebels were discussing whether to bring a vote of no confidence against the prime minister at an early meeting of the Labor Party members in Commons.

Strike Legislation

The immediate sore point is Wilson's insistence on pushing through Parliament this summer laws to curb the wildcat strikes crippling British exports. The party's traditional cornerstone of political support, the trade union movement, is fighting the legislation tooth and nail.

In Wilson's nearly five years in office plots to replace him have often been reported but never have developed into a real threat. Political informants said the situation appeared different this time on at least three counts:

1. Criticism of Wilson and his antistrike bills is more open in parliamentary lobbies than on earlier occasions and no longer emanates mainly from factions backing a potential rival.

2. The criticism is more widespread than before. It is said to include not only the party's dissident left wing, long a nuisance to Wilson, but also some of the center. Varying accounts put Wilson's critics at between 30 and 100 members.

3. For the first time, supporters of various potential successors to Wilson are now prepared to unite behind any one man who appears to have the best chance. Those most prominently mentioned are Home Secretary James Callagahan, a past opponent of the strike control proposals; Defense Secretary Denis Healey and Chancellor of the Exchequer Roy Jenkins.

The strategy of the dissidents is to force a change in the party leadership from within rather than to defeat the government in Commons and force a general election. It is generally acknowledged that in an election now, Labor would lose badly and many of the dissident MPs would lose their seats in Commons.

Wilson has been gambling all along that his unpopular austerity measures will right the economy before April 1971, when he has to call an election. His opponents believe Labor must turn to a new man who can unite the party and the unions.

Disgruntled Patients

Malpractice Suits on Rise

BY CHARLES G. McDANIEL
Associated Press Science Writer

Malpractice suits filed by patients against doctors are contributing to the increased cost of medical care in the United States.

Rates on malpractice insurance for doctors have soared across the country and the increased costs are borne, at least in part, by the patient.

Statistics show that one doctor out of every six of the 300,000 in the United States has been, or is being, sued for malpractice. Last year, doctors paid $75 million in malpractice insurance premiums.

Some $18 million was paid in awards to patients in 1968, according to Bernard D. Hirsh, general counsel of the American Medical Association. Legal fees added to the costs.

William F. Martin, a New York lawyer, said in a paper recently before the National Medicolegal Symposium in Las Vegas: "Spokesman both for the medical profession and the insurance industry agree that the higher rates are caused by the increased number of malpractice suits being filed by disgruntled patients and the larger settlements being made both in and out of court."

Doctors and lawyers say that today's society is more permissive and citizens are more prone to sue, so the problem is not limited to the medical profession.

The Insurance Information Institute in New York says premiums on malpractice insurance are up 47 per cent over a year ago.

An AMA survey also found instances in 14 states in which physicians were unable to obtain malpractice insurance.

The institute, in a recent announcement of rate revisions, stated that from 1959 through 1963, insurance companies paid $140 for every $100 received in premiums from physicians. For surgeons it was $151 for every $100.

Recent revisions upped malpractice rates in 27 states, while reducing them in two.

The increases ranged from 10 per cent in four states to 75 per cent in Montana and Ohio and 100 per cent in Vermont. Rates in six states went up 50 to 60 per cent.

Rates were reduced 10 per cent in New Hampshire and 15 per cent in Oregon.

Rates for hospitals maintaining liability insurance likewise are rising.

There are other patient costs, too, engendered by extra-cautious—and perhaps unnecessary —tests, a committee of the AMA trustees reported.

There are no recent statistics to show whether there has been an increase in malpractice suits filed, but many doctors, lawyers and insurance men say there has been.

Martin cited these cases as examples of the trend toward higher awards:

A woman in Florida received a $1.5 million verdict in an anesthesia mishap. $1.4 million to a California man similarly injured, and $1.25 million to a New Mexico boy whose scalp was severely burned in treatment for ringworm.

The cost of malpractice suits to the 21 municipal hospitals in New York City more than doubled in one year—from $356,900 in 1965 to $753,850 in 1966.

Some physicians pay $12,000 to $15,000 a year for maxi-

No Immediate Attack?

Nixon's Hunger Plans Questioned in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top Nixon administration officials have been asked by a special Senate committee to explain an alleged White House decision against an immediate broad attack on hunger in the nation.

Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., chairman of the hunger committee, said Thursday invitations to appear before the panel next week went to Clifford M. Hardin, secretary of agriculture; Robert H. Finch, secretary of health, education and welfare, and Budget Director Robert P. Mayo.

Announcement of the action came shortly after the committee's ranking Republican, Sen. Jacob K. Javits, urged the GOP administration to increase the fight against hunger this year.

"Deeply Disturbing"

The New York senator cited "authoritative reports that the administration does not propose to increase materially the federal food assistance program to the nation's poor beyond the present level of slightly more than $1.5 billion.

"This is a deeply disturbing development if indeed such a decision has been made by the White House," Javits added.

The White House has not officially announced whether such a step has been taken.

"I would hope very much that it has not yet been taken and that the subject will be most carefully reviewed in terms of what should be our national priorities," Javits said.

The senator has been making behind-the-scene efforts to convince the administration of the need for a vigorous hunger program. An aide indicated Javits decided to speak out publicly only after being advised on the highest possible levels that such a program could not be undertaken at this time.

"Appalling Conditions"

Javits, referring to reports that some administration officials are not convinced hunger is a critical problem, said:

"I would hope that they will go out into the field, as I've done, to see the widespread, appalling conditions of hunger that demand much more comprehensive measures involving much greater expenditures than they now seem to have in mind."

President Nixon told Congress last month he intends to propose innovative programs to deal with the hunger problem. But his revision of former President Lyndon B. Johnson's budget added only $15 million for nutrition education to previously proposed programs.

Javits supported proposals by McGovern to give free food stamps to families with monthly incomes of less than $80.

S. Vietnam Unsure About NLF's 'Offer'

SAIGON (AP) — Pham Dang Lam, South Vietnam's chief delegate to the Paris peace talks, said today that more details are needed from the National Liberation Front to determine whether a statement its representative made in Paris this week means the Viet Cong are prepared for private talks with the Saigon government.

Tran Buu Kiem of the NLF said Wednesday at the weekly peace talks session that "on the basis of its position," the NLF is "ready to enter into discussion with the other parties so as to make the conference move forward."

Lam, returning home for consultations, was asked by newsmen whether this statement was a response to President Nguyen Van Thieu's offer March 25 to hold secret talks with the NLF. Lam hesitated, then replied: "Not exactly. You know we need more precisions."

Lam thus did not reject speculation that Kiem's statement might indicate a more receptive attitude toward Thieu's invitation.

No Breakthrough

However, in answer to another question, Lam said there had been no "breakthrough" in the Paris talks. He said there was no special reason for his return to Saigon; "it is normal that I would have consultations."

A government spokesman said earlier that Lam would be back in Paris before next Thursday's session.

The government spokesman also was asked about Kiem's statement and said the government is waiting for "acts instead of words."

Clifford Says He Disagreed With Johnson

Vietnam Policy Hopeless, Former Top Aide Claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — Clark M. Clifford, a strong supporter of U.S. Vietnam policy when he became the Johnson administration's defense chief in 1968, has said he left office convinced the war was hopeless, sources say.

Clifford, secretary of defense from Jan. 30, 1968 until President Johnson left office earlier this year, declared his disillusionment to some Senate Foreign Relations Committee members called together by Sen. J. W. Fulbright, sources said.

Fulbright, one of the strongest critics of the nation's Vietnam involvement, called the meeting April 22, the sources said, after learning of Clifford's change of heart.

Clifford, one of President Johnson's closest associates, entered the Defense Department publicly committed to the idea that the American intervention was necessary, not only to save South Vietnam, but to prevent the takeover of other non-Communist nations in Southeast Asia.

"Question of Weeks"

Clifford made his views clear when he told a Senate committee considering his appointment Jan. 25, 1968:

"To me it is not a question of years, it is a question of weeks and months, if we weren't there, until Southeast Asia, nation by nation, succumbed. That is not happening now, in my opinion, because we are there and because we have extended this shield and I believe we must continue to do it."

But at the meeting last month, the sources said, he told the senators he left office in disagreement with many of former President Johnson's Vietnam policies and convinced the Domino theory that the fall of Vietnam would lead to the takeover of other nations was fallacious.

In addition, Clifford told the senators he didn't feel President Nixon had tried hard enough to extricate the United States from Vietnam.

The sources also said Clifford's statements were one of the reasons behind a call Thursday by Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., for the United States to start an immediate withdrawal of troops from the war zone.

French Vote June 1

PARIS (AP)—The French Cabinet today set June 1 as the date for the first round of voting in the election to name President Charles de Gaulle's successor.

President Gets Top Derby Seat

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — President Nixon will have one of the best seats in the house for viewing the Kentucky Derby Saturday — in the private box of Gov. Louie B. Nunn overlooking the finish line.

The management of Churchill Downs also is providing him with a special program bound in hand-tooled leather.

A room for the President and his party has been set aside near the fourth floor press box. It has betting windows, thick green carpeting, 16 tables each with 16 chairs and a washroom for each sex.

Groppi Vows Capitol Vigil

Picket Lines Due To Protest Cuts In Welfare Budget

MADISON (AP) — The Rev. James Groppi, Militant white civil rights leader, announced today that picket lines will be set up at the state Capitol Saturday to protest proposed cuts in welfare budgets.

Groppi told a news conference the protest would end when welfare cuts have been restored by the legislature and signed into law by Gov. Warren P. Knowles.

"The pressure will be determined by the response of the legislature," the Milwaukee priest said. He added he could not say whether the protest would include sit-ins.

Groppi and Mrs. Vel Phillips, a Negro member of the Milwaukee Common Council, disclosed plans for the protest across the street from the Capitol in Grace Episcopal Church.

Church Support

Groppi and Mrs. Phillips said they hoped to rally the support of Madison church groups behind the effort.

Participants in the demonstration will come "from all over the state—not just Milwaukee," said Groppi, who rose to prominence as a leader of civil rights protests during Milwaukee's summer of unrest in 1967.

To date, the Joint Finance Committee has cut about $160 million from the Republican governor's $1.6 billion budget. The cuts include more than $20 million in proposed welfare spending.

Scouting Council Presents Awards

Awards, introductions, elections and an address by a noted psychologist highlighted the annual Tri-City District, Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America dinner meeting Thursday.

Elected as district chairman was F. H. Sprowl. A. S. Dillon was chosen district vice chairman and Dr. Carroll Garey, commissioner.

Operating committee heads selected by the group include John Spaulding, activities; the Rev. Roger Strebel, advancement; John Long, camping; Ray Renier, health and safety; and William Cooley, leadership training.

Awards for volunteer service included two women — den mothers who were described by Master of Ceremonies Donald Prown as "heroines." Mrs. Nancy Heinzkill and Mrs. Nancy Nelson, both of Neenah, were the recipients of the training awards.

Scouter Keys

Scouter's keys went to Richard Mykel, Neenah; Harold Witthuhn, Patrick McCormick and Warren Smith, all of Appleton. Scouter's training award recipients included the Rev. Lee J. Kahrs, Vincent Berg, Perry Pollard, Roy O. Saker, Tom Hollenbeck, John Bauhs Jr., Arnold Reis, Carroll Moors and James DeGroot, all of Appleton, and LeRoy Peterson, Neenah. Cooley made the presentations.

In a succinct message, the speaker, Dr. Donald Derozier, staff psychologist at Winnebago State Hospital, outlined to the group of more than 200 the goals of the Scouting program for the future.

"One of your challenges should be to extend your program to include the youths who really need to belong to such an organization — the boys who otherwise don't have the opportunity to find ideals that the Scouting program offers," Dr. Derozier emphasized.

New Topics

Another thought for the future, the speaker added, should be to include the new topics, such as pollution and the ruination of natural resources into the fine and time-tested study program.

"Your organization has much more opportunity to be close to nature than those in inner cities and this is the age when they should learn about such topics," the psychologist said.

He also added that the Scouting program could help bridge the gap created by social ills. "The two principles that society can learn from Scouts are to be physically fit and morally straight," Dr. Derozier said.

Adding to his remarks was Eagle Scout Charles Lang, of Post 405, who told the audience that the theme, "Boypower '76" stands for the Scouting goal — to have one in every three boys in the country in the Scouting program by 1976.

Sense of Identity

Dr. Derozier, who works with youth at Winnebago State, also told the group that the Scouting program can contribute to a sense of identity.

"There are two big elements in the area of identity. There needs to be a feeling of competency — a feeling that you can make an impact on your surroundings — and there needs to be feeling of belonging somewhere.

"Scouting can provide both of these," Dr. Derozier stated.

Also taking part in the program were Father Strebel, who brought the invocation; T. A. Howells, council president; Earl A. Kubale, Scout executive; Richard Van Sistine, nominating committee chairman; and Justin Kneeland, new district executive for the tri-cities. Reinhard J. Wessing was chairman of the event.

Clintonville Tops Shawano Golfers In Sudden Death

CLINTONVILLE — The Truckers' golf team defeated the Shawano Indians by just two strokes in sudden death play Wednesday afternoon at the Clintonville Riverside Golf Club.

At the end of regulation play, the score was tied 181-all. In sudden death play, the Truckers had 19 to Shawano's 21 on the first extra hole.

Al Pevonka, Clintonville, was the medalist of the afternoon with a 41. Other Clintonville golfers and their scores were Jeff Everson, 42; Marc Malueg, 46; Mike McLyman, 52; and Pete Zingler, 54. Bob Steichen was low for Shawano with 44.

In Jayee competition, Shawano defeated the Truckers 200 to 220. Rick Waite was the medalist for the Clintonville Jayees with a 42. All other players shot in the 60's.

This afternoon at 4 p.m., the Truckers play at Kimberly.

Varsity cheerleaders will be elected for the wrestling team. Both squads are combined during football games.

Marion Posts 9-3 Victory Over Bonduel

MARION — Marion's Mustangs took a 9-3 decision over Bonduel in a non-conference baseball game here Thursday afternoon.

The winning margin was largely gained through an 8-run blast in the fifth inning, which was accomplished with only two hits.

The Bears led up until this time, scoring one run in the second and two in the fifth.

Marion's fifth stanza was the result of a combination of errors, walks, stolen bases and two hits. The Mustangs scored one more time more on a triple and stolen base by Frank Kristof.

The winning pitcher was Mike Bailey who pitched the first six innings and was relieved by Kevin Theil. Scott Bergshaken was on the mound for the losers.

Bicycle Licenses Will be Issued At New London

NEW LONDON — Police Chief Jack Algiers announced today bicycle licenses for 1969-71 will be issued starting at 8:30 a.m. Saturday.

The licenses, which will cost 75 cents, will be good for two years. All bicycles in the city must be licensed or they may be picked up by New London police.

Youngsters are to bring their bikes to the station for inspection and licenses.

Algiers said the program is a two-fold protection, it not only promotes safety but helps in the recovery of lost or stolen bicycles.

Youngsters can help speed up the registration by bringing the serial number of their bikes to the police station at the time of registration, or, by telling police the old license number if they have not changed bicycles since getting a license.

A property settlement was made.

Post Corp. Acquires All-Star Insurance

Post Corporation of Appleton, today announced it has reached an agreement in principle to acquire a majority of the common stock of All-Star Insurance Corp., a Milwaukee-based stock property and casualty insurer specializing in surplus and excess lines.

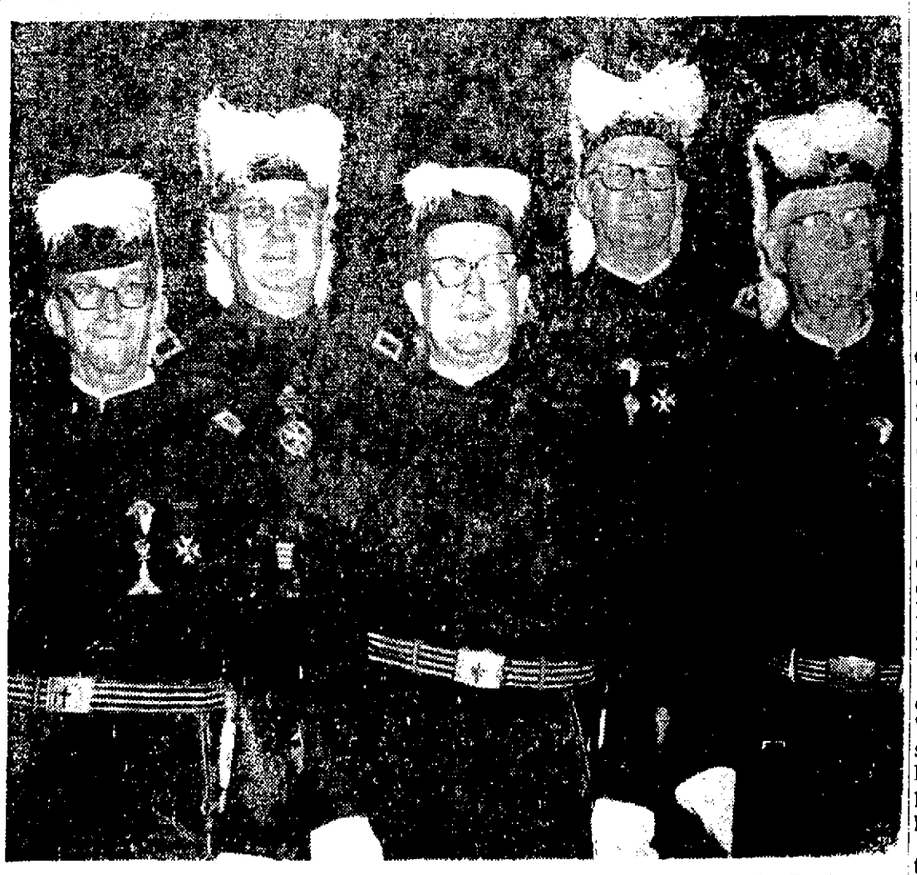

Post said it intends to buy, for an undisclosed amount, all the stock of Cameron General Corp., a Delaware corporation which owns approximately 55 per cent of All-Star's stock. The Cameron shares will be purchased from Anglo-American Investment Trust, Ltd., a Bahamian trust company.

All-Star, organized in 1960 to engage in the fire and casualty insurance business in Wisconsin, was extensively reorganized last year to permit it to operate in the surplus and excess lines business on a nationwide basis.

Post said it intends to retain in their present posts All-Star's two principal officers, President and Treasurer Francis A. Davis and Vice President John H. Ronnebeck, plus the rest of the operating staff.

This is Post's first venture into the insurance field. Publisher of a daily newspaper in Appleton since 1898, in recent years it has acquired four television and four radio stations in the Midwest, and several other newspaper properties in Wisconsin.

In late 1968, after a successful public offering of its stock, it entered the communications engineering business in Milwaukee, and earlier this week announced its intention to acquire a newspaper and commercial printing business in West Bend.

'The Beaux' Stratagem'

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — George Farquhar's intricately structured Restoration drama, "The Beaux' Strategem," was given a generally pleasing, and in parts outstanding, staging Thursday night at Oshkosh State University.

Too many plays of this period are windy and overly-complex and not all that well conceived, but Farquhar's greatest work (the author died at 29, snuffing out a potentially brilliant career) has strengths which have stood the test of time since 1707.

The OSU speech department production, held in the Little Theatre, was its usually outstanding presentation — adept from nearly every standpoint, from acting, to sets, to costumes, to pace. To nearly everything except audience size.

The real story of "The Beaux' Stratagem," however, OSU-style, was Karin Smith, as Mrs. Sullen. Miss Smith was called upon on Monday last to fill in for the person originally cast, and in just three days had succeeded in nearly mastering a very difficult role with many lines. The only hint that Miss Smith was not with the cast all along were the handful of prompting she required; and they were far between and not serious, just a key word got her back on the track.

Among Talented Group

Director Robert Heise, whose work is always at a high artistic level, is fortunate to have a talent such as Karin Smith on tap. But she was among talented company.

Roger Spiecher, as Archer, was a total delight. He wins my award as most improved actor of the last few seasons at OSU. Since "Blood Wedding" (I seem to recall Roger as the lover), Spiecher has progressed into an actor of wide abilities, able to convey broad humor and subtleties and create moods which pick up lagging scenes.

While Archer eventually wooed Mrs. Sullen, the main romantic entanglement involved Aimwell (Richard Weisheim) and Dorinda (Ellen Keeline), both of whom were given expert portrayals by good actors; and both are quite pleasant looking. One should not underestimate the importance of good looks in roles of this sort, and when acceptable — in fact, highly skilled — acting is a bonus, well, good for the audience.

Author Farquhar intended "The Beaux' Stratagem" to be staged "straight," or seriously, if you will. The subtle ironies of his lines carried impact enough. So it leads me to believe that two roles, while funny as the dickens, were overdone to absurdity. Namely, Thomas Andrew as Count Bellair, one of Mrs. Sullen's admirers, and Robert Nowicki, as the bigbellied Boniface, were instructed to go too far to get laughs which were not needed to make the production fun.

Knew When to Stop

A particular treat, however, was Neal Hirsig as Scrub, a not-too-bright servant who also flirted with absurdity, but was able to stop just short of too far.

Other significant roles included Dennis Schulz as the boozing Sullen, Jeannine Bongle as the healing Lady Bountiful, Karen Krause as Boniface's daughter, Cherry. Tom Colwin as the highwayman, Gibbet, and Peter Maurer as the convincing "Father," Foigard. Each added moments of enjoyment to the production, helping make it a complete play rather than one of a few highlights.

Other roles, all adequate or better, were Robert Bohnsack as Freeman, Jerry Stephens as Houslow, Michael Portman as Bagshot, Ellen Loomans as Gypsy and Mark Zager and Sue Powers as a servant and a woman.

Charles Schmitt's scenic design was functional, clever and attractive. Great imagination with sets seems to be a trademark at OSU. Costumes were elaborate and as nearly as a layman could guess, appropriate for the era.

"The Beaux' Stratagem" will be repeated at 8 p.m. today and Saturday.

AAUW Elects Officers for '69

CLINTONVILLE — Mrs. Clarence Draeger, Marion, was elected president of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) Monday at a dinner meeting.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Ned Westphal, first vice president and program development chairman; Mrs. Peter Oberhauser, second vice president in charge of membership; Mrs. David Secore, secretary and publicity, and Mrs. Frank Urbanz, treasurer.

Dr. Raymond Vlasin, assistant chancellor of the University of Wisconsin, Green Bay extension service discussed the university. He talked about the physical plant, extension service, and the planned curriculum.

Guests at the meeting were the husbands of the members, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ellis, Verna Schoepke, and Mrs. Henry Bowers, Marion.

Hostesses were Mrs. Williamson, Mrs. Robert Otto and Mrs. Henry Bowers Jr., Marion. Program chairman for the meeting was Mrs. John Williamson.

Chilton Lawmaker Says Resolution Is 'Danger to Calumet'

CHILTON — Assemblyman Gervase Hephner, D-Chilton, has labled as "dangerous to the interests of Calumet County" a resolution that would have the attorney general render an opinion as to whether assembly districts may cross county lines. The Wisconsin Constitution presently bars crossing county lines.

Hephner pointed out that the text of the bill, authored by a group of Republicans, makes reference to one district which is 43.7 per cent below average in population and that this is a reference to Calumet County.

A similar measure that would have had the same effect was introduced in the 1967 session by Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich.

"This is just another attempt to push for a redrawing of district lines that will assure that the people of Calumet County will have an assemblyman who lives in Appleton." Hephner said.

This resolution did not take into account the geographic realities of the area, according to Hephner. Calumet County is composed of many farms and small communities and it would be an inaccurate reflection of the local economy and social structure to have someone from the Appleton area representing Calumet County, he added.

"This is a bold power grab that is being attempted through the devise of political and geographic gymnastics. The people of Calumet County certainly resent the attempts of the Republicans to dictate what sort of men will represent them in the assembly." Hephner concluded

Very Few Facts escaped the high school boys who visited Dushek Trucking Co. Waupaca, during the recent career days conducted for Waupaca County high school seniors. Classes Still Crowded

Waupaca Plans for Minimal Remodeling at High School

WAUPACA — At a special meeting of the board of education Thursday an appropriation of $30,000 was approved for building improvements next year in the high school and central school.

It will be included in the 1969-70 budget to cover five priority items, recommended by the maintenance improvement committee.

Following an on-site inspection by the board Everett Anderson, chairman, proposed:

— The complete remodeling of the girls' washroom on the first floor of the high school, at the estimated cost of $9,000.

— The complete remodeling of the girl's washroom on the second floor of the high school. estimated cost $6,400.

Replace Floors

— The replacement of floors in rooms 10, 11 and 12 of the high school, estimated cost $2,500.

— Conversion of a storage room and toilet rooms on the third floor of the high school into a guidance room, estimated cost $3,600.

—Pouring hard surface on the elementary school playground area, estimated cost $2,500.

Anderson told the board that specifications would be drawn by Bob Donaldson, the projects would be advertised for bids and the contracts let so work could begin as soon as possible after school is out.

First Step

This is the first step the board has taken to provide more adequate space, since the new high school referendum was defeated in the April 1 election.

It was mentioned that Architect Lawrence Schutte, Milwaukee, has requested some information and has told the board that he wishes to present another proposal for a new high school which will be less expensive than the $2.9 million plan presented to the voters a month ago.

The minimal remodeling approved by the board is not intended to alleviate the crowded conditions at the high school, or ease the demands for more elementary classrooms. Supt. George Henderson told the board that two additional classrooms will have to be rented for the next school term.

Move Art Room

He also had a proposal for relocating the art room before next fall. It will be moved from its basement location into the projection room, which has two exits, plenty of storage room and good light. The board's plan to put audiovisual projectors in the junior high schools, and grades five and six, will make it possible to release the projection room, now used four times a week.

Hendrickson advised the board that this school year will be extended one week to make up the five "snow days" during the winter when schools had to be closed

Final examinations will be conducted on June 5 and 6. Students will be through with their classes on June 6. The commencement sermon will be on June 8 and commencement on June 12

Work Days

June 9, 11 and 12 will be work days for the teachers and will meet the requirements for the teachers' present contracts calling for 180 teaching days.

Teacher contracts for 1969-70 were not presented to the board, although Laurie Anderson and Otto Rusch Jr., board negotiators, advised the board on April 18 that terms had been tentatively approved.

Pres. Ray Martin called a special meeting for 8 p.m. Monday to formally approve the contracts. Supt. Hendrickson urged final action so contracts could be in the hands of the teachers no later than May 9.

"While we do have signed intents from the teachers, we have to know who is coming back next year so any vacancies can be filled," Hendrickson said. "We are already two months behind."

Project for Elderly

Clintonville to Conclude Housing Solicitation

CLINTONVILLE — The housing authority will end its solicitation of interest in a low-rent development for the elderly on Monday.

Authority members extended the original May 1 cut-off date in hopes of gathering the names of at least 120 persons age 65 or older who might be interested in the development. About 100 persons have indicated interest so far.

Other than age, the only limitations on renters are that they have an annual income of no more than $3,600 and assets of no more than $15,000. Rent in the federally underwritten development could be as low as $38 a month.

Developer Selected

After two years of exploring the involvements of obtaining a federal Housing and Urban Development (HUD) project here, Clintonville's housing authority selected Al Torborg Construction Company, Clintonville, to act as its project developer and began inspecting similar buildings in nearby communities.

A model of the Algoma apartment house has been on display in the lobby of the Dairyman's State Bank since early April.

Purpose of the authority's solicitation is to prepare an exhibit for HUD which will show need for such a development here. Persons otherwise eligible to move into a low-rent apartment building need not live in the city to express their interest.

60 Units

An expression of interest in a housing development is not a binding application for quarters, members of the authority pointed out. In fact, while 120 applications are sought to provide a convincing exhibit for HUD, a building with only 60 units has been the initial goal here.

Janitor service, garbage disposal units, and elevators are part of the basic requirements in the HUD program.

Units consist of kitchenette, living room, one or two bedrooms and bath. Laundry facilities are located on each floor.

Although several preparatory steps involving federal approval must be made before construction can begin, hopes are for an early autumn start.

Members of the housing authority are Arthur Kaphingst, president; Eugene Dexter, secretary; George Graff, Kenneth Luebke and Gerald Dieck.

Farm Accident Fatal to Man In Harrison

The 25-year-old son of the Town of Harrison chairman was killed about 9:30 p.m. Thursday in a farm accident.

George Schwalbach Jr., route 4, Appleton, was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Elizabeth Hospital. He was asphyxiated when a pile of straw fell on him in his father's barn, Calumet County Coroner Leroy Hughes reported.

Hughes said the victim was helping his father milk cows and had remained in the barn after his father returned to the house. When young Schwalbach did not return to the house in "15 or 20 minutes," Hughes said, his father went to the barn and found him under the straw.

Hughes said that apparently Schwalbach had reached up to fork some hay and the entire pile had fallen on top of him. He is continuing investigation.

The town of Harrison Fire Department rescue squad was called and applied artificial respiration.

Schwalbach, who was married, lived on his father's farm. Funeral arrangements are pending at the Jensen Funeral Home in Kimberly.

Clintonville Police Will Issue Bicycle Licenses Saturdays

CLINTONVILLE — The police department will issue bicycle licenses for the city starting Saturday and continuing each succeeding Saturday.

The licenses will be issued from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the police department in the city hall.

They will be for a two year period, the balance of this year and for 1970, and the cost is 50 cents.

Protection During Summer Sought at Chain O' Lakes

Additional Police Surveillance Asked by Residents Against Anticipated Influx of Tourists

WAUPACA — With summer five weekends away, residents of the Chain O' Lakes turned their thoughts to the weekends which explode people and vehicle traffic in the area tenfold.

The Chain O' Lakes Protective Association, spokesman for two-thirds of the cottage owners on the lakes, is asking that the county and towns of Dayton and Farmington join forces to provide adequate law enforcement this summer.

As the result of an informal meeting called by the Waupaca County Law Enforcement Committee and attended by county, town and association officials and residents, Capt. John Penney of the county patrol will present specific proposals and costs at a special meeting 7:30 p.m. Monday at the courthouse.

Youth Traffic

Anticipating the usual course of events, a mobile youth traffic on the roadways in the area, Richard Penn, speaking for association officers, wrote a letter last February to Arthur Sturm, Manawa, chairman of the county law enforcement committee. Sturm called a meeting last Monday at King to discuss the problem and possible solutions.

"The problem involves everything from speeding to roadside parking and firecrackers, every resident at the lakes knows it," Richard E. Johnson, district attorney and owner of a cottage on the Chain, said.

"They feel that adequate law enforcement is necessary and the request is for immediate help this summer," he added. "What is needed is an officer with full deputy powers. There is no doubt about the deterrent effect upon speed violators of the flashing red light.

Experienced Officers

"Another officer is certainly worth trying and there are off-duty city and county police who could take this job, experienced men with know-how and the authority," he pointed out.

Johnson stated further that it appears the towns and county will work something out, sharing the cost of a man's salary, use of a squad car and the necessary equipment.

He stressed the fact that the full effect of this added man power could only be reached with the right man on the job. This would be one with full authority to go in and stop any unlawful act, burglarizing, trespassing, assault, ordinance violations, as well as speeding.

13 Weekends

In Penn's letter to Sturm he requested a county patrolman for 13 weekends, Memorial Day through Labor Day. It was suggested that this man patrol the area from 8 p.m. to 2 a.m., Friday, Saturday, Sunday and holidays, or a total of 242 hours.

What would it cost for a patrolman with full deputy authority? One law enforcement officer, who studied the problem and the need estimated $2,000. Breaking it down, he said a patrolman would be paid $3 per hour, 12 cents a mile for his car (suggesting that the government units set a maximum weekend mileage of 500 miles) and the cost of equipment, lights, radio and decals.

Shared equally, it would cost the county, the Town of Dayton and the Town of Farmington an estimated $700.

Several Considerations

Capt. Penney's objective look at the problem involves a number of considerations.

"We have used extra men, as needed at the focal point of the traffic problem, the Casino," he explained. "There are seven of us and it is not realistic to think we can call in all or even half of these men weekends — our busiest time, too."

"There is a limit to how much two, three, or four extra men could do during the interval of 15 to 30 minutes when 400 to 500 cars leave the Casino over County Trunk Q. If they each spot a speed violator, stop and ticket them, by the time they can be in pursuit of others — they are gone, dispersed over the highways and byways," he elaborated.

In a poll of area residents, those contacted were unanimous in wanting law enforcement this summer and stated they were willing to pay for it.

New Plane at Air Wisconsin

Beech 99 Added to Fleet; Placed in Service Thursday

A new Beech 99, the fifth plane in Air Wisconsin's growing fleet of aircraft, was delivered Thursday morning to the airline's hangar at the Outagamie County Airport.

About 12 hours later the airplane was placed in service on Flight 83 to Wausau and Minneapolis-St. Paul.

The new plane arrived at an opportune time, according to Air Wisconsin spokesmen, because additional flights were added this week to the airline's main destinations of Chicago, Detroit and Minneapolis-St. Paul.

In addition, service began this week for the Kokomo-Logansport-Peru (Ind.) area to Detroit and Chicago.

Alternates Offered For Waste Disposal

Consultant Outlines Incinerator, Landfill Operations for COG Unit

A preliminary report was unveiled Wednesday afternoon indicating alternative methods and costs Fox Cities area residents have for disposing of their garbage and rubbish during the next 30 years.

The report, which carried no specific recommendations, was a series of alternatives on incineration and sanitary landfill operations which should meet the area's needs based on estimated population increases.

Detailed cost estimates were included for all alternatives.

The study is part of the $210,000 analysis of solid waste disposal and sewer and water needs being conducted through the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG). Donohue and Associates, Sheboygan engineering firm, began the study in September.

Preliminary Report

William White, Donohue vice president, noted the report was preliminary, and the alternatives were not "hard and fast" final choices He pointed out that political implications obviously would be a major factor, with which area officials would have to contend

White and his staff outlined five incineration operations alternatives and three sanitary landfill alternatives

Although he offered no preference, White told members of the COG public works technical advisory committee that the Fox Cities area "still has time to develop the most economical method of landfill."

Most urbanized metropolitan areas have developed solid waste disposal programs too late and could not adapt the sanitary landfill method

Not As Clean

However, he indicated sanitary landfill is not as clean as incineration, and there is a "substantial amount" of land in this area which is not suitable for landfill

The committee plans to confer with engineers on the report before it comes to COG officials with it recommended alternative

Costs for incineration alternatives ranged to $12 million. The alternatives were:

Incinerator Plans

—One incinerator, either in the Town of Harrison southeast of Appleton or the Town of Grand Chute west of Appleton, to serve the Kaukauna to Neenah region The cost estimate for construction is $4.9 million in 1970 and about $7 million in 1993

—One incinerator between Kaukauna and Combined Locks to serve Kaukauna and the villages' area and another northwest of Appleton in Grand Chute for the remaining area Total cost estimate is $6.6 million in 1970 and $3.4 million in 1993

—One incinerator between Kaukauna and Combined Locks, another in Grand Chute to serve Appleton and Grand Chute and a third in Neenah-Menasha. Cost estimates are $6 million in 1970 and $3.3 million additional in 1974

Other alternatives would include incineration systems and use of transfer stations, which are hopper compacting units to treat the solid waste before incineration.

In any case, the Neenah-Menasha incinerator would be kept in operation, with $800,000 in alterations anticipated The present facility cost $600,000

The Donohue study indicated that from an engineering standpoint, one incinerator west of Appleton and another between Kaukauna and Combined Locks "appears to be the most satisfactory."

Sanitary Landfill

On the sanitary landfills, the Donohue report offered two major alternatives and others using a combination of transfer stations Cost estimates ranged up to about $900,000 in 1970

One alternative was for a 640-acre landfill in the northwest

'Be Proud of Clintonville,' Seniors Told at Lions Event

CLINTONVILLE — Clarence Sturm, Manawa, a past president of Lions International, addressed the 128 seniors of the senior high school's graduating class Tuesday night at the annual Lions Club's Senior Send-Off at the school cafeteria. Faculty advisers were guests.

Sturm stressed that the graduates should go forth in the world and publicize their home town as well as do the Clintonville manufacturers. He said they should remember they are the product of the finest educational system that is possible for their parents to provide.

The seniors were reminded that their education must continue daily throughout their life if they wish to stay abreast of the changing world.

Remember 3 Things

Sturm mentioned three things that every graduate should remember and be willing to stand up and be counted for: their faith in God, their constitutional government, and free enterprise. He mentioned that of all the 93 countries in which he has traveled, the United States of America stands clearly above all others.

Lloyd Eggleston was the master of ceremonies. The Rev. Ward Bonnell, pastor of the Bethany Evangelical Free Church, gave the invocation and benediction.

Wilbur Voss, Lions president, welcomed the students and introduced club officers and directors. The Madrigal group of the senior high school sang several selections under the direction of Harold Meske, and the senior high school sang band played several numbers, directed by Robert Chagnon.

Buffet Luncheon

The evening was concluded with a buffet luncheon served by the wives of Lions Club members. The tables were decorated with the class colors, navy blue and light blue, and the class flowers, white carnations tipped with blue.

Lions responsible for planning the program were Eggleston, Lyle Harrison, Albert Fillnow and Hilbert Wunsch.

Each senior was pinned with a class flower upon arrival at the party.

Terry Durkey, Rande Eggert, Jeff Everson, Cheri Fahrenkrug, Bonnie Fandrey, Robert

Sharie Fischer, a seventh grade pupil at the St. Martin Lutheran School, Clintonville, is being screened with the audiometer operated by Mrs. Vernon Kluth. Assisting is Mrs. Jack Nixon. Over 1,700 local school children are being screened in the hearing program. (Laib Photo)

Contract Not Yet Awarded

School Bus Bids Opened by Hilbert Board of Education

HILBERT — Bus bids opened this week by the board of education range from an apparent low of $7,467, plus $237 to meet rear axle specifications, to an apparent high of $8,454 on 60-passenger vehicles.

The bids will be examined further before the board awards a contract.

In other business a $1,000 certificate of deposit at a Brillion bank will be withdrawn and put in the debt retirement fund at the Hilbert State Bank.

Rental of two calculators was approved for next year at a cost of about $300 with the eventual aim of purchasing the machines and putting the rental cost toward the purchase price.

Special Meeting

A special meeting was planned for May 12 to prepare a tentative budget The annual awards program will be in the evening and a date will be scheduled. However, because of the lack of space, industrial arts and other projects will not be displayed

Asked about a reported deficit in the lunch program, board chairman Walter Vollmer explained there is some inventory. The figures might be misleading, he said, though he admitted not knowing the extent of the inventory. The board has previously voiced concern regarding a more than $3,000 deficit shown in the financial report distributed at a recent board meeting, but felt that "it would level off" towards the end of the year. The report did not give any inventory figures.

Teacher Will Attend Course In Physics

Chilton Instructor Chosen for Science Foundation Institute

CHILTON — Dale Voskuil, physics teacher at the high school, here, will attend an eight-week summer institute in physics, the school administration was informed recently by the National Science Foundation

The program will be at the South Dakota School of Mines and Technology at Rapid City The foundation will pay a stipend of $75 per week and travel allowance for the course to 24 physics teachers from throughout the nation

Objectives of the course, according to the foundation, are to improve the teacher's knowledge of physics subject matter, teaching methods, hear competent scientists talk on contemporary topics, associate with science teachers sharing similar problems and interests, and to build an interest in science teaching by visiting science research laboratories

Voskuil indicated he is especially interested in the South Dakota program because it will stress a recently developed concept in teaching physic.

Former Students Honor Otto Meyer

STOCKBRIDGE — Pride and respect for a man who has dedicated 26 years to the school system here was reflected in a testimonial dinner Saturday night for Otto Meyer, teacher and former principal, who will retire May 30.

About 230 former students attended the dinner at the high school

Meyer who has many "firsts" to his credit at the 94-year-old high school came to this country from Czechoslovakia in 1913

He attended parochial and public elementary schools in Wausaukee, graduated from Milwaukee Normal School in 1926, and taught in rural schools until 1939, when he returned to Milwaukee Teachers College to work for his degree in education which he received in 1942

He came to Stockbridge in 1943 and was principal until suffering a heart attack in 1959 He asked to be relieved of the administrative position and to resume a teaching post, which he has held for the last 10 years.

At Stockbridge high school students have "had Mr Meyer" for civics, sociology, economics, world history, general science biology, general math, English, as basketball coach, and presently for problems of democracy, English 9, general science and general mathematics

Meyer's two sons have served in the Peace Corps Michael, who recently completed an assignment teaching in West Africa, was present for the occasion

A tape-recorded message, obviously a surprise for the Meyers, was played from their other son, Stephen, who is with the Peace Corps in Ethiopia.

Alumni Association

The retirement gathering was arranged by the Alumni Association, headed by Carlos Reif

Reif presented a plaque, which reads, "In grateful appreciation to Otto Meyer, Stockbridge principal and teacher, April 26, 1969 from alumni and friends"

Henry Ricker, former county school committee member and recipient of the 6th District American Legion Americanism award, was speaker for the occasion.

Ricker pointed out Meyer's many accomplishments benefiting the community and school, including originating the school newspaper in 1944, publication of the first year book in 1949 and engaging the first full-time band director in 1950.

Achievements Listed

Other achievements were adding home economics and industrial arts to the curriculum, initiating a hot lunch program and bus transportation, and his part in the building of the gym, home economics room, science room shop, shower rooms and stage in 1954

The school received an integrated rating by the State Department of Public Instruction in 1955 and won the Kettle Moraine forensic title in 1954-55-56

Ricker referred to Meyer's immigration to America and his dedication to young citizens, taking personal interest in all of his students He also credited him with preserving the traditions of the school and community and his efforts to retain the high school in the village

Miss Ella Pottle, in behalf of the Alumni Association, presented Meyer with $200 "for when he takes his desired return trip to his native land"

Former students, Dwight Poppy, Gary Gerhartz and Lorraine Van Hoorn, entertained with vocal solos, while another former student, Russell DeLaHunt, Kaukauna, served as emcee.

Reminiscing

Principal Paul Dobias wished Meyer "much happiness and relaxation in his retirement" and joked about incidents from his days, 20 years ago, as a beginning teacher under Meyer

Meyer told the gathering, "This is the proudest moment of my life. My heart is full of gratitude and I hope you will stop to see me when I'm whittling on the porch"

During the evening, school officials, including board members active during the reorganization of the district long ago, were recognized.

Those arranging the affair were Reif, Mrs. Paul Westenberger, Mrs Leo Gerhartz, Miss Pottle, Mrs Marcel Head, Mrs William Van Hoorn, Clem Schumacher, Mr and Mrs. Dobias and Mrs Carl Reichwald

North Central Group Places Clintonville On Approved Listing

CLINTONVILLE — The senior high school has been placed on the list of secondary schools approved for the 1968-69 school year by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

This action was taken at the annual business meeting of the Association in Chicago on March 26. Principal Burr E. Tolles was notified this week.

The certificate of membership, which the school has now, continues in force so long as the school remains on the approved list.

For Stockbridge, Sherwood

Telephone Firm Gets Improvements Loan

SHERWOOD — A Rural Electrification Administration loan of $1,350,000 and equity funds of $299,820 were awarded to the Stockbridge-Sherwood Telephone Company here Wednesday, according to Rep William Steiger, R-Oshkosh.

The loan wil be used to finance facilities to improve service for 1,289 existing customers and 850 new subscribers as well as to replace overhead lines with buried cable in a major portion of the system, including 281 miles of line. The funds also will be used to construct additions to the central office buildings at Sherwood and Stockbridge, expand all equipment, and install additional toll facilities and direct dialing in the Stockbridge, Sherwood and Tisch Mills exchanges

Independent Firm

The company is owned by Telephone Systems, Inc., Madison, an independent concern servicing about 35,000 customers. Manager Merlin Haugestuen said a survey will be made next month asking subscribers if they would like complete one-party service included in the proposed improvements are some touch-tone telephones, where keys are punched instead of the conventional dialing.

Subscribers will be given the proposed timetable and rates for the project which are subject to Public Service Commission approval A 60 per cent return is necessary with 80 per cent of those favoring the improvements

Building Additions

Haugestuen pointed out the growth that the company has experienced in this area where 146 new subscribers were added last year He said the 850 new subscriber figure represents proposed growth over a five year period The firm has 545 subscribers on the Sherwood exchange, 374 at Stockbridge and 370 at Tisch Mills. Direct distance dialing is scheduled for July 2

A 26 by 54 foot addition is planned for the Sherwood facilities including garage and equipment building. The present offices will remain. The Stockbridge building also have an addition for more equipment.

The firm feels confidant subscribers will favor the improvements Officials pointed out that by 1974 they would be forced to install no more than four-party lines, so believe going to one-party lines now is more practical

Easements for private property right-of-way to install cable will be necessary and completion target date is set for early 1970.

Public Property Tour Scheduled At New London

NEW LONDON — An itinerary has been prepared by Ray Pelishek, public works director, for a tour of all city owned property by municipal officials Saturday.

Mayor S. W. Krostue instituted the tour upon taking office a year ago to acquaint himself and other city officials with the property the city owns and with its condition

A tour of city hall at 8 a.m. will open the tour which will end at 2:25 p.m at the Carr Museum. Twenty-three city owned buildings and properties will be visited

Council members and planning commission members are expected to join the mayor in the tour.

Post-Crescent News Service

MADISON — Intensive cross examination all day Thursday failed to budge a noted toxicologist from his position that DDT is safe for human health.

"No illness of any sort has been detected from DDT," Dr. Wayland J. Hayes asserted at a Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources hearing.

He discounted fear that the pesticide may be a cause of cancer. He refuted suggestions that it could disturb the liver, cause sterility, or bring on other long-term harmful reactions in the human body.

A member of the medical faculty at Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn., Dr. Hayes has done extensive research on DDT. He is an official of the World Health Organization, and a former chief of the toxicology division of the U.S. Public Health Service.

Second Full Day

It was his second full day on the stand as a defensive witness for DDT. Thursday was the 16th day of the hearing, which began in December on a petition calling for a ban on use of DDT in Wisconsin.

With other witnesses called today, there were indications that the hearing would run another eight or 10 days. Hayes was back to teaching at Vanderbilt today, but attorneys said they want to get him back for at least another day of questioning.

There was one interlude of fireworks Thursday.

It was touched off by the attorney for the DDT ban petitioners, Victory J. Yannacone, of Patchogue, N.Y. He lashed out at Hayes with shouts and arm waving shortly after the morning session had begun.

That evoked a prompt, stern rebuke from Maurice Van Susteren, hearing examiner for the DNR.

'Cool Off"

"Cool off!" Van Susteren ordered. "Histrionics have no place here. I will have no badgering of witnesses."

Yannaconne, who is leading a national crusade against DDT use, took the hint. The rest of the day he was about as gentle and patronizing as a kindergarten teacher.

The mild, grey-haired Hayes answered each question in a patient manner. Frequently, however, he began with the phrase "as I told you before. . ."

The New York lawyer probed Dr. Hayes for details and conclusions concerning DDT research he had described in previous testimony.

One phase of Dr. Hayes' work involves volunteers at a federal prison who were given massive doses of DDT for a year and one half. Another was with a group of factory workers who had been exposed to large quantities of DDT. He also has made extensive observations with field workers and with animals.

Hayes said that with animals, dosages of DDT can be pushed up to the point of causing death.

No lasting harmful effects have been observed with humans involved in controlled tests, Dr. Hayes asserted. He did not rule out suicide or accident, however.

"There have been some cases of death by drinking DDT solution, but evidence shows that they die from the solvent rather than DDT. It is possible, of course, that DDT could cause death in man if enough is taken," he remarked.

Volunteers receiving large doses of DDT have reported a sensation around the mouth and tongue. With increasingly larger doses, there was tingling in the fingers and toes, tremor, and finally a feeling of alarm or fear, Dr. Hayes said.

Yannacone alluded to evidence that DDT concentrations have been found in bodies of some cancer victims.

"In experiments with rats, we are able to increase the concentration of DDT by starvation. In cancer," Dr. Hayes explained, "there is, in fact, an element of starvation—a wasting away."

Van Susteren contributed an observation at this point:

"You are saying that DDT did not cause cancer, but that the wasting away caused the DDT concentration?"

Dr. Hayes said that he was merely passing on an observation made in the report of another researcher, Dr. William Deichmann, a toxicologist at the University of Miami.

No Evidence

The witness refused to concede that DDT might be affecting any organ of the body adversely. He maintained that not a shred of reliable evidence has been produced.

"But there's abundant evidence that DDT does stimulate all parts of the nervous system under sufficiently large doses," he said.

Dr. Hayes contended that DDT is a safe pesticide from the human standpoint. He did not say that it cannot cause sickness if the degree of exposure is high.

$13,000 Price Set on Final Tract for Mosquito Hill Park

A rural New London couple was awarded $13,000 Thursday for a 20-acre farm which is part of the Outagamie County Mosquito Hill preserve.

The award was made by three court-appointed commissioners following a second day of testimony Tuesday on the county's condemnation proceedings.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Magolski were seeking $25,000 and the county was offering $2,800, based on an appraisal sometime ago.

Also testifying on the hill and swampland were Edwin Krause, Town of Liberty assessor; Michael Jolin, Appleton land developer; Donald Mathewson, Appleton licensed surveyor; Herman Jennerjohn, Appleton real estate broker and land developer; Lawrence Thern, Liberty town supervisor; George Peotter, Appleton land appraiser, and Charles Hervey, chief park planner of the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission.

The decision can be appealed to the Circuit Court by either party.

The 20-acre parcel, located in the northwest portion of the preserve, was taken over by the county in September of 1968. The proceedings were to determine a price.

It is the final piece of land on which the county had to make settlement.

Pacelli '9' Wins Over Weyauwega

WEYAUWEGA — The Stevens Point Pacelli baseball team scored an 8-2 victory over Weyauwega High School here Thursday.

John Kedrowski hit a 3-run homer in the first inning, and Larry Fox slammed a 2-run circuit drive in the fourth to pace the winners' 8-hit attack. Rojkowski, a right-hander, pitched a 7-hitter for the win. He struck out seven and walked one.

Jack Meidl drove in both Indian runs with a single. Jim Biddion and Dave Wagner collected two singles apiece for Weyauwega. "Chip" Wall, the losing pitcher, fanned five and walked fuor.

Northern BABA Opens Season With Full Slate Sunday

WITTENBERG — The northern division of the Badger Amateur Baseball Association will open its season Sunday with Wittenberg at Almon, Eland at Birnamwood and Hatley at Elderon.

William Lenzner, Birnamwood, has been elected president of the division. He succeeds Charles Theix, Almond.

Team managers are George Hanke, Wittenberg; Lewis Brown, Elderon; Wally Schultz, Almon; Eugene Wesolowski, Hatley; Joe Kwiatkowski, Birnamwood, and Arlyn Warning, Eland.

Eland was last year's division champion with a 10-2 record. Birnamwood was the play-off winner.

Fish and Game Club Plans Trap Shooting

NEW LONDON — Trap shooting will open at 12:30 p.m. Sunday at the Fish and Game Club grounds north of here along U.S. 45.

Shooting will begin at 6:30 p.m. Tuesdays during the summer. A city trap league is planned again this year. The range is lighted.

Alternates Are Offered for Waste Disposal

corner of Grand Chute. A second was a 500-acre landfill in the northwest corner of Grand Chute and a 160-acre site in the southeastern part of the Town of Buchanan.

The report indicated the landfill choice appearing most satisfactory was a site in northwestern Grand Chute and two transfer stations, one west of Neenah and one between Kaukauna and Combined Locks.

Composting and rail haul of solid wastes were found to be less advantagoous than the other alternatives, the report said.

The report indicated that it has been assumed in the report that bonding would be used. Amortization of the bonds over 20 years at 5 per cent was used for computing the "cost per ton" for each alternative.

Large Increase

White told the technical advisory committee there will be 3½ times as much solid waste in this area in the year 2000 as in 1968. Average per capita solids waste generation is projected to increase from 35 to 50 pounds per day. COG population projections put the Fox Cities area population at 352,000 in the year 2,000 compared with 154,000 in 1970.

The report added that many current solids waste disposal sites are inadequate and "will not be able to continue operation because of non-compliance with state standards.

Unless private enterprise enters the picture with more expansion, "joint action on the part of all affected governmental units will be needed to effectively deal with the solids waste disposal problem."

White also presented the report on the storm sewer proposals, which included alternatives on size. Wayne Ekrose, Donohue resident engineer in the Fox Cities, said the firm favored the system which would handle the worst storms in a 25-or 50-year period.

"We recommend you buy the extra protection because the extra cost will not be proportionate," he said.

U.S. Suffers Heavy Losses in Aircraft

SAIGON (AP) -- The U.S. Command announced today that 23 helicopters and 10 fixed-wing planes were lost in the Vietnam war during the past week. It was one of the more expensive weeks for America's aerial forces.

Most of the helicopters were shot down, and the others were lost in collisions or enemy attacks on U.S. bases, headquarters said.

At least two of the planes were fighter-bombers reported shot down earlier. The command gave no details about the other losses.

The report said a total of 2,585 U.S. helicopters and 2,681 planes now have been lost in the war.

A U.S. spokesman also announced that 38,000 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese killed since the Viet Cong spring offensive started Feb. 23, and American and South Vietnamese forces since the first of the year have captured

2,500 Rockets

--2,500 rockets and 110,000 mortar rounds, "more than the enemy has fired countrywide in the same period."

--2,500 tons of rice, enough to feed 50 battalions of 500 men each for four months.

--20,000 individual weapons and 3,000 crew-served weapons.

Although the U.S. Command did not say the enemy offensive was over, the spokesman said the heavy losses had forced the enemy to reduce his offensive operations.

"We estimate that the enemy's activities have decreased because he did not have any other choice," the spokesman said. "The primary reason for this, as you may have noted in the weekly statistical summaries, is that the enemy has suffered about 38,000 killed since Feb. 23.

"These are serious losses which exceed his losses during the same time frame following initiation of his offensives in both May and August of 1968..."

Since Peace Talks

Roughly one-third of the total American and enemy casualties in eight years and four months of fighting in Vietnam have occurred in the year since the United States and North Vietnam agreed to talk peace.

Saturday is the first anniversary of President Lyndon B. Johnson's announcement that Washington and Hanoi had agreed to send negotiators to Paris. Ten days later, on May 13, 1968, preliminary peace talks opened.

In the 52 weeks of fighting from April 27, 1968 through last Saturday, April 26, a total of 12,440 Americans and 153,779 of the enemy were killed in action and 79,793 U.S. troops were wounded, according to U.S. Command figures. South Vietnamese headquarters reports 14,367 of its troops killed and 52,526 wounded in that year.

The U.S. Command says that since the United States entered the war in force on Jan. 1, 1961, a total of 34,446 Americans and 488,231 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have died in battle and another 221,012 Americans have been wounded.

Fizzled Out

U.S. military sources say the sharp reduction in American combat dead last week--to 163, the lowest total since Jan. 11--indicates the Viet Cong's spring offensive has fizzled out.

The offensive began Feb. 23, and senior U.S. staff officers feel it began petering out a week ago when the number of enemy rocket and mortar attacks considered significant dropped off to a low of 13. Since then there have been less than a dozen of these attacks a night, including only five reported Thursday night.

U.S. sources say North Vietnamese and Viet Cong units have fallen back to border areas to receive replacements for about 38,000 troops killed in their offensive.

"If they follow the same pattern," said one source, "They'll resupply, replace their losses, recuperate and I suppose prepare for another offensive."

Frontier Areas

Most of the enemy attacks reported during the past 24 hours came along frontier areas. Seven U.S. Marines were killed and 17 wounded in a day-long fight Thursday two miles south of the demilitarized zone. Initial reports said at least seven North Vietnamese troops were killed.

North Vietnamese gunners also sent nearly 100 rounds of rockets and mortars into the three U.S. bases near the Cambodian border, bases that threaten enemy infiltration routes northwest of Saigon. Over-all casualties were light, the U.S. Command said.

mum coverage, an AMA official said.

Minimum coverage might cost $400 to $600 for protection against claims of up to $5,000. Many hospitals insist that doctors with staff privileges carry at least $100,000 in insurance, and often more.

Speeches and articles by doctors and lawyers and files of the American Medical Association list a number of reasons for the filing of malpractice suits.

Among the most prominently mentioned are:

--With the number of doctors failing to increase as rapidly as the population, doctors are busier and the doctor-patient relationship is less personal than that of the sentimentally recalled family doctor.

--Lawyers pressing malpractice claims are paid a contingent fee; that is, their fee depends on whether they win the case, and then it is a percentage of the award to the plaintiff. This is said to encourage vigorous trial of a claim and pressing juries for big awards.

--Courts are more liberal in the type of evidence permitted in malpractice suits. In the past, it has been difficult to get a doctor to testify against one of his colleagues, but now textbooks and outside experts are permitted in court.

--Publicity given malpractice suits, whether the suits are successful or not, encourages others to file suits.

--The public has been oversold on the value of modern drugs and modern surgical techniques, so more is expected from doctors and hospitals than sometimes can be delivered.

Lawyers Reluctant

Sidney Robin, a member of a Chicago law firm which handles malpractice suits for both plaintiffs and defendants, said "most lawyers respect the medical profession and are reluctant to file a suit" in a malpractice case.

He said there is an increase in the number of cases filed because people are more aware of the possibility of malpractice action and it is "a bit easier to win."

Richard P. Bergen, director of the AMA's department of legal research, said the trend to higher awards to successful plaintiffs results from the fact that the public is aware that doctors have the highest average income of any professional group so juries decide "for the working stiff."

He said this trend also results in part from inflation (other jury awards also are up); the awareness on the part of the jury that insurance companies are going to have to pay and they resent insurance companies because of their experiences with them; and the knowledge among jurors that lawyers will get a third to half of any award.

Policies Canceled

The cost of malpractice insurance is especially prohibitive for young physicians starting their practice.

But more serious than the cost to this group and other physicians, Bergen says, is the cancellation of policies and the leaving of the malpractice field by some insurance companies.

Hirsh said the AMA is working on a medical accident insurance plan for patients which would eliminate the issue of negligence.

The cost for such insurance to the patient would be nominal, Hirsh said, and the plan would help curtail the rising malpractice premiums and costs.

Robin said this is a "shocking suggestion."

He said this insures the doctor and it is unreasonable to expect the patient to pay for such insurance when he is entitled to receive expert, prudent care from his physician.

'Indefinite Period'

Hickel Retains Former Lobbyist Who Opposed Conservation Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) -- A former lobbyist who opposed two conservation measures and later was hired by the Interior Department for two months as a high-level consultant has now been retained by Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel for "an indefinite period."

The Associated Press revealed last February that Hickel had retained the former lobbyist for the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, James G. Watt, after Watt testified against measures dealing with industrial water pollution and reclamation of strip-mined lands.

At that time, the Interior Department said Watt had been hired for two months as a $98-a-day consultant in organizing the department under the new administration.

Watt's two-month term ended March 26. Today he is still at the department and holds the title of special consultant to the secretary.

A spokesman said Watt is not in a policy-making position and his job continues to be one of advising on departmental organization.

"His initial two-month contract expired some time ago," a spokesman said Thursday. "He is now working on a day-to-day basis for an indefinite period."

As a lobbyist for business and industry interests last year, Watt opposed two pieces of conservation legislation supported by the Interior Department, then headed by Democrat Stewart L. Udall.

One bill, written by Udall, would have implemented new standards on industrial water pollution, requiring a minimum of two stages of treatment for municipal wastes and a "comparable degree of treatment" for industrial wastes.

Watt told the House Public Works Committee, which was considering the legislation, that if the federal government insisted on such standards, the federal government should have to pay for their implementation.

One congressional source responded: "He is willing to accept whatever industry has to do if the public will pay for it."

Strip-Mined Lands

Watt also opposed legislation before the Senate Interior Committee which would have provided for federal-state cooperation in reclamation of strip-mined lands.

In a letter to Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., committee chairman, Watt conceded that only one-third of the land in the United States which had been strip mined had been adequately reclaimed, but called for defeat of the legislation on the grounds that such reclamation "is a responsibility of the mining industry and local and state governments."

Both pieces of legislation still are pending in Congress.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A squad of Arab saboteurs from Jordan attacked an Israeli army emplacement today, there were skirmishes on the border of Lebanon and Cairo reported cannonading along the Suez Canal.

A military spokesman in Tel Aviv said two soldiers were killed and three were wounded in the saboteur attack near El Hamma on the Yarmuk River, a tributary of the Jordan southeast of the Sea of Galilee. Two saboteurs also were reported killed.

The spokesman said the Arabs struck with grenades and light arms. In retreating, they left behind a large quantity of mines and explosives, he added.

Serious Damage

At about the same time, a bomb went off in El Hamma, a hot springs resort now being developed, causing serious damage to a building, the spokesman reported.

The Yarmuk River area is ideally suited for guerrilla operations because the river is at a low level and surrounding bushes make good places for concealment. Earlier this week, an explosive charge blasted a bus in the El Hamma area, killing a Jewish laborer and wounding several other persons.

Farther north, the army announced two Arab saboteurs were killed and an Israeli soldier was wounded in clashes on the Lebanese border.

An army spokesman said in Cairo Israeli forces opened fire on Egyptian positions at El Tina north of El Qantara on the northern reaches of the Suez Canal cease-fire line. Egyptian forces returned the fire and the exchange continued sporadically for 3½ hours, the spokesman added.

Swap New Claims

Egypt and Israeli have swapped new claims and denials but have told Secretary-General U Thant they are trying to limit danger to U.N. observers along the canal. He had protested the exchange of fire across the canal endangered his observers.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser told a May Day rally in Cairo Thursday that Egyptian forces had destroyed 60 per cent of Israel's fortifications along the east band of the waterway.

Israeli Information Minister Yisrael Galili said Nasser's claim is a "clearcut but not unusual example of Egypt's mendacious propaganda."

Nasser also branded as a failure an Israeli raid Tuesday night on targets about 300 miles south of Cairo. He said warplanes, not commandos as the Israelis said, attempted the attack. He claimed the planes were turned back before they could do any significant damage.

This, said Nasser, demonstrated the improvement in Egypt's defense since last Oct. 31, when Israeli commandos damaged bridges, dams and a power plant in the same area.

Nasser said Egyptian shelling across the canal would continue until all the Israeli bases are destroyed. He hinted Egypt might launch a major attempt to retake the Sinai Desert, saying, "Who could blame us for moving into this land?"

Once more Nasser declared that the Arabs "will never give up any land occupied by Israel and particularly not Jerusalem."

"We will not accept that Jerusalem be annexed to Israel," he said. "We will fight to the last drop of our blood for the liberation of Jerusalem."

Nasser Countered

The Israelis countered Nasser's claims about the raid Tuesday night, saying an area Egyptian official showed foreign newsmen was not the target of their attack. An army spokesman in Tel Aviv said the Israeli commandos brought down six power-line towers and the power grid's automatic control center in attacks near Isna and Naj Hamadi 300 miles south of Cairo. Earlier, the Israelis said their men damaged the Naj Hamadi Dam and the Idfu bridge.

At U.N. headquarters a spokesman said Secretary-General Thant would issue a report to the Security Council today or Saturday on his "increasing anxiety for the safety" of the 92 military observers along the Suez Canal cease-fire line.

In letters to Egypt and Israel, Thant said unmistakably marked U.N. observation posts had "been repeatedly fired on by both sides" and U.N. property destroyed and damaged.

Nine Months Is About Time to Wean Baby

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any harm to the baby if it is nursed longer than a year? And is there any harm to the mother if during this time she does not menstruate? — C.A.B.

Babies are usually weaned by the ninth month — and ordinarily some soft foods already have been introduced at about the third to the fifth month.

The principal disadvantage of extended breast feeding is that the baby may experience more of a problem in learning to accept solid foods. A second one is that there is a tendency for more fat to be present in breast milk after prolonged nursing.

Thus I recommend weaning at the usual time (about nine months), although extending that time is not likely to create any very serious consequences. There is no harm to the mother from lack of menstruating during this time.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My granddaughter, 2 years old, has swelling of the joints. The doctor called it rheumatoid arthritis. We want to know what causes it and how to cope with it. — Mrs. C.T.H.

Rheumatoid arthritis can attack at any age. Children and even babies can get it. The cause is not known.

In its acute stage it requires skillful care by your doctor, perhaps in a hospital. Since it can flare up again unpredictably, you should have some information about the nature of the disease, and I strongly suggest that you read my booklet, "How You Can Control Arthritis," which deals with rheumatoid as well as other types of arthritis. For a copy of the booklet, send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Thosteson, care of this newspaper.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is the slow leukemia which older people develop contagious? Someone once mentioned that leukemia is slightly contagious. Which kind? The type that kills children? — Mrs. O.K.

There is no indication that the "slow" leukemia is contagious at all. And in the rapid type which attacks children there is no proof of it, but only a suspicion raised because some — not in all instances — clusters of cases, half a dozen or so, seem to have occurred in the same locality.

We do not yet know the cause of either type of leukemia. We cannot say positively that either is contagious. If it is at all, it is only extremely slightly so.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there a disease called valley fever? What causes it? Is there a cure or does it last a lifetime? Can you get it from close contact with a person who has it? I know a young girl who says she has it and am wondering what the future has in store for her. — H.M.

Valley fever is caused by a fungus (coccidoides) which causes symptoms similar to influenza. It is particularly prevalent in arid parts of the West and Southwest.

It is usually contracted by breathing dust containing the fungus, and not likely to be transmitted by personal contact.

It varies in intensity; many patients didn't know they had it until X-ray disclosed patches or "spots" in the lungs. In more severe cases, treatment is with amphotericin B. Skin tests are used to help identify the malady.

Apparently your young friend is well now, and there is no reason for her to expect further trouble from the attack.

Credit Rules to Follow If Caught in Computer

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Since December 1968, my husband and I have been in an infuriatingly frustrating fight with the computers of the famous sporting goods store, Abercrombie & Fitch, over who-charged-what-and - how-much-to whose-account. As of this date, May 1, 1969, we have not yet paid our Christmas bills. Repeatedly over the months, we pleaded for corrections in the statements so we could pay up; repeatedly, Miss Z., the supervisor in charge of adjustments at A&F, promised my secretary that our accounts would be straightened out at once. Finally, about 10 days ago, my husband wrote a letter of complaint to the president of A&F.

This morning the corrected statements came in — and now in May, we will pay December's bills.

Must be Other Incidents

Now five months into this year, we will again consider charging in A&F (we have been avoiding the store).

You probably can dwarf my tale of woe with your own horror stories about your battles with non-thinking computers and the over-worked and-or inefficient employes who run them.

There's no mistaking the rising consumer uproar about this. What's more, I know we have been comparatively fortunate we have not been intimidated; our credit rating (as far as we know) has not been undermined by our failure to pay our bills.

Porter

But what should you do if your charge account is caught in a computer nightmare? Here are 10 guides for you I just obtained from Ethel Langtry, the brilliant vice president in charge of research for the National Retail Merchants Association.

(1) — Do not pay your bills until you have received the merchandise, unless it is precisely what you ordered and until you've made sure your bills are in order. "Just don't pay," says Miss Langtry. "Clear up the situation first."

(2) — Send a letter giving all details of your complaint to the adjustment department. You can get the proper department identification and names from the store. If this doesn't bring prompt service, write to the president of the store.

"Do not write your complaint on the top of your bill head," warns Miss Langtry. "Write a separate letter." And put in all the facts. Do not mail your precious sales records, of course.

Write — Don't Phone

(3) — It's much better to write your complaint than to telephone it or call in person, for it gives the store time to check it through. If you do telephone, do not talk to the phone operator; talk to an adjuster, and get her (or his) name.

(4) — Don't worry about your credit rating; other stores will understand. But if you are concerned, notify the local credit bureau why you've not paid; send a carbon of your letter of complaint.

(5) — If interest is added to a bill which is overdue only because you're waiting for adjustments, don't pay it. Subtract the interest charged before you pay.

(6) — Get receipts when you return merchandise and keep them. Don't pay the bills until your returns have been deducted.

(7) — Save your duplicate sales slips!

(8) — Use your store charge cards. They carry a number as well as your name which makes it tougher for the computer to mix up your account. The NRMA is working on a "one card" charge for all stores in the same region to simplify today's multi-card maze.

(9) — Be especially careful about your charges during peak seasons when the personnel will be overworked and undertrained — i.e., back-to-school as well as Christmas-Easter periods.

(10) — When answering a letter from a store, always refer to the person who signed it. This will channel your letter properly.

Miss Langtry believes the worst of the computer nightmare is over; few big stores in New York City, for instance, are still in bad trouble. Maybe so — but you can get caught, and if so, these guides will protect you.

Migration to California?

The United States Supreme Court has ruled that states cannot require a waiting period for residents who seek welfare aid. Governor Ronald Reagan of California has reacted that his state is going to be flooded with welfare seekers in the winter months.

The decision, he says, "is nothing less than a bonus for migrating to California — merely to get on our welfare rolls. It would make it possible for them to winter in the mild states and summer in their original states. I can see in winter where someone was literally subsidized in transferring himself and his situation to California."

It may be news to Governor Reagan but there are quite a few Americans, even welfare recipients, who do not see California as a heaven on earth.

There's Berkeley where student riots, sitins, clashes with police and seizing of university property was born. There's the San Andreas Fault and the possibility that the whole state may slide into the Pacific one fine morning. There's Haight-Asbury, drugs, the endless, jammed expressways, hippies in Palm Springs. And there's smog.

It is true that California's welfare payments are the second highest per recipient of any state in the nation and average four times as much as those paid in Mississippi. But we rather doubt that there will be a wholesale migration of a new generation of Okies to a place where it sometimes rains—heavily—in the winter.

Who's Confusing Who?

There seems to have been a remarkable lack of coordination in the dispatch of several aircraft carriers and at least one battleship to the Sea of Japan after one of our reconnaissance planes was shot down by North Koreans.

The presence of so many American ships upset the Soviet Union which had been helping to search for possible survivors. It added more fuel to the Japanese opposition to American military bases in Japan and Okinawa. The Red Chinese warned that China could expect an attack by Russia or the United States when it was announced that the fleet was being transferred from the Sea of Japan to the Yellow Sea which lies between Korea and China.

Then there was the announcement that future spy flights would have adequate protection. But General Earl Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told a House subcommittee that keeping the task force in the area would be "inordinately expensive." And then Senator Henry Jackson said it was being dispersed and there never had been any intention of sending the task force into the Yellow Sea after all.

Perhaps the aim of all this has been to confound and confuse the enemy. It certainly has confused a lot of Americans.

Crisis in Bolivia

President Rene Barrientos Ortuno was a courageous and dashing figure in his native Bolivia. Of greater importance was his effort to bring democratic government to Bolivia at a time when military coups are far more popular in Latin America.

And so President Barrientos' death in a helicopter crash is a severe blow to the cause of democracy not only in Bolivia but in all of Latin America.

Early in his career, Mr. Barrientos sided with the National Revolutionary Movement which opposed the control of the Conservative and Liberal parties and the involuntary servitude in which the government kept its 2.5 million Indians, two - thirds of the population of Bolivia. Later he was a member of a patriotic underground movement. Elected to the vice presidency in 1964 with Dr. Victor Paz Estenssore as President, he fell out with his former revolutionary companion, helped to depose Dr. Paz and won the presidential election himself in 1966. Whatever personal ambition General Barrientos had, he bitterly opposed the continued control of the "haves" over the Bolivian peasants. And he successfully repelled an attempt by Communist elements, led by Che Guevara, to take over the country. He was also able to withstand right wing charges that his whole government was an agent of the Central Intelligence Agency. He discharged his military cabinet last fall and installed a completely civilian one which he thought would be closer to the people.

The far left and far right are bound to try to take advantage of President Barrientos' death and Bolivia is probably not far enough along the path to representative government or the tradition of peaceful change to get through the crisis without considerable trouble.

Stiffening the Marriage License Laws

Legislation designed to stiffen the requirements for gaining a marriage license in Wisconsin has received backing for at least one interesting reason — to make "shotgun" marriages more difficult to be legalized.

Pregnancy is not a good reason for marriages, according to an official of the Home and Family Council. The argument that a quickie marriage is necessary so that the resulting child is not illegitimate is not valid, it is argued, because a child born out of wedlock becomes legitimate at the time of marriage. Bills proposed include raising the minimum age for females from 16 to 18 and lengthening the license waiting period from 5 to 30 days.

We support such changes in the marriage laws. Marriage is not something to be rushed into, despite the romanticizing of wedlock to which our society is exposed through mass communications. An agreement made for life requires mature consideration, and lengthening the period to a month's time would force at least 30 days to be spent considering the consequences of exchanging rings. It is also entirely possible that our divorce rate would be lowered by such a move. If a couple become illegitimate parents and love each other, they can wait until the legal age before marrying. They will have to learn to discipline themselves if they are to be mature adults. The mistake of an early marriage will not make up for the mistake of premarital sexual relations.

Nixon Using Horse Sense When He Refuses to Follow Fulbright Advice

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

Sen. J. William Fulbright is again living nicely into the pattern which makes him the pet of the Red propaganda machines. As so often, the Iron Curtain radios are quoting and applauding the chairman of our Foreign Relations Committee, this time for Fulbright's leadership against the missile defense proposal.

When President Nixon — like Presidents Kennedy and Johnson before him — refuses to follow this strange thinker's advice about Red China, the Soviet Union, etc., Mr. Nixon is showing horse sense. And, like Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Johnson, he's showing courage, too. For Fulbright glows among that section of our talking-teaching-writing intelligentsia that always screams whenever the President, any President, warns us about the Reds.

The chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee may be excused a few specific lapses. When hearing this impressive title on all but a banner, he went off to Australia and announced in Canberra, the capital, that he wasn't familiar with Australia's troop contributions to the Vietnam war. The Australian press pinned his ears back — as well it should. Why send our troops, the Australians asked, if the chairman of the U. S. Senate Foreign Relations Committee, no less, doesn't even know more about Australia's efforts than that?

Taylor

LIST OF GAFFES

Fulbright's appalling list of color-blind gaffes is long — fluttering up Tito in the world's newspapers on a visit to Belgrade, condemning our firm Berlin policy in a speech in London, and even publicly demanding that President Truman resign after the 1946 Democratic Congressional election setbacks. Oh, yes, Fulbright did this. And with similar lack of realism or something, he totally misjudged Fidel Castro, the Santo Domingo Red putsch, Red President Joao Goulart in Brazil, and Nikita Khrushchev, Mao Tse Tung and Ho Chi Minh to boot.

Senator Fulbright has been at this sort of thing ever since the Bay of Pigs, in which he played an important part in demanding that President Kennedy cancel the air cover over the Cuban Freedom Fighters stranded on the horrible beach. And we hear him still rationalize the Communist menace, not only in Vietnam but throughout the world and, in effect, soften us up on its methods and danger. The gap between Fulbright's color-blind representations and the plain, ugly facts grows wider and wider.

I know Sen. J. William Fulbright went to Oxford. What I don't know, who does?, is what he studied. But if he got his so-called liberalism there it is mighty dangerous to the United States. On the record, he's as mixed up as the gypsies who cry at christenings and dance at funerals.

Somehow the Senator makes it sound as if communism has something, and that we'd better realize this. What it has is tyranny. And what the Communists want to do — as they themselves announce — is to chop the United States down to size. We are the only country they fear.

Why doesn't Senator Fulbright explain that Communists do not govern satellite countries; they pillage them — mentally, emotionally, spiritually and economically?

If he is really a liberal, why doesn't he insist that human liberty is so clearly the central issue of our day that accommodations with the Red tyranny seem almost treason and certainly treason to the human spirit?

RAPE OF RELIGION

If Fulbright is really a liberal how can he ignore the Reds' rape of religions? Rabbis protest the horrible anti-Semitism. Or listen to Czechoslovakia Catholic Bishop Paul Hnilica: "I have seen and felt the persecution."

If Senator Fulbright actually has the toga of scholarship that he so grandly wraps around himself, why doesn't he help to teach all of us the simple truth? And why does he constantly play into the hands of our enemies' propaganda?

The present applause for Senator Fulbright is merely typical. The Hanoi radio constantly quotes him to the resisting South Vietnamese and, worse still, to our men fighting in Vietnam. So does Radio Moscow. So does Radio Peking. So does Radio Havana. Moreover, Senator Fulbright knows this.

President Nixon — like Presidents Kennedy and Johnson before him — is very patient not to have called a spade a spade regarding the publicity achieved by the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. And so are all others who see the enemy-strengthening effects of this color-blind, muddleheaded man.

Too Much Talk About Sex Already

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

Our children do not need sex education in school, especially in grade school. There are things to be taught in school. Sex is not required. We wonder why kids are as they are today.

Kids are being pushed by everyone, even their parents, to grow up. Nothing is hushed up when little ones are around as it used to be. How can they act and think as little children when they are thinking as grown ups? A mother wrote to Dear Abby and said that her 8-year-old daughter is mad because her mother won't buy her a bra yet. Some mothers do buy these for their little girls, why I'll never know.

There is so much talk about sex. We'd all be better off hearing less. We sure won't have better young people by having more sex education. We already have too much sex education and it's not helping our children to become respectable young people. There is no respect among some young people. Love without respect is void.

I have a lot of respect for young people who are trying very hard to live decent lives with temptations all around. It's not easy. With God's help and guidance the young can still be able citizens of which we are greatly in need.

Looking Backward

Evils of Intemperance Show

10 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for May 8, 1869.

It is hardly probable that President U. S. Grant, if he lives, can continue to exercise the Executive Office through the year.

We learn from Washington that his condition excites alarm in all circles. He is evidently sinking into a state of confirmed melancholy and "absent-mindedness." His physicians say he is tobacco-poisoned, but they cannot induce him to abstain or even moderate his depraved appetite for the "noxious weed."

Quid nunes say that he also suffers from the effects of former intemperance in the use of liquor. His case, result as it may, is a terrible warning to the young men of the Republic against the evils of intemperance.

25 YEARS AGO

Friday, April 28, 1944.

New officers of the Seymour 4-H Club were Janet Schroeder, president; James Hittner, vice president; Virginia Lotter, secretary - treasurer; Ardys Karrow, reporter, and Rogene McBain, song leader. Appointed to an executive committee, besides the officers were Vera Mae Weishoff and Ralph Huth.

Bowling champs of the Fox River Paper Corporation were the English Bonds composed of Everett Wagner, Cornelius Meyer, Willard Grimmer, Otto Kirk and Connie Delrow.

Champions in the Women's Sunday Night League at Kaukauna were the Look Drug Store Bowlers. They were Hazele Scheller, Marian Seger, Isabelle Lopas, Marjorie Benzschawel and Ruth Alger.

10 YEARS AGO

Schreiter, 44 Other Board Members Should be Praised

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

How can some people be so oblivious? During the past week there have been two or three articles (and I'm sure there will be more) in regard to the pornography issue here in Appleton. It seems to me most of these articles have been directed towards a certain family by the name of Schreiter. Whether it be John or Bob Schreiter I don't think anyone has the right to call them "lord god" Schreiter.

These men are only trying to make our city a better place in which to live. Evidently at the County Board meeting last week forty-four other fellows also voted in their favor. Only one gentleman voted against them. I pose the question — are these forty-four men also to be called 'lord gods'."

I do realize that people have the choice to judge what is right or wrong for themselves. I also believe Bob Schreiter is one of the few men with enough "guts" to bring this pornography issue out into the open in front of the mass media. Apparently some of you "so-called adults" don't really care what gets into your child's hands. The Schreiters do; so do forty-four members of our own elected County Board.

Thank God for such fine men as they are — too bad there aren't more like them!

18-Year Voting Age Attracts No Visible Support in Madison

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Four months after the convening of the legislature, there is little to show that its members are any more anxious to lower the voting age from 21 years than were their predecessors who defeated the proposition regularly over a couple of decades.

On the face of it, support for the plan has grown in the state and in the country, as shown by public opinion polls, on the one hand, and the approval of the idea if not the letter of the proposal in the 1967 legislature. Lawmakers, then, it will be recalled, gave approving votes to a younger voting age to each house. But the propositions voted upon were not the same. Thus, the separate acts of the two houses had no effect.

Some persons acquainted with the political habits of politicians could conclude that there was a method and a purpose involved. The politician is a cagey fellow. He must be, to survive in a chancy profession. It might be that the men in the legislative chambers in 1967 were not yet persuaded that they wanted voters to become eligible at a younger age, but yet wanted a bill on hand to show critical young people if they were challenged.

In any event, there is no showing this legislature that there is any special interest in the subject, although the usual propositions to reduce the age to 18 years, or 19 years have been offered.

OTHER DISABILITIES

One of the obstacles to reducing the voting age below the traditional benchmark of 21 years, as noted here on other occasions, is the associated problem of modifying the age of majority in numerous other laws.

Old enough to fight, old enough to vote," has become kind of a cheerleader's cry in the campaign for a more liberal rule on the franchise during the long period of world disorder and conflict and the enlistment of millions of non-voting Americans into the armed forces. It has made an impression on public opinion.

But the clear-headed legislator is obliged to recognize that many other laws create disabilities for minors — with respect to involvement in contracts, entitlement to consume alcoholic beverages, and the possession of public office, among others.

Are all of those persons who say they believe in a voting age of 18 or 19, for example, also prepared to say they want to repeal such other civil disabilities of minors? It appears doubtful. In fact, Assemblyman George Molinaro, author of one of the bills to liberalize age requirements for voting and to make 19 years the legal age for majority, carefully avoids proposals to repeal other restrictions. The legislature, under his proposition, would be directed to study those other modifications of law that might suitably be made to conform with the new age of majority, he suggests.

There will be plenty of resistance to many such propositions. The Young Republican Federation of Wisconsin the other day expressed its support for a 19 year drinking age. Will the legislature, or any legislature likely to sit soon, repudiate the local option ordinances that now restrict liquor to persons 21 years and over?

MORE VOTING?

The claim is repeatedly made that young people are more enlightened, more concerned about public affairs, and obviously better educated in the formal sense than were their forefathers, and that they would vote in great numbers if given the right.

The Young Republicans heard cogent comment on that point by the state party chairman, Ody J. Fish, who like Gov. Warren Knowles and others is on the record as favoring an 18-year-old voting age.

Four states now have voting laws permitting persons under age 20 to vote, he noted. But none of them even distantly approached the ratio of electoral participation last fall that was achieved in Wisconsin with its 21 year rule. One had 51 per cent participation, against about 61 per cent for the country and 68 per cent for Wisconsin.

Fish argued that merely giving people the right to vote doesn't assure that they will do so. It was a useful reminder. It is useful also to remember that under Wisconsin law the voting age cannot be changed unless ratified in a referendum when the voting will be under present rules. There is reason to doubt that many older persons, disenchanted with the youthful rebels of today, will be easily persuaded.

Freedom of Choice Vital To Education

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

Both my wife and I had the opportunity to attend both private and public schools in our state. We feel that both forms of education aided us in becoming good citizens and parents.

We know educational costs are increasing. We however feel we should have a freedom of choice in education which is being denied now due to the economic pressure we face as property owners and taxpayers. To relieve some of the pressure we support the Tuition Grant Bill 346. We hope your paper gives us your support also.

Freeze on Teacher Pay Vital to Winneconne

Editor, The Post-Crescent.

Having defeated a $2,500,000 High School referendum last December the taxpayers of the Winneconne School District will be asked to approve a less expensive ($2,000,000) referendum on May 5.

With increases in property taxes of 18 per cent in 1967, 20 per cent in 1968 and an anticipated increase of 12 per cent in 1969 it is quite likely that the taxpayers will again reject a referendum that would mean an additional burden in taxes.

The rejection of this referendum for the building of a new high school would have to be attributed entirely to the ever-increasing taxes in the school district, particularly in the past few years with the bulk of the expenditures going for teacher salary increases. The 73 full time elementary and high school teacher salaries in the Winneconne School District now average $9115 annually as compared with the national average of $8160 for high school and $7676 for grade school teachers, according to figures obtained from the U. S. Department of Labor and the National Education Association.

With the cost of living in the Winneconne area being lower than in metropolitan areas it stands to reason that teacher salaries in the area should be lower, not higher. Since the Winneconne area has no industry whatsoever to help subsidize school expenses, the taxpayers, including a large segment of farmers and retired people who have to live on fixed incomes, are being pressured into higher educational expenditures than they can afford. It is a well known fact that teachers from other areas and states are aware of the high salaries paid in the Winneconne School District and some have even moved here from other states for this reason.

The solution for the entire problem of building a new high school in the Winneconne School District can be solved only if the following resolutions are adopted:

(1) Set a temporary "freeze" on all teacher salary and other benefit increases until they are more compatible with the national teacher salary average and the area taxpayers' incomes.

(2) Replace present school board president and any members who do not give the local taxpayers equal consideration.

(3) Adopt a 12-month school and teacher work year, with allowance for holidays and vacations, as in private industry. The present 9-month school year, most likely adopted when young people were needed on farms, is outmoded and now more so because of the ever increases in taxes.

(4) Reduce present school expenditures by hiring part time teachers as outlined in the "Part-Time Teachers" report issued by the Catalyst in Education, 55 E. 92 St., New York, N. Y. 10028.

The Winneconne school board only recently agreed to contribute twenty dollars, tax money, per month for life insurance for each teacher. Private industry employees and others have to pay for their life insurance. Teachers are now working only nine months each year and enjoy more benefits than employes in private industry, and yet they keep demanding and getting more and more out of the taxpayer each year. Being organized as they are the teachers are taking undue advantage of the taxpayers. Not organized at all, the taxpayers must put a stop to this unreasonable escalation at the ballot box, and the sooner the better

Delay of Winneconne School Is Expensive, Frustrating

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

As everyone knows, a second referendum is coming up May 5 on the issue of a new high school at Winneconne. This is one place in our tax system over which the voters have local control.

There is very little of anything new to say about the need of a new school. People won't believe the crowded conditions. They have failed to come to be informed on the issues. Only half of the parents voted in the first referendum even though they should feel more responsible.

Many argue that we cannot afford more taxes. Unfortunately the children are the ones who will suffer the lack of adequate facilities, much the same as crowding results in runty farm animals. Yet farmers have been known to borrow money to give their stock more room to develop. How important are our children?

We can get by a couple of years, perhaps, without building, but church basements are a poor substitute for classrooms in a school. When worse comes to worse, we could go to a split shift in which high school students attend in the morning and junior high in the afternoon. Then some would get on the bus at 6 a.m. and some return at 6 p.m. This is a very frustrating situation. But we could have it if we continue to vote down referendum after referendum. Also, added buses and teachers would greatly increase administrative costs and some day we still would have to build a school after all that aggravation became unbearable. With costs of building speedily rising, we would end up with less room for more money, and be faced with still another building program years too soon again.

A yes vote now would be less frustrating, more sensible and cheaper in the long run.

Reaction to Rogers' Bill

Newspapers Protest Equal Space Proposal

MADISON (AP) — An equal-space proposal for newspapers, likened to the equal time provision governing broadcast media, drew protests Wednesday from newspaper representatives.

Assemblyman William J. Rogers, D-Kaukauna, has submitted a bill which would require any newspaper publishing an unsigned letter critical of an election candidate to provide the candidate with equal space for a pre-election reply.

Carl Zielke, executive secretary of the Wisconsin Press Association, said the bill is unnessary because newspapers are "just as responsible for what appears in the 'voice of the people column' as in their editorials."

"If a newspaper prints an unsigned letter, it generally knows who the author is," he said.

Wade Boardman of Madison, counsel for the Wisconsin Daily Newspaper League, said such a requirement might even "suppress the voice of —the electorate."

Rogers told a hearing before the Assembly Elections Committee that his bill would protect candidates who are "abused by papers which print unsigned letters."

Assemblyman Earl McEssy, R-Fond du Lac, said it might help discourage what he called a practice of persons' not signing their names to political accusations.

"It's just a bunch of grumblers who are ashamed to admit what they're grumbling about," he said.

The committee took no action.

Hillard Weiss

retires with the unique distinction of being the last employe able to work out a full half-century with the Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co.

That's because he started working at 15, three years under the 18-year minimum employment age today. With retirement set at 65, the most any employe can reach now is a total of 47 years.

Weiss actually "grew up" with the present power firm. When he started, it was the old Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power Co. He began as a helper in the gas department where his father, John Weiss, worked before him.

Through the years, Hillard Weiss has worked in every department. He even ran the old trolley car on the "cemetery run," helping out while the motorman ate his lunch. This was a fun job for young Hillard, who considered himself lucky whenever this chance came.

Weiss helped set up the power firm's first repair shop in the basement of the old Woolworth Building on College Avenue. This was in 1924, a year before the firm name changed to the Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co.

Weiss retired as an appliance repairman.

Youth Found Innocent Of Contributing to Minor's Delinquency

A six-member Outagamie County Court jury Wednesday afternoon returned an innocent verdict for an 18-year-old route 1, Black Creek, youth charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Michael W. Zarnoth was charged by Outagamie County authorities who alleged he and a 16-year-old Pulaski youth who had run away from home, broke into George Olson's cabin, in the Town of Maine, and stayed there about a week. The alleged offense occurred early last month.

The jury heard testimony nearly all day, but deliberated only about 20 minutes.

Medical Society Happy Over Appleton Drug Plan

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

Two years ago, the State Medical Society established a Division on Alcoholism and Addiction. In those several years, it has become apparent to the division that the indiscriminate use of a variety of drugs by youth has been increasing in an alarming manner.

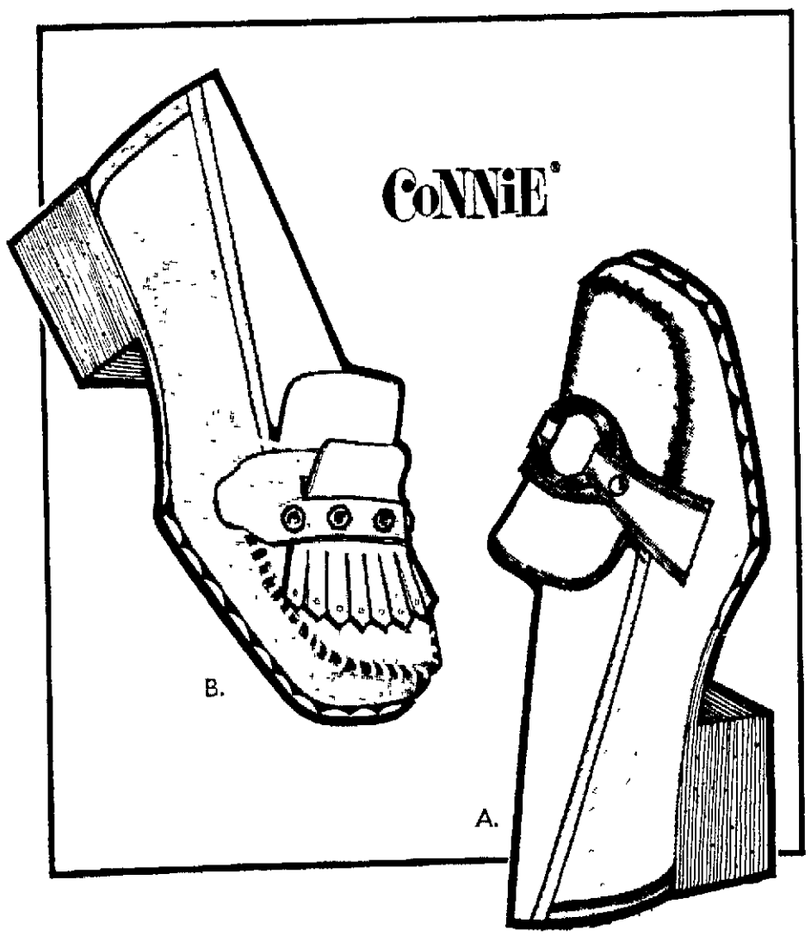

It was felt that one of the primary ideas of the division of the State Medical Society would be to develop a model program in a community, using community interest and resources, after which other communities which were serious about drug information and prevention programs could pattern themselves.

The citizens of Appleton volunteered and have carried through in this effort. The response of the community has been gratifying indeed and the community — its adults and its youth — is to be commended. Not only will Appleton benefit, but hopefully, other cities as well which show the same initiative and dedication.

We are particularly happy that the chairman of our division on Alcohol and Addiction, Dr. Darold A. Treffert of Winnebago, has been able to make a contribution to the Appleton program.

We have been pleased to be a part of this effort.

W. D. James, M. D.

Von Papen, Former German Head, Dies

Diplomat Instrumental in Rise Of Hitler to National Power

OBERSASBACH, Germany (AP) — Former Chancellor Franz von Papen who helped pave Hitler's way to power and later won acquittal at the Nuremburg war crimes trials, died today, his son reported He was 89 years old

Von Papen became seriously ill early in April His son said the illness was aggravated by his advanced age He died at his secluded home in this Baden village

Von Papen regarded as something of a lightweight in the German politics of the early 1930s, was as responsible as any one man for bringing Adolf Hitler to power, though that probably was not what he meant to do

In a chaotic political situation in June 1932, President Paul von Hindenburg appointed Von Papen chancellor. But he resigned that fall after elections showed Hitler's Nazi had made great gains though still not enough for a Reichstag majority

Nearly Bankrupt

The Nazis were nearly bankrupt then, and Von Papen arranged a meeting of Hitler and Baron Kurt von Schroeder a Cologne banker apparently won the idea of putting Hitler and the Nazis in his debt He persuaded Schroeder and his colleagues that the nation's best hope was a coalition government of Nazis and nationalist rightists In a short time a fund of four million marks was raised for Hitler's party

Von Papen then went to his old friend, President Hindenburg and convinced him that he should summon Hitler to be chancellor and make Von Papen his deputy Hitler and two others were the only Nazis in the government formed Jan 30, 1933, and Von Papen said it was deliberately fashioned that way to keep Hitler in check

But Von Papen, the record shows, sat in Cabinet meetings at which the Nazis gradually substituted the concentration camp for the rule of law He assailed the Nazis in a public speech in 1934 for muzzling the press, interfering with religion and encouraging fanaticism

Blood Purge

Two weeks later, Hitler gave orders for the blood purge of June 30 in which more than 100 persons were shot Von Papen and his wife and office staff were held virtual prisoners for three days, and one of his closest aides was murdered Von Papen quit as deputy chancellor and there was speculation that only Hindenburg's intervention saved his life

Nevertheless, Hitler sent Von Papen to Austria that August as a special emissary and he worked for peaceful union, or anschluss He was recalled on May 10, 1938, the day before the anschluss was achieved by force

Later he was sent to Turkey as ambassador with the task of keeping that country from joining Germany's enemies in World War II This he succeeded in doing until 1944 His achievements in this field won him the sobriquet of "the sly gray fox of German diplomacy

In April 1945 with Germany going down he placed himself in the path of American troops to be captured, hoping to head a government for peace negotiations Instead, he was imprisoned and brought to trial on war crimes charges before the International Military Tribunal in 1946

Wins Acquittal

The court acquitted him of plotting war said he was guilty of grave "offenses against political morality" but added that under its charter it was unable to punish him

In 1947 a German denazification court convicted him of being a major Nazi offender, sentenced him to eight years in prison and confiscated his extensive property. But in 1949 an appeals court ruled he was only a minor offender, decided the four years he had spent in detention was sufficient punishment and restored his property, except for a $9,000 fine. He also was barred from politics

Von Papen published his memoirs in 1952. Critics and historians labeled the volume largely apologia and special pleading with scant value as history

Up to the the end the old man was attempting through a court fight to win recognition for his service to the state, he was suing for a pension as a former army officer

Military Career

Von Papen was born Oct 29, 1879, to an aristocratic, Roman Catholic, Westphalian family with a lineage traceable to Charlemagne. He first chose a military career, in the general staff field

During World War I he was German military attache in Washington and in 1915 was declared unwelcome by the American government on accusations that he was paying secret agents inside the United States, advancing German interests in neighboring Mexico and on suspicion of engineering several acts of sabotage in the United States

On his return home Von Papen was transferred to active duty in the Somme and rose to lieutenant colonel before the war ended He also fought in Palestine

Four daughters as well as his son survive him

Former German Chancellor Franz von Papen, left, is shown with Adolf Hitler in 1934 when Von Papen was serving as vice chancellor and Hitler as chancellor Von Papen, who became seriously ill last month, died today at 89 (AP Wirephoto)

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The U.S. Mother of the Year will be announced Saturday, climaxing individual contests in all 50 states, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia.

Another Sit-In at Columbia

Campus Turmoil Remains

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Administrators are invoking the rule of law against disruptive students at some of the nation's college campuses but the wave of spring turmoil shows little sign of letting up

Twenty-nine black law students at Columbia University began a sit-in Thursday night in the law school library less than 12 hours after members of Students for a Democratic Society left two buildings they had seized Wednesday

About 100 protesters ended a sit-in at Stanford University in Palo Alto, Calif., when 100 policemen were deployed outside the building

Court orders were served on Dr Buell G Gallagher, president of City College of New York, asking him to show Monday why the 20,000-student school should not be reopened It has been closed nine days as black and Puerto Rican students barricade half the campus

Building Closed

Security guards at Columbia closed the law library after members of the Black American Law Student Association entered the building and said they would hold an all-night "study-in"

A spokesman for the students said they would not block others from using the library He said it was called to dramatize their attempt to negotiate grievances "on certain matters concerning institutional policies with respect to black and minority students"

He added, "At no point have we been able to secure concrete responses to the position we have advanced" He declined to spell out his group's demands

Earlier, about 200 SDS members climbed out the windows of Fayerweather and Mathematics halls, minutes after arrest warrants were issued for the Many wore bandannas over their face in an attempt to avoid being identified

Under Sheriff William Kehl said all would be arrested on contempt of court charges for ignoring an injunction against disruptive demonstrations An official at the 17,500-student school said 30 protesters had been disciplined

Acting President Andrew W Cordier said There will definitely be no amnesty after the studied broken furniture piled in barricades at doors to the two buildings SDS was demanding a larger role for Negroes in admissions procedures and an end to the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps and military recruiting on campus

At Stanford demonstrators ended their protest against military research on campus after a policeman entered Encina Hall and ordered them out No arrests were made

Separate School

Gallagher continued negotiations at City College over protesters' demands for a separate school of black and Hispanic studies and enrollment of more minority group students There are about 4,500 Negroes and Puerto Ricans at City College Demonstrators say the enrollment should match New York high schools which are 40 per cent nonwhite

At other campuses

Jackson, Miss.—Fourteen Negroes were arrested after a melee broke out near all-Negro Jackson State College Dr John Peeples the school president said the trouble began in a fight between students and dropouts

Police reinforcements closed the area and students returned to the campus Crowds of young Negroes ransacked one store and broke windows in two others

New York—The trustees of Cornell University, where armed blacks held a campus building for 36 hours two weeks ago directed President James A Perkins to apply "firm and appropriate action" against tactics of terror

New Haven, Conn.—Kingman Brewster Jr president of Yale University, told a student-faculty meeting, "Yale will not break its legally enforceable contracts" with ROTC He noted, amid a chorus of boos, that the contracts required one year's notice to terminate

An SDS adviser had introduced a resolution calling on Yale to sever all connections with ROTC

TV Industry Won't Act To Limit Cigarette Ads

WASHINGTON (AP) — The television industry, acting as a congressional hearing into the smoking and health controversy drew to a close, says tighter voluntary controls on cigarette advertising are not necessary for the time being

The Television Review Board of the National Association of Broadcasters said Thursday it had "decided to keep the matter of cigarette advertising under continuing review and that no further actions are necessary at this time The Board action was taken Wednesday a NAB official said

Current voluntary NAB controls ban smoking commercials aimed at the young endorsements by athletes and the making of medical claims

The NAB also said it feared that action at this time might appear to some to be merely a strategic maneuver designed to influence congressional action referring to the House Commerce Committee's just concluded inquiry into the cigarette labeling act

Broader Authority

The last witness Thursday was Robert B Meyner director of the cigarette industry's advertising code who said past performances by the Federal Trade Commission raise questions about letting it have broader authority in the field

The FTC has served notice it wants to toughen warnings on cigarette packages and extend it to advertising

The Federal Communications Commission also has suggested such a ban.

The Globe and the Christian Science Monitor are the only major daily newspapers to have a ban on radio and television advertising of cigarettes

Both are contingent, however, on Congress turning loose this authority. The agencies, and states as well, are pre-empted by present law from making any changes in cigarette advertising This section, however, expires on June 30

The tobacco industry wants to extend the pre-emption on an indefinite basis, thus thwarting the agency proposals, and also wants to keep the present warning that smoking may be a health hazard on the pack unchanged

Meyner said the cigarette industry's review board looked over some 24,143 advertising submissions and 1,815 were disapproved or withdrawn

Rep Harley O Staggers, D-W Va., committee chairman, said it would be some time before his unit begins to reach the stage of deciding what action to take

The television and advertising industries have a large economic stake in the outcome of the controversy Nearly $240 million was spent on television ads last year by the cigarette industry

However, some independent television groups have dropped all cigarette advertising. They were joined Thursday by a major metropolitan newspaper, the Boston Globe, which announced it would accept no more cigarette ads

Ella Logan Dies at 56

Scottish Singer Made Name on Two Continents

SAN MATEO, Calif (AP) — Singer Ella Logan the tiny Scottish lass who performed in musical comedy for a generation across Europe and America, is dead of cancer at 56

Miss Logan who scored a Broadway hit in "Finian's Rainbow" in 1947, died Thursday in Peninsula Hospital

She had undergone surgery for cancer in 1966 Two weeks ago she learned the disease had returned, said her daughter Mrs Philip Quinn of nearby Belmont

Miss Logan only 4 feet 11 inches tall, launched her career at the age of three on the stage at Paisley in her native Scotland Her first musical comedy was "Open Your Eyes"

She became a headliner in Europe's most fashionable nightclubs A favorite of King Edward VIII when he was Prince of Wales she often danced with him while appearing in London clubs

In 1932, she came to America to carry on her career on Broadway and in Hollywood

She starred in George White's "Scandals," Olsen and Johnson's "Sons of Fun," and "Calling All Stars" Her Hollywood musicals included "The Golden Follies," "52nd Street" and "Top of the Town."

She married Hollywood producer-writer Fred Finklehoffe in 1942 Twelve years later the marriage broke up and Miss Logan was awarded their $100,000 home and $6,000 a year alimony after charging he hadn't taken her out in seven years.

Gives Hint at Appleton Conference

Lake to Lake Officer Says Merger Possibilities Are Being Considered

Lake to Lake, the huge Manitowoc-based dairy cooperative, is currently studying merger possibilities.

Lester Black, Sheboygan, the firm's treasurer made this point clear speaking at the Cooperative Marketing Conference of the Wisconsin Council of Agricultural Cooperatives. The conference was held Thursday at Appleton Technical Institute.

"Our directors," he said, "have been instructed to study the feasibility of joining other co-ops."

He said the cooperative would not necessarily join the American Milk Producers, Inc., proposed giant Canada-to-Texas dairy marketing combine.

The AMPI proposal was described by Black as being an altered form of a plan proposed two years ago. He said the original plan was rejected because it included only part of the Grade A dairy producers in the state.

"One of the major stumbling blocks," to the present proposal is distribution of equity in operating dairy cooperatives he said. Lake to Lake Dairy, Consolidated Badger Co-op, and Wisconsin Dairies Cooperative, Baraboo, each have large equities.

Black also discussed the structure of the Chicago Regional Milk Marketing order.

Marketing Structure

He said under the order, operating cooperatives joined with the Pure Milk Association to form a Central Milk Sales Agency to allow pooling of milk and coordinate shipping to the Chicago market.

He said the Central Milk Producers Co-op was formed as a federation of cooperatives to announce prices.

"We haven't been completely successful," said Black, explaining lawsuits are now pending against 12 dairies for marketing violations.

Farm Credit

Another speaker, Verne Olson, agricultural officer at Citizens Bank of Sheboygan, explained the uses of farm credit.

Olson said "Credit serves as a tool," which can aid in achieving increased income, and in purchases but that "can be a financial liability," if used unwisely.

Olson said "it is up to individual banks to bring their programs up to date," to accept farm loans. Use of correspondent banks can enable smaller banks to extend large loans to farmers, he said.

"A number of expansion and modernization plans have been received," he said, adding "we expect this trend to continue."

He said success and modernization create "expanded credit needs" for farmers. Technical know-how and management ability of farmers are now key factors in decisions to make loans, said Olson.

Livestock marketing was discussed by Peter E. May, assistant general manager of Equity Cooperative Livestock Sales Association, Baraboo.

"The key word in agriculture today . . . is change," said May. He said as farm methods change "We in the marketing business have been confronted with the same change."

Market Trends

Farmers must pay close attention to livestock market trends to compete with larger modern producers said May. "Co-ops give the farmer the advantage of bigness in marketing, he said.

Many farmers do not pay close enough attention to markets, according to May. Modern markets call for uniformity and regularity in demands. Grading of livestock and regulated selling is vital to achieving good prices, he said.

Other conference speakers were Floyd Doering, Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, and Dwaine Dickinson, Agricultural Records Cooperative. Both are form Madison.

Milk Tank 'Bargains' Can Be Expensive

Used Equipment May Result in Trouble Of Weighing Devices

"In spite of the fact that used farm bulk milk tanks are now readily available, the purchase of a used tank may result in unexpected expense and trouble for its owner," warns Don E. Konsoer, director of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture's Weights and Measures Bureau.

"Some state milk producers have installed bulk tanks they thought were 'real bargains,' only to discover that the milk weights, as determined by the measuring devices used, are not correct," Konsoer states. He points out that measuring errors may be caused by improper installation, faulty calibration or by charts and measuring rods belonging to other tanks.

"In some cases," Konsoer continued, "a complete re-calibration of the tank is necessary and a new chart must be prepared. This expense is often greater than the price of the 'bargain' tank."

Orrin Bergen, farm milk tank specialist with the weights and measures bureau, offers these guidelines for milk producers planning to buy a used bulk milk tank:

Buy from a reliable dealer who will guarantee tank accuracy.
